Girl Hit By Car Dies On Way to Hospital

Playmates See Fatal Accident

Child, 6, Runs Out In Street

Before the horrified eyes of her sister and another playmate, Bonnie Jean Baker, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Glen Baker, 953 Herring avenue, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when she was struck by a car in front of her home in Roseland.

She died en route to General hospital as the result of a basal skull fracture, authorities said.

The girl was struck by a car driven by Harvey G. Williams, 44, of Mansfield, R. D. 1. Williams was traveling southwest on Herring avenue when the girl ran in front of his car, patrolmen said.

The Baker girl had been playing with her sister and a neighbor boy in the yard in front of her home. She grabbed the boy's hat and ran into the street in front of the car, patrolmen said.

RUSHED TO HOSPITAL

Williams took the girl to General hospital, but she was dead upon arrival there. Hospital officials summoned patrolmen and sheriff's deputies.

The Baker child's death marked the 19th traffic fatality in Richland county this year. Last year at this time there had been 25 fatal accidents in the county.

The girl was born in Mansfield Nov. 24, 1942. She attended the first grade at Bowman school.

In addition to her parents, she is survived by her sister, Barbara; her grandfather, B. A. Baker of Johnsville; and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Shipley of Johnsville.

Funeral services will be held at the Finefrock funeral home at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday. Burial will be in Shauck cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home until time of services.

Truck Blast Kills 2 Men

THROCKMORTON, Tex. — (AP) — A truck hauling explosives was blown to bits four miles south of here yesterday, killing its occupants and another man. Still another truck driver was injured in the blast.

The truck ran into a ditch and disintegrated with a great rumbling roar that was plainly heard 15 miles away. The shock rattled windows in this city, 65 miles northeast of Abilene.

More than an hour after the blast the explosives truck had not been identified. The driver, and other occupants if there were any, were blown to pieces.

Known dead was Willis Buchanan, Throckmorton rancher, who was driving nearby in his pickup truck. A big trailer truck, also in the vicinity, was thrown off the highway. Its driver suffered a badly mangled arm.

The explosion knocked out electric service in Throckmorton for a few minutes, set a grass fire and dug a huge crater. Pieces of the truck left at the scene were no larger than a man's hat.

Father, Son Break Legs

ASHLAND — A Mansfield Tire and Rubber company worker and his son suffered broken legs last night when their car failed to make a curve and crashed into a tree.

In Samaritan hospital with a broken left leg were Harry Hughes, 52, of Perrysville, and his six-year-old son, Robert, whose right leg was broken, Ashland sheriff's deputies said. Their condition was reported as fair by the hospital.

Deputy Sheriff McKinney said the Hughes car, going south, failed to make the sharp turn at Moherman's corner, crashing into a large tree.

TRUCE HALTS STRIFE

BUCHAREST, Romania—(AP) —A three-day truce called yesterday halted, at least temporarily, a week-long struggle between Zionists and anti-Zionist left-wing Jews in Romania.

Land Suit Mapped By City

The city will institute condemnation proceedings soon after the first of the year to obtain a piece of land needed to extend East Fifth street from Snyder street to the Ashland road.

City Solicitor C. J. Kalbfleisch said the Mansfield Telephone company will be legally informed within the next few days of the fact that city council has passed a measure declaring its intention to appropriate the land.

"The company will be given a reasonable length of time to reply, and then I will file condemnation papers in Common Pleas court," Kalbfleisch said.

He added that if the company continues to refuse to sell before the first of the year, the proceedings will be filed much sooner.

NEEDED FOR PROJECT

The city has sought the land for more than a year. It is needed to put the one-way traffic system proposed by Traffic Commissioner Frend V. Boals in effect.

Boals has said the system will not function properly unless that piece of land is acquired.

The Mansfield Telephone company previously told the city that it will not sell. Company officials said they had improved the land and were going to use it to store materials. They allege that if they sell the strip of land asked by the city, the rest of the land will be worthless to them because it will reduce the frontage on Ashland road.

Service-Safety Director Earl T. Garrison recently wrote telephone company officials, asking them to reconsider their refusal to sell or negotiate. He said they have not replied to his letter.

At a council meeting Tuesday night, Kalbfleisch will be given the go ahead signal if council approves a measure determining to proceed with the condemnation action.

Death Claims Last to Hear Noted Speech

GETTYSBURG, Pa. —(AP)— Edward A. Trostle, the last-known surviving Gettysburg resident who heard President Lincoln's immortal address here on Nov. 19, 1863, is dead.

Trostle was four years old when he heard the address. He attended ceremonies recently marking the anniversary of the speech and a few hours later was struck by an automobile.

He died of the injuries Friday night at the age of 89.

Insane Dad Kills Child

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Police said a young father went berserk yesterday, stomped his baby son to death, picked up his six-weeks-old daughter and flung her ball-like against a wall, then brutally cut up his estranged wife and her parents.

Dead is Paul Raymond Jensen, 18 months. In Harbor General hospital not expected to live is Jenean Jensen, six weeks. She also was stabbed, police said, and picked up out of her crib and hurled against a wall.

The babies' mother, Mrs. Helen Jensen, 31, also was in the hospital with face and chest stab wounds as were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bodner.

She and her husband were recently estranged. Yesterday, he came to their house and a violent quarrel took place. The husband, Raymond E. Jensen, 32, pulled out a knife and started stabbing his wife and her parents about the chest and face. Next he stabbed his son and then kicked and stomped him to death. He then picked up the infant daughter and slammed her against the wall after first stabbing her. He then fled.

Ship Victims Still Sought

Vessels Find Few Survivors

SHANGHAI —(AP)— With the death toll estimated at 3,200 persons following the explosion and sinking of the Chinese steamer Kiangya in the Yangtze estuary, small craft continue to search for possible survivors.

Six Chinese tugs and former landing craft still searched the scene 80 miles northeast of Shanghai last night, although it was considered unlikely that they would find additional survivors after more than 24 hours in the chill, wind-lashed waters.

One of the survivors, who were brought ashore in small numbers throughout the day, said two junks passed nearby just before the explosion. He expressed belief they had cast loose a mine, but this was only speculation.

Survivors said many persons were trapped below decks by the explosion and sudden sinking. The radio was knocked out instantly, so no distress call was sent.

Bulletin

BERLIN — (AP) — United States Air Force headquarters announced today (Sunday) an American C-54 airlift plane crashed at Fassberg in the British zone of Germany, killing all three crewmen. The four-engine Skymaster crashed shortly after taking off. The cause of the crash was not immediately established. The names of the victims were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Barber Shop Boogie!

Harmony Blenders Play to Full Houses

Ten quartets alternately impressed and amused a crowd of 2,000 people in the "Harvest of Harmony" programs staged in two school auditoriums last night.

The program contained everything from the old familiar "Sweet Adeline" to burlesqued renditions of grand opera. Whatever they sang, the order of the evening was close harmony, brought to Mansfield by the top men in the field.

The audience at John Simpson Junoior high school numbered 1,200 to fill virtually every seat in the house. The smaller auditorium at Senior high school drew about 800 people.

And Mansfield seemed to love its first show of expert barbershop quartet singing. During the first half of the program encores were taboo, but during the last half, encore after encore was called for by waves of continuous applause.

Mansfield's "Staff Riders" opened the show, sponsored by the SPEBSQSA, by singing "Around to Mary Ann's." The Mansfield foursome is comprised of Maurice Stretch, tenor, Bing Chamberlain, lead, Glenn Secrist, baritone, and Richard Hamilton, bass.

Next on the program came the Memory Laners of Canton. They engaged in fast-moving and hilarious routines. They were followed by the Yachtsmen of Lakewood, a quartet featuring Jack Wells, bass, and an expert on the lowest notes ian the scale.

The Steel Benders of Lorain gave out with two numbers and accompanied the songs with a great deal of bodily expression. The comparatively new Tigertown Four of Massillon followed, and the Tom Cats, also from Massillon, came next bringing a new twist to the show—first they sang their parts individually, then they blended them into a harmonious whole.

Next in order came the Buzz Saws, of Columbus, district champions last year, the Jolly Fellows, of Dayton, district champions this year, the Doctors of Harmony, of Elkhart, Ind., 1947-48 international champions, and the Pittsburghers, current international champions.

Master of Ceremonies was Bob Richards and Gil Hiett, members of the local SPEBSQSA chapter.

The second half of the program consisted of repeat performances by the Tom Cats, Buzz Saws, Jolly Fellows, Doctors of Harmony, and Pittsburghers.

The two programs ran 30 minutes apart in the two auditoriums. Performers were shuttled from one school to the other in a fleet of six taxicabs.

BANDIT GETS $10,000

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — A gunman escaped with about $10,000 last night as he held up a cashier of an exclusive ladies clothing store when she was about to put the money in the night deposit box of a bank.

Espionage Evidence Revealed

Claim Secret Army In U. S.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The House Un-American Activities committee decided late yesterday to reopen its communist spy hearings on the basis of sensational new evidence found hidden in a pumpkin.

At the same time, the committee issued a pamphlet which declared that an estimated 800 American communists, trained in Moscow, are "high officers of a secret army now being drilled to overthrow our government."

The pamphlet, titled "100 things you should know about communism and education," did not say where the "secret army" is being trained in the United States.

But it did say that hand-picked officer candidates are trained in Moscow in sabotage, bomb-making, train wrecking, civil warfare, "and other methods of wrecking a country."

The committee's new red espionage hearings will open Tuesday afternoon. They are expected to center around microfilms of secret government documents, found in a hollowed-out pumpkin on the Maryland farm of Whittaker Chambers, who previously testified he was a member of the communist underground in Washington before the war.

Robert E. Stripling, chief investigator for the house committee, said evidence will be presented to show who gave the secrets to Chambers.

Chambers, now a senior editor of Time magazine, has testified he renounced communism in 1938.

The committee's pamphlet on communism and education is one of a series and is presented in question and answer form.

It declared that many communists and fellow travelers have bored into the American educational system where they constitute "a deadly danger."

Strike Riot Facts Bared

Union Admits Auto Caravan

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — (AP) — The president of the Kalamazoo CIO United Steel Workers yesterday told a congressonal subcommittee he did not approve of last Wednesday's violence at two struck Shakespeare companies' plants here.

The union official, Stanley Glance, added he did not know that the invasion of 200 to 300 unionists which preceded the violence was scheduled.

C. Lawrence Boyle, who said he was union field representative in charge of the strike, said the companies were violating federal law by importing strike-breakers from other states "and possibly even Mexico."

"It is absolutely untrue that we are importing strike-breakers," replied William Balz, company vice-president.

The union, striking for security since Sept. 7, to get changes in the seniority and probationary provisions in its contract, has admitted sending a caravan of cars to the plant Wednesday.

Union officials characterized the incident as a "rally."

He was arrested three days later trying to sell them.

Yesterday he was sent back to jail for 13 months.

Plane Crash At Willard Injures Two

Stalled Motor Causes Accident

WILLARD — A stalled motor forced a small plane to crash-land on a farm south of here Saturday afternoon, resulting in minor injuries to the pilot and his passenger.

Injured were Gene Frederick, 24, of 534 Spangler street, Willard, the pilot, who suffered lacerations of the head, and his passenger, Jack Barnett, 26, of 40 Norwood street, Norwalk, who suffered bruises, the Bellevue state highway patrol said.

Both were taken to Willard hospital, where their condition late last night was said to be fair.

The plane crashed about 3:15 p. m. into a cornfield on the farm of Lee Buckingham, one and three-tenths miles south of here. Patrolmen said the plane, a primary trainer, landed on the left wing, breaking it.

The force of the impact ripped the motor out of the plane, throwing it nearly 10 feet from the crashed plane. The left landing gear was broken off in the crash.

Patrolmen said the plane was the property of the Heisler airport here. It was damaged "beyond repair," they said.

Plane Takes Trip, Leaves Pilot Home

PENNINGTON, N. J.—(AP)— A small red and yellow plane took off without a pilot from Pennington airport last night and was headed south toward Philadelphia, state police said.

The plane, with a two-and-one-half hour supply of gas, was last seen at an altitude of 3,000 feet and still climbing. Police said it was flying without lights and probably would make a crash landing.

Charles Peyton, deputy inspector for the State Department of Aviation, said he was at the field at the time and saw the plane roar away from its handlers, climb slowly into the sky and turn south as if under perfect pilot control.

Peron Faces Voting Test

BUENOS AIRES —(AP)— President Juan D. Peron's political strength after two and a half years in office will be tested directly today in a national constitutional election.

Voters in Argentina's 14 provinces and the federal capital —the city of Buenos Aires— will elect delegates to an assembly for the purpose of amending the constitution.

Peron and his Peronista party favor changing the bill of rights, while the opposition stands firm in defense of the constitution adopted in 1853.

With two major opposition parties abstaining because of what they claim is a lack of liberty in the pre-electoral campaign, Peron's followers are expected to capture a majority of the total 158 seats at stake.

Steal King's Trees

CAMBERLEY, Eng. —(AP)— Two Londoners were jailed here on a charge of stealing 1,000 of the king's Christmas trees. Police intercepted the pair while they were London bound in a truck loaded with trees from a crown forest at Deepcut.

Hundreds Flee From Buildings

Tremor Covers Large Area

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— A rolling earthquake, centering in isolated hills a hundred miles east of here, sent hundreds of Californians rushing out of their homes late Saturday.

The quake, as severe in intensity as the disastrous Long Beach shakeup in 1933, occurred in a much less populous area. By midnight there had been no reports of deaths.

In the San Bernardino mountains north of Banning, it caused landslides and broke chunks of pavement on a road leading to the Morongo Indian reservation.

In the winter resort town of Palm Springs, some 20 miles to the south, police said the rear end of a furniture store collapsed, plate glass windows were broken, slate slid off a roof.

Other cities in the general area —Twenty Nine Palms and Indio, among them, reported severe shocks and much consternation.

PRISONERS RELEASED

In Indio, the police desk sergeant released his prisoners into the jailyard, a liquor store reported heavy damage as stocks tumbled to the floor, merchandise bounced off shelves in markets. A bank vault was sprung in Twenty-Nine Palms. Pavements showed cracks.

Only the isolated nature of the country, said the experts, prevented serious damage and possible loss of life.

The tremor was felt in a band extending from Santa Barbara and Fresno on the north to San Diego and El Centro on the south, and east to the Colorado river.

Tremor Jars Grid Fans

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Notre Dames mighty Irish were held yesterday to a 14-14 tie by Southern California's Trojans, and ten minutes after the game a real earthquake shook huge Memorial coliseum, but matched the rumbling of events in this vast concrete bowl as 100,571 people saw unbeaten Notre Dame lucky to escape with a two touchdown deadlock in a 60-minute battle.

The tie was gained in the final 30 seconds of this 20th renewal of the Irish-Troy series.

The stadium had just emptied itself of the howling mob, all on the verge of hysteria after seeing a winning touchdown and a tying touchdown scored in the final moments of the contest.

High on the rim of the stadium, the press box seemed to waltz dizzily back and forth, the chalk white stripes on the field below seemingly—and perhaps they did—to move in crazy, reverse review

And the scoreboard showed: Notre Dame 14, USC 14.

Auto Bumped Across Street

LEXINGTON — A car, stopped for a red light, was knocked for a distance of 36 feet late yesterday afternoon by another car, sheriff's deputies reported.

They said Owen Ruhl, 34, of Bellville, R. D. 2 had stopped at the light on State Route 42 and Frederick street, when a car driven by Edward Wagner, 59, of Lexington struck his car from the rear.

Ruhl's car was knocked up the hill by the impact, but no cars were in the intersection at the time. Neither man was hurt. Deputies said the accident was still under investigation.

KILLED AT CROSSING

LIMA —(AP)— Miss Judia du Fresne, 58, of Lima, was killed last night when struck by an automobile while crossing an intersection.

Simulated Attack to Promote Recruiting Drive

Fighter Squadron to 'Bomb' City Airport

Mansfield Airport will be "bombed" today.

That was the word yesterday from Capt. William O. Ash, commanding officer of the 164th Fighter Squadron of the National Air Unit stationed here.

Everything about the attack—the rendezvous, the flying in, the "bombs away"—will be real but the bombs. They will be simulated.

The maneuvers are being planned by B-26 bombers from Columbus, Dayton and Mansfield to point up the current recruiting drive of the 164th, which has set a quota of 50 more men by Jan. 1, the recruiting deadline.

As a "cover" for the four B-26's, a fighter squadron of 25 F-51's, will rendezvous with the the bombers at Greenwich, and fly in from the north to Mansfield airport at 2:45 p. m.

Although it is called "mock bombing," or a practice air attack, the entire procedure will be according to Air Force rules and regulations governing a real air raid, Capt. Ash said,

Following "bombs away", the fighter planes will fly low to "strafe" the airfield.

After the attack the squadron will fly to Columbus and there split up for the trip to home bases.

If the goal of 50 recruits is reached by Jan. 1, the Mansfield unit will have 353 officers and air men, making it the youngest and also the largest in the state. It now ranks second only to Dayton.

Although the 164th is housed in temporary quarters at the Airport, it is expected that the new air base will be ready for occupancy by early spring.

Cost of the new base, originally set at $1,000,000, has been "upped" to $1,300,000 because of a revision in cost estimate and additional facilities added to the first specifications.

The "show" today is open to the public but Mansfielders who wish to watch the "attack" should be at the airport by 2:30 p. m., Capt. Ash said.

MRS. FLOYD BARBER

In a formal service Nov. 26 at the St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church, Miss Melba Mae Schlupp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Schlupp, 510 Central avenue, became the bride of Floyd A. Barber, Grace street, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Barber, Hamden. Following the ceremony a reception was held at Liberty park pavilion. They are now residing at the Central avenue address.

Formal Ceremony Held Saturday For Miss Boehmler and Richard Fisher

AN EXQUISITE GOWN of bridal satin was chosen by Miss Ruth Evelyn Boehmler for her wedding to Richard Earl Fisher, Saturday at 3:30 p. m. at St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church. The gown had a round yoke which extended far out over the shoulders and was beaded in a lovely design in pearls and long pearl drop beads. The yoke extended all around the dress to the back and closed with very tiny buttons down the back to a medium torso. The extremely full circular skirt swept into a very long train. The bride wore a one strand pearl necklace and tiny pearl earrings, gifts from the bridegroom. She carried a white lace handkerchief belonging to the bridegroom's mother.

Miss Boehmler used the lovely lace veil worn by her mother at her own wedding. It was appliqued in the corners in satin and was attached to a pearlized band of orange blossoms. The lace veil was worn over a full length French imported silk illusion veil which extended far beyond the dress.

The couple exchanged nuptial vows before an altar banked with palms, two large all white beauty baskets and white altar vases filled with white snapdragons, stocks and gladioli. Two seven branch candelabra were placed on each side.

The Rev. John C. Melchert officiated for the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Helen Heston presided at the organ for the half hour of nuptial music and Mrs. Wanda Hess Donnan, a ffiend of the bride, was the soloist.

Miss Boehmler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boehmler, 566 Lexington avenue, and Mr. Fisher is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Fisher, 269 West Sixth street.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, carried a modern arrangement of white carnations, sno-white roses and a white orchid in the center as a going away corsage.

Mrs. Fred Schifer, Bucyrus, was the matron of honor. Miss Ruth Copeland, Miss Marilyn Kessell, Miss Ruth Kiamy and Miss Rhea Ohl, all friends of the couple, served as bridesmaids. They were attired in electric blue taffeta. They were Elizabethian in style, the skirts being boufant and were built out over crinoline hip pads and three large puffs extended down the back of the skirts. The necklines were low in front with upstanding collars around the back.

The girls carried little round muffs of white fur and wore bonnets matching their gowns trimmed in white fur.

Freida Gebhart, Ashland, was the flower girl. She wore a white taffeta gown and carried a little muff of blue taffeta with fur trim and wore the same style hat as the other attendans.

Vanda orchids were placed on each muff.

Larry Hammaker served as ring bearer, wearing a white jacket with dark trousers.

Mrs. Boehmler chose an aqua dress with black accessories for her daughter's wedding. She had a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Fisher wore a grey dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Joseph Dech, close friend of the bridegroom, was the best man.

The guests were escorted to their pews by Richard Kuhn, John Robert Cole, George Caton and Fred Schifer, all friends of the couple.

Two hundred and fifty guests were present at the reception held immediately following the ceremony in the church parlors. The five tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom centered the table. White pompons were placed at the base of the cake and two three stepped candleholders with white candles were at either end of the table. Mrs. Trudy Clark and Miss Dorothea McIntire, presided at the table. Miss Louise Pitts assisted during the reception. Miss Ursula Unterwanger presided at the guest book placed on a small table to one side of the bride's table. All the hostesses at the reception are friends of the couple.

For her honeymoon to an undisclosed destination, the new Mrs. Fisher wore a wine suit with grey accessories and a grey coat. The white orchid from her bridal bouquet was used as a corsage.

The couple will be at home after December 11 at 273 West Sixth street.

The bride graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and is employed as a clerk at the Westinghouse Electric corporation. Mr. Fisher is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school. He is employed as an apprentice in the tool room at the Westinghouse Electric corporation.

Out-of-town guests present at the wedding were from Bucyrus, Cleveland, Toledo, Columbus, Findlay, Crestline, Erie, Michigan, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Ashland.

Candlelight Service Solemnized For Miss Wilma Dinger and Michael Them

SOFT CANDLELIGHT intermingled with an arrangement of white mums and chrysanthemums, backed with ferns and palms, brought out the beauty of the all white wedding at St. Peter's Catholic church for Miss Wilma Dinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Dinger, 1162 Walker Lake road, and Michael Them, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sebastean Them, 1215 Walker Lake road, at 9:15 a. m. Father Conces officiated. Organ music was furnished by Robert Baum.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father.

For her wedding the bride chose a white slipper satin gown with a sweetheart neckline and tiny satin covered buttons down the front of the fitted bodice. The sleeves formed a point over the hand with a small button closing. From the bertha crown, attached by small satin covered buttons, extended a white silk illusion veil falling gracefully to the floor. The bride carried a white satin covered prayer book arranged with a large orchid which was used later for her going-away corsage. The only jewelry worn by the bride was a single strand of pearls.

Miss Angeline Miller, maid of honor, wore a white off-the-shoulder gown with full length sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of chrysanthemums and roses with white satin streamers.

Miss Darlene Them, flower girl, cousin of the groom, wore a white marquisette gown completed by a small basket of chrysanthemums and roses.

Robert Howath was chosen as best man and seating the guests at the ceremony were Robert Dinger, brother of the bride, and Joseph Them, brother of the groom. All attendants wore a white carnation boutonniere.

Immediately following the service the bride's parents were hosts at a reception at 1162 Walker Lake road for the immediate families. The centerpiece for the decorative table was a three tiered wedding cake with a topping of a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. Dinger chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of navy blue with navy accessories. Both mothers were wearing white carnation corsages.

For her going away outfit the bride changed to a black ballerina dress with a low neckline and her single strand of pears. She wore a finger tip white coat with a black hat with white and black trim.

On returning from a trip the newlyweds will reside at 1162 Walker Lake road, the home of the bridegroom's parents.

The bride is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and is employed at the Page Dairy company. Mr. Them is a graduate of the same school and is employed at the Westinghouse Electric corporation.

The Lucas Lutheran church basketball team would like to schedule games with Class B teams in the Mansfield area. F. L. Pore, phone Lucas 29R-22, is the Lutherans' manager.

United States and Europe Plan Athletic Lend Lease

NEW YORK—(AP)—The United States and Europe are planning a sort of "lend lease" program calling for exchange of athletic visits.

Under the setup, America's leading amateur stars make a tour of contental centers and Europe's best do their stunts in the U. S.

Encouragement of the exchange has been discussed by the amateur athletic union's foreign relations committee. The AAU is holding its 60th annual convention here.

While the athletic fathers were talking over the plan, steps were being taken for the first of the exhibitions.

It was announced that Mrs. Fanny Blankers-Koen, the Dutch housewife who was the feminine star of the 1948 Olympics in London, would compete in a number of indoor events in this country in January.

Mrs. Blankers-Koen won the women's 100 and 200-meter runs, the 80-meter hurdles and ran anchor on the winning 400-meter relay team in the games.

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the AAU's 31 national committees yesterday, James A. Rhodes, national president, urged greater participation by the United States in international sports affairs.

"We must attend the international meetings," he declared. "After all, we are the largest amateur sports body in the world but when it comes to diplomacy and diplomatic relations we are the smallest.

"Too often we depend on business men who happen to be traveling in Europe to represent us. We should show more leadership and send delegates of our selection at our own expense."

The Columbus, Ohio, mayor said it appeared to him that the international amateur athletic federation was controlled within a radius of 150 and 200 miles from Paris.

"This is our own fault," he added.

Rhodes, mayor of Columbus, Ohio, will serve for another year as president along with all other officers of the organization.

The nominating committee yesterday selected all incumbent officials as the slate for today's election winding up the annual convention.

Army Captain Honors Navy

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Navy's 21-21 tie with Army last Saturday drew mountains of praise from the football world, but the most stirring tribute of all has been paid by the Army team itself.

The winning team traditionally receives the football in use at the final gun. In case of a tie, a coin is tossed to decide the owner.

Army won the toss after last week's deadlock, but yesterday Navy Coach George Sauer disclosed his co-captains, Scott Emerson and Pete Williams, had received a letter from Army Captain Bill Yeoman.

Yeoman said he was forwarding the pigskin to the Naval Academy.

"We won (it) by chance," said the letter. "You get the football."

MAT MONARCH — At a salary of $25,000 a year, Ed "Strangler" Lewis, former heavyweight wrestling champion, becomes czar of the grunt-and-groan business. Lewis has been named chairman of the Wrestling Promoters' Association of America.

Millersburg Grid Fete Set Monday

MILLERSBURG — The Millersburg high school football banquet is scheduled tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. at the Church of Christ here.

Chuck Mather, coach of Massillon's state high school champions, will be the guest speaker, Coach Joe Banks of Millersburg announced last night. The banquet is sponsored by mothers of the team members.

Blue Streak Club Choice In Bowl Tilt

CLEVELAND — (AP) — John Carroll's powerful Blue Streaks were six-point favorites for their clash with the Canisius Griffins in the second annual Great Lakes bowl game today.

Cloudy but mild weather was promised and Jim Carney, president of the bowl committee, predicted a crowd of 20,000.

The Streaks enjoyed the favorite role because of their defeat of Youngstown and Marshall and better showing against Toledo. Canisius lost to Youngstown and was tied by Marshall.

Carroll's big offensive gun will be Carl Taseff, who gained 1,087 yards during the regular season and accounted for 78 points.

The Griffins have Howie Willis, who gained only 362 yards and accounted for 76 points, as their chief ground threat. Willis, however carried the ball only 66 tumes to 158 for Taseff.

John Carroll completed its training yesterday with a brief workout.

May Enlarge Track

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Plans for enlarging Ascot park, in northeastern Ohio, from a three-quarter of a mile to a mile track were laid before the state racing commission yesterday by D. E. Cronin, the park's president and general manager.

Little Change Is Expected In County Cage Standings

Little change is likely to be made in the Richland county basketball league standings this week, a glance at Friday's upcoming schedule shows.

Only two teams remain undefeated after two rounds of play last week and neither should have trouble in Friday games. Lexington, victor over Bellville and Union, travels to Butler, while Ontario, winner from Butler and Shiloh, entertains Lucas.

Bellville should have little trouble at Union while Plymouth figures to open its home season with a triumph over Shiloh.

CLASS OF LOOP

As expected, Bellville and Lexington appear to be the class of the league. Lexington has won five out of six starts while Bellville lived up to its reputation by playing a 47-45 game with the Minutemen last Tuesday.

Ontario, undefeated in three starts, must be rated as the darkhorse The Warriors are a veteran ball club and boast the league's leading scorer in Howard Sunnucks, who has scored 55 points in the two circuit games.

Plymouth has one of the better players in the league in the person of Desmond Donnenwirth and may cause the leaders trouble.

QUESTION MARKS

Union and Lucas still remain somewhat of question marks, having split in league contests. Lucas has an overall 2-2 record while Union won its only non-league game.

Butler and Shiloh have yet to win. Butler has played four games while Shiloh has competed only in the league. The Drummer Boys were not expected to cut a fancy figure but Butler won 11 of 14 league games last year It was riddled by graduation

Sparta Cagers Notch First 3 '48 Victories

SPARTA—Sparta high school, coached by Mansfield's Wesley Boals, has won its first three basketball games despite the fact that only two lettermen are back from last year.

Albertas Hall and Roy Pruett are the two lettermen while others forming the nucleus of the team are Jerry Hatton, Howard Keller, Lawrence Perkins and Carroll Hubbell. Hall, at an even six foot, is the tallest of the lot.

Friday's victory over Iberia was the first Morrow county league game. Schedule:

Dec. 10—At Johnsville.
Dec. 14—Marengo
Dec. 17—At Edison.
Dec. 21—QCardington.
Jan. 7—Chesterville.
Jan. 14—Johnsville
Jan 21—At Chesterville.
Jan 25—At Marengo.
Jan 28—Edison
Feb. 4—Iberia
Feb. 11—At Cardington.

Lee and Bruce Battle Today

LONDON —(AP)— Lee Savold, veteran Paterson, N. J., fighter and British empire heavyweight champion Bruce Woodcock finished training yesterday for their 10-round clash here tonight.

Both fighters were equally confident of victory and bookmakers rated the bout an even affair

"My boy's greater experience will win," said Bill Daly, Savold's manager.

"I'm more confident than ever—you'll see a new Woodcock Monday," said Tom Hurst, the pilot of the British champion.

New York Yankees Rap Hapless Rockets, 28-7

CHICAGO —(AP)— The New York Yankees kept alive their hopes for a possible second-place tie with the Baltimore Colts in the eastern division of the All-America football conference by defeating the Chicago Rockets, 28-7, before 4,930 in Soldier field yesterday.

It was the Rockets' 13th loss in 14 starts.

Holiday Cage Joust Planned On 'Y' Court

The YMCA will conduct its annual elementary and junior independent basketbal tournaments during the holiday vacation, it was announced yesterday by physical director Johnny Fike.

The elementary tourney to which all ten grade schools have been invited, will be played the week before Christmas with the junior joust going on the following week Fike plans to run off the grade school joust on Dec. 20-24, with games starting at 2:30 p. m.

The junior tournament will be played Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 27-29, with eight teams of boys who are not 16 before the end of the year eligible.

Northwest Lunch won the championship last year while Ruhl Radio, "Y" Cadets, Ringside Jrs, South Siders, Miracles, Bulldogs, and Junior Optimists were other teams entered.

Do You Believe You Save By Selling Your Own Property

YES, you do! That is you save the REALTORS commission. BUT WAIT. Let's look further

ARE YOU SURE you are pricing the property in line with today's market?

CAN YOU clinch the sale and expedite it by helping your purchaser get the loan he needs?

CAN YOU afford to devote the necessary time to working out all the legal and technical details?

MAYBE—and it might pay you to investigate—our 12 years devoted to doing all these things would actually net you more.

Auto Income 20 Billions In 3 Years

Gigantic Industry Continues to Grow

BY DAVID J. WILKIE
(AP AUTOMOTIVE EDITOR)

DETROIT. — (AP) — If you have wondered how big is the car industry consider that since the war it has done a wholesale business in excess of $20,000,000,000.

The figure represents the dollar value of car and truck and replacement parts output in a little more than three years. In the same period the industry has distributed approximately $7,000,000,000 in wages to production workers alone. Payments to salaried employes, materials purchases, equipment costs and taxes take a big bite out of the remainder.

The industry this year is commemorating the production of the 100,000,000th vehicle to be built in its factories since the Duryeas, Ford, Olds, Apperson and others built their first crude motorized buggies in small shops more than a half century ago.

Right now the industry is in the midst of more new model change-overs. When these have been completed — some time around next March 1—it will have invested a few hundred million more dollars in what its top executives like to call their "faith in the future."

The switch-over to postwar styling in the car industry began more than two years ago among some of the so-called "independents." It began gathering momentum this year when Ford made the biggest styling change in more than two decades. Still to show wholly re-designed postwar units are industry leaders like Chevrolet, Buick and Pontiac of the General Motors group and all Chrysler divisions.

In every instance of new model planning, styling and engineering have been decided upon and hand-tooled units have been built. Some of these are of wood construction that defies detection until you tap a fender or find that the steering wheel spins freely in your hands.

DIES COMPLETED

But virtually all the jigs and dies with which the new cars will be built have been completed and are ready for use as soon as various car makers complete their scheduled run of 1948 models. So there will be no further changes in the styling that dictated the shaping of tools, jigs and dies.

Generally the styling yet to be disclosed will allow that already emphasized in the postwar vehicles—body shaping that will permit widening of interiors and lowering of overall height. For the most part this is being achieved by flattening rear fenders into the body proper.

Nash made a conspicuous advance in the postwar styling when it adopted the general wider-appearing body idea and then dropped the front fender depth to cover front wheels to about the same extent as most rear wheels now are enclosed.

Aside from this and broader and flatter hood covers there isn't much that can be done to carry the postwar styling trend further without completely re-designing car bodies.

Most industry experts say that with introduction of the final 1949 models there will be no more radical styling changes for several years.

Buick's 1949 models, most details of which were announced earlier, will show something of an innovation in bumper treatment and the use of chrome-ringed ventilating portholes near the rear and top of the front fenders.

The bumpers will wrap around projecting rear fenders but will be recessed between them. The portholes are designed to aid in dissipating heat from under the hood.

Picket Line Fuss Flares

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Picket line disorders, confined mostly to hair-pulling, broke out yesterday among women employes of the struck Clippard Instrument laboratory plant in the west end and police said four persons had been arrested.

Police Capt. Keith Scott said those arrested included two women strikers, one non-striking woman and a man, who was a bystander. All were charged with disorderly conduct.

Scott said "fighting and hair-pulling" started when several non-striking women were being escorted from the plant to automobiles parked nearby.

"Someone seized the hair of one of the non-strikers," he reported, "and the fight started."

Charles Govan, business representative of the International Association of Machinists, whose members struck last Tuesday over union recognition, said, however, the trouble started when non-strikers "pushed pickets around."

Bugbee Rites Set Tuesday

Funeral services for William Bugbee, 57, of 172 West Fourth street, who was found drowned yesterday in North Lake park, will be held Tuesday at 10:30 a. m. in the Wolford funeral home.

Coroner D. C Lavender returned a verdict of suicide by drowning. Dr. Lavender said a note left by the deceased man indicated he had been despondent over finances. The mad had been dead about 10 hours, he said.

The body was found floating in the lake by an unidentified man. Police were notified by the caretaker at the park, William Spriggins, 247 Rae avenue.

Rev. John Gensel, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, will officiate at funeral services. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery. A military funeral will be held under the direction of the American Legion.

A veteran of World War 1, Mr. Bugbee had been employed at the Greyhound bus depot. He had lived in Mansfield 40 years.

Survivors include his wife, Dorothy, of Mansfield two daughters, Irene of Mansfield, and Lillian of Oil City, Pa., two brothers, Charles C., of Mansfield, and George L., of Los Angeles; and three sisters, Miss Anna Bugbee of Warren, Pa., Mrs George Johnson, and Mrs. Ed Kinsner, both of Franklin, Pa.

Victims Report Two Hit-Skips

Two hit-skips were reported yesterday to police. Douglas Bradburn, of 117½ Park avenue east, said his car was struck Saturday afternoon while parked at 28 South Park street. Police said a bystander who saw the accident gave them the license number of the other car.

Eugene Conn, of 188 Central avenue, told police his car was struck between 1 and 8 a. m. Saturday while parked in front of his home.

Tells About Boys Village

Rev. Clarence E. Kerr, founder of Boys' Village in Smithville, told a meeting of Optimists yesterday his boys were not juvenile delinquents but were instead victims of "adult delinquency."

Speaking to representatives of 17 Ohio Optimists clubs, Rev. Kerr called his sanctuary for boys "a home for pre-delinquent, unwanted Ohio boys."

The meeting of the board of governors of the Optimists International and the representatives of the clubs was held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Part of the business of the group included a study of plans to held develop Boys' Village.

The clubs are tentatively planning to build several cottages for the project.

Rev. Kerr described the home which currently houses 12 boys. He spoke of the plans for expansion in light of past accomplishments during the two years Boys' Village has been in existence.

The speaker was introduced by Howard Donor, secretary of the local Optimists club.

Students Seek Rhodes Prize

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Sixteen Ohioans have survived the first elimination of Rhodes scholarship aspirants.

The 16 will be interviewed here next Wednesday and Thursday, two will be selected to represent Ohio in regional competition opening Friday at Indianapolis.

Not more than four of the regional contestants will win scholarships. Ohio, Illinois, Kentucky, Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin will each send two students to the regional.

There were 39 Ohio applicants for Rhodes scholarships—which are worth about $2,000 a year for two years of study at Oxford university, England.

Illinois Policeman Plays No Favorites, Arrests Wife

BELVIDERE, Ill. —(AP)— The stern law enforcement efforts of Patrolman Leroy Kaschub, 27, have the town talking, but no one has accused the ex-GI cop of favoritism.

Kashub said when he joined the force three years ago that nothing would stand between him and his duty. His arrest record includes nabbing of Alderman Irvin Ecksteadt and Lester Cunningham, Kaschub's wife, Winifred, and his brother, Carl. All were convicted of minor traffic ordinance violations

Last Thursday, Patrolman Kaschub attended a wedding rehearsal in the Emmanuel Lutheran church for his wife's sister, Lorna White of Waukesha, Wis., and Clifford Pundt of Belvidere.

Shortly after the rehearsal, Kaschub obtained speeding warrants against Pundt, and the best man, Alfred Rainwater, also of Belvidere.

The warrants were served during a party in Kaschub's house for the happy couple.

Police Magistrate Carl Suhr postponed trial of the groom and best man so the marriage could proceed as planned. But the bridegroom and his friend must answer the speeding charges next Friday.

Asked by a reporter for comment on his charges against Pundt and Rainwater, Kaschub said "the relatives and friends of policemen, above all people, should know enough to avoid breaking the laws."

Aerial Suitor Now Gets Sued

LINCOLN, Neb. — (AP) — Farmer Louis Kramer filed a $25,000 damage suit against Emil Aksamit of Crete, Neb, in district court here yesterday.

Aksamit, Kramer charged, tried to alienate the affections of Mrs Kramer by flying over the Kramer home in an airplane.

CAR WINDOW BROKEN

An attempted forced entry of a Mansfield car was reported to police yesterday by George Rowe, 141 West Second street. The attempt, made Friday night, resulted only in a broken ventilator.

Verdict Saves Traffic Record

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. —(AP) —For 381 days no one was killed in a traffic accident in Williamsport. Then 68-year-old Albert Gardner fell against the fender of a car at a street intersection and died.

The report was that the remarkable traffic record compiled in this city of 45,000 had come to an end.

But Dr. Clarence R. Martin, coroner, reported that Gardner had died of a stroke and then fallen against the car. Now Williamsport's record extends through 382 straight days.

SECOND JURY CALLED

LIMA—(AP)—Another grand jury will be asked to consider a first degree murder charge against Richard E. Snyder, 26, in the fatal stabbing of his wife, Eloise, 26. A grand jury refused to indict him on Oct. 20. Snyder was arrested a month later on a warrant sworn out by his father-in-law, Carl McMillen, and was bound over to the January grand jury yesterday by Judge B Steiner

$35,000 Damage Action Heads Richland Court Calendar

5 Hearings Scheduled This Week

Worker Sues Pennsy, Dominion

A suit for $35,000 against the Pennsylvania railroad and the Dominion Electric corporation heads the docket of five cases set for hearing by juries in Common Pleas court this week.

The action brought by Oliver Hoffman of 421 Scholl road, will be heard Monday. Hoffman says he was trapped between a Dominion building and a Pennsylvania train while making a delivery at the plant.

He was permanently injured, his petition states and has been unable to work since the mishap July 27, 1945. He charges the defendants with negligence. His attorneys are William F. Voegele and John O'Donnell.

The Dominion company, in its answer filed by Attorney C. H. Henkel, contends that injuries suffered by Hoffman were the result of his own conduct and failure to exercise ordinary care, and asks the petition be dismissed.

The railroad company said Hoffman was warned by the train conductor to get away from the spot where he was standing and added his injuries were due to his negligence.

TREE FALLS ON HOUSE

An action for $1,000 against the City of Mansfield is set for Tuesday. Frank Pilo of 150 Sturges avenue contends a large cottonwood tree fell on the house, causing heavy damage.

Pilo alleges the city knew the tree was decayed and in danger of falling, and should have removed it.

He is represented by Attorneys William F. Voegele and Robert L. Ross. City Solicitor C. J. Kalbfleisch represents the city.

On Wednesday will be heard a $10,000 action brought by John Fusco, administrator of the estate of Joann Fusco, against Robert James Geiger, 344 Ruth avenue.

Fusco brought suit on behalf of the girl's family. He contends Geiger was negligent when his car struck and fatally injured the girl, who was 10 years old, on Dec. 14, 1946, on Lexington avenue at Glendale boulevard.

Geiger is represented by Attorney Robert L. Ross, and Fusco, by Anderson, Will and O'Donnell.

A second case set for Wednesday asks $5,288 for personal injuries and car damages and was filed by Robert L. Smelser, Hamilton, R. D. 5, and the Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance company of Columbus against Morris J. Pertofsky, of Crestline.

MAN, WIFE HURT

Smelser's petition states the accident occurred on U. S. Route 30-N on Sept. 29, 1947, and that both he and his wife were injured.

Attorneys Weldon, Huston and Keyser represent the plaintiffs while the defendant is represented by Attorneys Scanlon and Berger of Crestline.

Set for Thursday is another $10,000 action as the result of an automobile accident. Leona Wachtel of 50 South Adams street, filed the action against Jacob Buzzard, of 201 South Diamond street.

She contends she suffered bodily injuries when she was hit by a car driven by Buzzard at Diamond and Third streets on Oct. 3, 1946. The plaintiff's attorneys are Anderson, Will and O'Donnell while Buzzard is represented by Long, Anderson and Green.

Fair Board Members Study Proposal

Favor Ice Rink at Fairgrounds

Setting up of an outdoor skating rink at the Fairgrounds on Springmill street as proposed by the Mansfield Junior Chamber of Commerce yesterday received the unanimous approva of the Richland county fair board.

The proposal was offered to the board at a meeting in the Common Pleas court room of the courthouse Saturday afternoon.

The plan as outlined to the board by Jaycees called for flooding an area, 150 by 100 feet, with a two-inch layer of water, for use as a rink. An earth embankment to hold the water would be built.

Details of the plan are to be worked out at a meeting soon of Fair board, Jaycee, and Mansfied Park board members.

Tentative dates for the 1949 Richland County Junior Fair were set for Aug. 19 and 20. Board members said those dates are subject to approval by the State Fair committee.

A committee was appointed by Fair Board President Lewis L. Rinehart to request additional county funds for makng improvements at the Fairgrounds.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE

Rinehart said the board made a number of improvements this year, which cost more than $6,000. He said money made available this past year included about $2,800 from the county and state, which is made to Fair boards according to law, plus an additional stipend of $300, granted by the commissioners. The balance of the money for improving the grounds came out of a reserve, accumulated through rentals and other revenue, Rinehart said.

The additional amount to be sought for 1949 from the county commissioners is to be determined by the committee. On the committee are Herman Wolfe, chairman, Franklin township; Walter Shafer of Lexington; Clarence Tugend of Worthington township; Mrs. Elmer Snavely of Lexington, and C. S. Henry. Rinehart said the grounds require additional improvments and additions.

Six directors of the Fair board were elected at the annual meeting of the Richland County Agricultural society in Common Pleas courtroom.

The following men were elected to represent townships or groups: Plymouth, A. C. Weiser; Monroe, John Woods; Worthington, Clarence Tugend; Troy, Walter Shafer; Sandusky, Lews Rinehart; and Rev. Paul Beighley of Lexington, to represent the ministerial association.

SERVE THREE YEARS

The newly-elected directors will serve three-year terms.

The Fair board still has two places vacant—one to represent veterans organizations and the other to represent women's clubs.

The total number of votes cast was 35. The annual election of officers will be held at the next meeting of the Fair board Jan. 3 at 7:30 p. m. in the Common Pleas court room at the courthouse. Present officers are Rinehart president; Herman Wolf, vice-president; Orville Kibler, secretary, and Clarence Tugend, treasurer.

Recommendations from veterans orgaizations and women's groups as to whom they want to represent them on the board will be considered at the next meeting Rinehart said.

The society voted to support the Richand county Christmas seal drive. A spot collection netted $11 for the drve.

One Turkey Brings $732

MODESTO, Calif. —(AP)— A turkey sold for $30.50 a pound here. It wasn't an ordinary bird. Armour and company paid $732 for the grand champion of the Far West turkey show—a 24-pound hen grown by Elwood Swanson of Turlock, Calif.

Kraft Foods paid $440.75 for the reserve champion—a 41-pound Tom also grown by Swanson. The seven top dressed birds brought a total of $1,895.88.

The heaviest bird wasn't sold. The 45½-pound Tom was presented to Governor Earl Warren for his Christmas dinner table by H. H. Black, Paso Robles breeder.

Woman Senator Unimpressed By Office, Prefers Children

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Ever hear of a senator who is happy about not making a single political speech?

The nation has one today in Mrs. Vera Bushfield (R-SD) who frankly admits she is more interested in her six grandchildren than political oratory.

"I guess I'm not as grateful as I should be about the honor of being a United States senator for even a brief period," she told a reporter with a hearty laugh. "I do not have any personal political ambitions. A lot of women have written me saying I should make more of it."

The only present woman senator was appointed in October to serve out the remaining months of the term of her late husband, Harlan J. Bushfield. She never expects actually to sit in a senate session or make a speech.

And she is grateful for that, explaining:

"I'm not very good at talking on my feet before a crowd."

Another woman Republican, Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, will sit in the next senate after election to a full six-year term.

South Dakota Gov. George T. Nickelson, who appointed Mrs. Bushfield, was attorney general when her husband was governor of that state. She is 59 years old.

"I had never worked in this office before," she said yesterday, "but I took the appointment because the files and office personnel were here and I thought I could carry on for a few months as well or better than some stranger."

Czech Ribbons Serve as Medals

PRAGUE—(AP)—The scarcity of metals in Czechoslovakia is reflected in soldiers' decorations. Insted of metal badges, they now wear ribbons on their blouses. Red, blue and green ribbons are given for marksmanship and skill in field fighting.

A gold, silver or steel colored linden leaf on the ribbon means extra distinction. Soldiers will also be authorized to wear the decorations after they leave the service and go into plain clothes.

BUDGET SETS RECORD

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The largest operating budget in Cleveland's history — $3,915,728 — was presented Saturday to the county budget commission for 1949.

Autographs 325 Books In Two Days

There'll be a lot of Mansfield families with Jane Williams' new book, "No Other Star," in their Christmas stockings if sales Friday and Saturday at The Book Shop and Ritter's are any indication.

About 325 copies of the novel, the first by the Mansfield author, were sold at the two stores. All were autographed by Mrs. Williams. At least 200 more books will be received, the first of the week and most of them already have been ordered, clerks said.

Mrs. Williams will go to Detroit to autograph books in the J. L. Hudson company next Friday. The book was published in Detroit.

Physician Honored For Long Service

FORD, Kas.—(AP)—An 80-pound birthday cake—carried into the room by four men—was the center of attraction as 600 persons assembled here to honor Dr. F. C. Coffman, local physician, on his 71st birthday. Dr. Coffman, who has practiced here since 1910, has delivered more than 1,500 babies to residents of this area.

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

India To Abandon 'Untouchability'

AS THE NEW state of India makes ready its constitution, it is of more than passing interest to note that one provision approved by the constituent assembly sets forth that: "Untouchability is abolished and its practice in any form is forbidden."

India, with its vast population, has been divided into many religions and classes, with the "untouchables" as an outcast group made up of persons considered so low that their mere touch would be defilement to members of the higher castes, especially to Brahmans.

This practice of ostracizing certain individuals from normal life solely because of the accident of birth has been one of the blackest marks against India, and steps toward banning such practices indicate a step toward the ideals of democracy as proclaimed—if not practiced—in our own country.

Commenting on India's proposed abandonment of "untouchability," the Washington Post warns that complete acceptance in practice is not to be expected at once. "Actually, of course," the Post says, "the statement of a principle in a constitution does not automatically achieve its aim in practice. The Constitution of the United States for 80 years has voiced similar principles of equality. But, as the present civil rights debate shows, achievement lags behind the goal in the exercise of citizenship rights."

So, while applauding India's move toward recognition of equality of rights and opportunities, let's not expect too much in the way of immediate change from firmly fixed traditions—such things take time and much in the way of re-education.

So You're 'Independent', You Think

REMEMBER Ilona Massey, the screen star who was in Mansfield some years ago with Fred Astaire in boosting the sale of war bonds?

Well, Ilona has an idea that was presented in a recent issue of This Week magazine and which starts an interesting train of thought.

Noting that Americans celebrate Independence day, she suggests that some other day be set aside for observance of "DEpendence day," on which to emphasize the extent of dependence upon one another.

"After all," she says, "who is really 'independent' today? Nobody. What person or state is truly 'sovereign'? None."

Think it over at leisure, or as you go about your daily tasks. Stop to realize how helpless you would be if it were not for the service of others in the home, the community, the state, nation and world.

Independent, yes—to think and act within the bounds of good citizenship—but dependent, from birth to death, on others . . . just as they are dependent on you.

In the complexities of modern life there is even greater dependence than ever before—a thought that should be kept in mind when individuals or groups contemplate action that runs counter to the general welfare . . . or even works to the detriment of another person.

Education Overcomes Intolerance

THE ATTITUDE of many people in the matter of race prejudice and intolerance is influenced by emotion. Those whose emotional leanings are toward tolerance are sometimes convinced that the problem can be solved by laws.

An experiment in another line has been carried out in California for a year. The project, an educational one, is sponsored by the Pacific Coast Council on Intercultural Education and by the state department of education, and is directed by Dr. William Vickery.

The three-year course is a form of teacher training which aims at the formation of the proper attitudes in those who will in turn inculcate them in young people. Dr. Vickery believes that legal measures may be necessary in stamping out racial discrimination, but that they "only make prejudice illegal," while "education will eventually make it unpopular."

This has been proved true in the experimental courses. Students talk over their views and thus clarify their thinking. The influence of group thinking was found to be important in the formation of proper attitudes.

These teachers do not teach tolerance as such. It is intended that in their presentation of routine subjects, especially the social sciences, the principles of fair play and friendly fellowship may be embodied in such a way as to be effective.

This kind of indoctrination seems likely to be more effective than imposition of ideas by law or by pressure of misguided agitators.

Women Can Help Reduce Fire Losses

SPEAKING before the Northeastern Fire Protection Conference, Dorothy Downs, a fire protection engineer, said that this country needs more women "smoke-eaters."

She then added: "This idea that man is woman's fire protector is downright old-fashioned. Given a chance, a woman is just as capable as a man when it comes to putting out a fire. All she needs is instruction in using the proper fire fighting tools and she can fight fires with the best of men." At the end she pointed out that women had even more at stake in fire prevention because most fires occur in the home.

This is a fresh and sound concept. Staggering fire waste would be cut deep if every housekeeper were also an informed "firewoman." Such a simple matter as knowing how to employ a hand fire extinguisher or even a garden hose often makes all the difference between a fire which does little damage—and one which, getting out of hand, results in widespread destruction, and perhaps death and injury.

The oldest known piece of Egyptian literature, dating from perhaps 3400 B. C., contains the lament: "Oh that the world were as it used to be"—so that mental attitude isn't new.

It is being said that the movement toward a 13-month calendar "is taking on new life"—probably encouraged by the Democratic come-back after appearance of extinction.

Claude Callan notices how easy it is to break a good habit. "Good habits," he says, "are not made of the tough material that goes into the making of bad habits."

A Voice From the Country

Attractions of Oldtime 'General Store'

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

COMING over the hill between Pennsylvania and Ohio this week I noticed a sign in a window of a general store. It read "Swiss Cheese 59 cents a pound." This seemed to me a good buy for a household that likes cheese and knowing that I was on the border of the Ohio country known as Little Switzerland, I also thought that I might find some good cheese — cheese made the old-fashioned way, properly aged and kept under proper conditions. So I stopped the car and went into the store. From the outside the store had an undistinguished appearance. It resembled neither the new shiny-fronted chain store nor the village general store of my childhood but a mixture of the two.

BROMFIELD

Inside it was the same. But I was right about the cheese. The price was low and the cheese was excellent.

Two bright and bustling middle-aged women ran the store and one of them said, "That's a good cheese. It has some age on it. Take a piece and taste it."

She cut off a sliver and I tasted cheese such as I had tasted the last time in the high valleys of Switzerland where Gruyere is made. Perhaps it did not have the complete fragrance of the Alpine wildflowers and herbs but it had something very close to it. The great round wheel of deep yellow cheese was a treasure and I bought ten pounds. If I had room in the car I think I might have taken the whole wheel.

* * *

Eating Treasures.

BUT it wasn't the only treasure I found there. All round were real country hams and smoke-cured sides of bacon. There was a stone crock filled with lard in which there were already cooked down pats of country sausage like nuggets of gold in a vein of ore.

There was real cottage cheese, yellow with the cream that was mixed into it. There were a good many other things to make the tongue of a gourmet water.

And as I poked about looking for more treasures I had to push aside shiny packages of cellophane and cartons with labels worked up by some distant advertising company in New York or Chicago.

There were masses of stuff processed and dehydrated and messed around into something it never was in the beginning, containing preservatives and embalmed in paraffin or by injections of patent quick-curing serums or put together and enriched with synthetic vitamins and drugs.

In most cases the packages themselves, showy and covered with the literary efforts of some advertising man who probably didn't know the difference between sawdust and pate de foie gras, looked better to eat than the stuff they contained. The cheese was all that I bought for the other homemade things I had on my own farm.

But I did take away some thoughts which remained with me for a long time on the road home.

It seemed to me that too many Americans had no palates or perhaps had lost them by being brought up on synthetic or processed foods without end, foods that were made out of scraps of this or that in the chemist's laboratory with the flavor and the color tricked up and artificial.

There were too many households in which the husband and children were fed the easy way out of cans, too many people who had forgotten or never known the pleasure of an excellent meal cooked out of the richness of what God provided and containing the vitamins and the minerals which nature put into that richness in a form that made them easily absorbed and provided real rather than synthetic nutrition.

* * *

Phony Foods.

TRUE, all the pretty boxes containing tricked-up foods were the evidence of American ingenuity and research of a nutrition and a health based more and more upon the test tubes and inorganic chemistry of the laboratory than upon the natural processes

For one I was sick of "enriched" and phony foods. And I wondered as I have a great many times, whether in the end there wasn't some connection between all this "enriched" and synthetic stuff and the degenerative diseases which attack so many of us prematurely—the heart diseases, the diabetes and worse things.

One can concoct such things as artificial butter substitutes and meat cured with a syringe in twenty minutes and bread from which the natural wheat germ and vitamins have been removed to be replaced by snythetic substitutes but I, for one, will never believe that the nutritional result is the same, I know the flavor is not.

Our chemists are very clever and our food processors have taken out a lot of drudgery in the home but I can't help wondering whether the chemists can do what a cow's udder does or what sunlight will do to a head of wheat or what real aging will do to a great wheel of cheese like the one I saw in the general store.

Any hog farmer knows that a hog recognizes by taste the mineral and nutritive value of what he eats. Maybe we don't know or care any more or maybe we're too lazy to take the trouble to have really good food.

And finally I reflected that in order to get such ideas over to the public it was almost necessary to write a book because synthetic food monopolies and advertising agencies have great power. That is one of the greater largely, unrecognized evils of our capitalistic system.

I sure had some tall thoughts after leaving that little country store where I had seen more really good food than I had seen outside my own house in many a day.

It Says Here:

—By KEN WOODMAN

THERE IS an apparent contradiction in Wall street. The stock market trend has been downward since the election, but E. A. Krauss, managing editor of the Magazine of Wall Street, has just come out with a lengthy article entitled "Business Will Be Good in 1949."

* * *

Krauss sees 194 billion dollars of disposable income in the U. S. next year and he thinks this probably is enough to keep things whirring.

* * *

Whether Krauss is right or not, his brand of argument is healthy in these days when so many people are gloomily saying the crash is bound to come. Enough of such talk could, in itself, sow the seeds of deflation. There seems little doubt but that production is gradually getting into closer balance with demand. This will mean more competition and somewhat lower prices. It does not necessarily mean a depression and there's no point in talking ourselves into one.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Odd Action In Venezuelan Military Coup

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The latest Latin-American military coup, which overthrew the government of popular President Romulo Gallegos in Venezuela, can be laid directly on the doorstep of the state department. On Oct. 30, less than twenty-four hours after a similar army uprising had started in Peru, the state department formally agreed to hold joint consultation with Ecuador, Colombia, Venezuela and Chile before any of them would decide whether to recognize the new Peruvian regime.

PEARSON

A promise to this effect was given personally by Paul Daniels, chief of the state department's American Republics Division. The ambassadors of the four countries named above, who talked to him, immediately transmitted this word to their respective capitals.

But three days later, without any warning to these governments, the United States announced that it would "continue normal relations" with the Peruvian military junta. Our Latin-American neighbors were too flabbergasted to speak.

What has now happened in Venezuela — and will soon take place in other Latin-American republics—is the direct product of this incredible state department double-dealing. Militarists, hungry for power all over the hemisphere, in effect have been given the green light by Washington.

The political crisis in Venezuela, which began to shape up some weeks ago, had alreay been solved, more or less to everyone's satisfaction, when suddenly the army moved in.

* * *

How Military Operated.

HERE is the inside story of just how and why they operated:

President Gallegos, elected by the overwhelming majority of 72 per cent of the votes, was a personal friend of President Truman, had traveled with him last spring to Bolivar, Mo.

A few weeks ago Gallegos had refused to be bluffed by an ultimatum from the opposition COPEI (Conservative) party, supported by half a dozen top army officers, that he reorganize the cabinet and give half the cabinet posts to COPEI.

Gallegos flatly refused, but did offer COPEI two portfolios, with two others going to independents. (His cabinet since taking office last February had been composed exclusively of men from his own party, Accion Democratica.)

At the same time, President Gallegos made two other moves: (1) he had labor unions throughout the country advised as to what was brewing, (2) he cabled Col. Mario Vargas, inspector-general of the army, to come home from Saranac Lake, N. Y., where he was resting.

Organized labor, led by the powerful oil workers' union, promptly issued a manifesto saying that 300,000 workers would back Gallegos "by any means the circumstances may require." And Col. Vargas, supposedly loyal to the government, arrived in Caracas Nov. 23.

* * *

State Department's Reversal

HE WENT at once to consult with the President. By then, even the COPEI leaders thought themselves defeated and were prepared to accept Gallegos' compromise offer. But the fatal moment for the administration came when Col. Vargas, after leaving Gallegos' office, went to consult with fellow army officers.

The first thing they told him (which Vargas hadn't known) was that the U. S. state department had turned its back on Gallegos in the Peruvian question and, after promising him joint consultation, had proceeded to recognize the Peruvian dictatorship.

This, they argued, showed Washington's lack of confidence in the Gallegos regime and also its passive willingness to see the military take over wherever leftists were too strong.

The military men told Vargas that communist labor leaders now controlled Gallegos. They also argued that after Jan. 20, when Truman's second administration was in office, it might be harder to get an army coup recognized in Venezuela.

Col. Vargas went back to see President Gallegos that evening and asked him if this version of the way Washington handled the Peruvian issue was true. When the president confirmed it, Vargas told him frankly that he could no longer support the government.

One hour later, Vargas was with other army brass, planning the coup. It came off smoothly, thanks largely to the general belief throughout Venezuela that the earlier COPEI crisis was over. Before Venezuelan labor unions had a chance to rally anwyhere, they found themselves facing tanks and machine guns at every corner.

* * *

Argentina's Joker.

WHEN the state department announced it was maintaining relations with the Peruvian dictatorship, it cited the resolution adopted at the Bogota conference last April, on "continuity of diplomatic relations."

Most people didn't know it but that little joker was Argentina's baby. President Peron wanted it adopted and we blandly gave our blessing, despite strong protests to U. S. delegates from the diplomats of five other countries.

Leaving aside the doubtful wisdom of our support for the Peron resolution, Latin-American diplomats are now asking two very tough questions:

1. If we intended to adhere strictly to the Peron resolution, why did we promise Venezuela, Chile, Colombia and Ecuador to consult with them before recognizing the Peruvian dictatorship?

2. Having given our word, why did we break it three days later?

Note—The fall of President Gallegos is a double blow to American prestige. Not only did he travel with Truman to Bolivar, Mo., to dedicate a monument to Simon Bolivar, but he was wined and dined in the United States as one of our best Latin-American friends. Many Latins attribute the rise of Latin dictators to the Forrestal plan of sending U. S. arms to Latin-American armies. The more arms we send them, the stronger the military become.

The Nation Today

That 'Ax-Grinder' Again

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — That ax-grinder—the lobbyist—is back in the news again.

He's been bobbing up in the news at least once a year for years. That's when somebody gets mad at him.

But he's always here in Washington. Most of the time he works so quietly you never hear of him.

President Truman has just said he thinks Congress ought to investigate the lobbyists' work around Congress. Maybe Congress will. Don't bet.

Mr. Truman made the statement in answer to the International Association of Machinists which told him it wants such an investigation because it feels:

"The voters in the United States as well as members of Congress should be acquainted with the highpowered lobbying activities, which were used so successfully to confuse members of the 80th Congress and to decieve them as to the attitude of the majority of voters."

A lobbyist is someone—an individual or group — who tries to persuade a congressman to vote the way the lobbyist wants.

You're lobbying when you write to your congressman, asking him to vote for or against something. But everyone has the right to do that.

So you're not being a lobbyist in the sense meant by Mr. Truman or the machinists' union. They're talking about big-time lobbying.

And that means individuals who get paid for doing it or organizations which spend a lot of time or money doing it.

Big business outfits have lobbyists. So do labor unions. So do other organizations. That's not unlawful, within limits.

But some lobbyists and lobbies are pretty powerful and spend a lot of money trying to win their point. This doesn't mean bribery. It may mean things like entertaining.

And the lobbying isn't always labeled lobbying while it's being done. For example: lobbying at a Washington cocktail party.

One congressman, talking about that a year ago, said:

"Lobbyists are pretty slick sometimes. The host invites you through a mutual friend to a cocktail party. The lobbyist is there plugging for something. But you'll never hear it from him.

"He just wants to get friendly with you and get you to feel friendly toward him, and toward what you eventually find out he's plugging."

This same congressman said he thinks there's more lobbying done with congressmen on Washington golf courses than in congressmen's offices.

* * *

Disturbed By "Loopholes."

BECAUSE of such slick tactics, there have been outcries here for years to force lobbyists to come out in the open and be counted as lobbyists.

When it reorganized itself back in 1946, Congress passed a law which said:

Persons, groups or organizations whose principal job is lobbying for or against legislation for pay must register with Congress and must file quarterly reports of all money received, and how, and why spent.

In the first nine months of this year about 1,200 individuals and 192 organizations were registered with Congress as lobbyists. In that time organizations spent $4,856,000 to do their lobbying job.

(In the past year several individuals have been charged with violating the act by not registering as lobbyists.)

But some congressmen think the lobbying act of 1946 has too big a loophole when it says an organization whose "principal" job is lobbying must register.

They say: What of the big organization, whether it's a labor union or business organization, which claims its "principal" purpose is something else but still spends a lot of money lobbying?

So they say the law should be changed to drop the word "principal" and compel any outfit which spends more than $15,000 a year on lobbying to register as a lobby.

A lobby, depending on its aims and tactics, can serve a useful purpose. For through lobbying a great many people with the same interests — like a consumers' group, labor union or business outfit — can make their views known to Congress.

Mr. Truman in his presidential campaign struck out at some lobbies. He said the 80th Congress was the "puppet of the real estate lobby, the power lobby, the grain speculators' lobby and others."

World Market Magnet

By KENNETH L. DIXON

NEW ORLEANS — The formal dedication this week of New Orleans' International Trade Mart has grabbed a lot of headlines across the country, unquestionably arousing a spark or two of envy in many another sea coast city which also would like to cut itself a piece of the foreign-domestic commerce pie.

Since the newly-dedicated establishment is a cinch to increase the size of New Orleans' portion of this lucrative pie, other cities may decide what they need to do is to set up a world trade mart of their own.

And it isn't a bad idea—providing their particular seaport has what is known as a "free trade zone."

New Orleans has one. It is the second of three zones authorized in the entire United States. New York has had one for ten yeats. The one here has been operating for a year and a half. The last one to be okayed was in San Francisco.

Without its free trade zone —also known as a foreign trade zone or international zone— New Orleans probably never would have embarked on its new International Trade Mart. The reasons are obvious.

First, the trade mart is exactly what it sounds like—a market place on a mammoth scale, where both foreign and domestic goods are exhibited, examined, bought and sold, without the necessity of visiting the area of their origin.

But to make such a world mart workable, it first is necessary to "catch the rabbit" so to speak—that is, be assured of getting the products, both foreign and domestic, into this seaport city.

That is where the free trade zone plays such an important part in the picture.

Practically speaking, a free trade zone, while operating within the confines of a given country, is an international island in the world of commerce. It is neutral territory in the battle of international trade. It is free of all nationally-established customs, duties and tariffs.

* * *

Attractive Features.

EVENTUALLY, of course, customs will have to be paid on the goods which come within its keeping—but not until such goods actually reach the borders of the country to which they are destined.

In other words, European exporters may want to ship something to some Latin American country when no vessels leaving their port of departure go directly to that country. Hence, they ship it to the New Orleans port, unload it in the free trade zone, reload it on a steamer bound for the Latin American destination, and the job is done.

Were it not for the free trade zone, they would have to pay the regular customs for the mere unloading and reloading of that cargo. As it is, all they have to do is pay the labor, dockage, perhaps storage, and similar routine costs.

One obvious direct benefit to New Orleans, of course, is that such shipments rarely fill out a whole ship's cargo, yet without the free trade zone here, the entire cargo probably would be unloaded in New York, although the remainder might be destined for inland points much nearer to New Orleans.

Thus, attracted by the free trade zone, the business of unloading, warehousing, transporting and other handling of the remainder of the cargo becomes business for New Orleans.

Also within the zone—as an additional attraction—products from foreign countries may be stored, examined, rehandled, assorted, graded, combined, mixed, relabeled, processed and packaged, thus increasing their value and salability at the eventual marketing point.

Naturally, all such facilities automatically turn any such city with a free trade zone into a magnet for foreign commerce. And where leaders in international commerce set up shop, other finance follows.

She has lots of inside stuff and plenty of biggies will want to talk to her, learn what's on her mind and talk over the general situation in China, which presents greater dangers than the Berlin crisis.

Then, too, charm is in demand in Washington and the lady has it in big supply.

Not For Myself

—By ANNE CAMPBELL

Not for myself I pray,
But for a young
Lad facing a dark day,
Songs yet unsung.

Give him a staunch, true heart,
Unyielding faith;
Give him a valiant part
To play till death.

Not for myself, but him,
Do I implore
Thee to turn back the dim
Shade at his door.

Give him a lofty view,
And eyes to view it;
Give him good work to do,
And strength to do it.

Comic Books Offer 'Activated' Classics

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK—(AP)—One way to persuade your child not to read the comic books of which you disapprove is to take him out in the woodshed and say it with a hickory stick.

Another way is to supply him with comics of which you do approve. An attempt to pull this little trick is being made right this minute on the youngsters of Mamaroneck and surrounding Westchester county, New York, and it will be tried across the country in the next few weeks.

It began when Henry H. Stansbury discovered that his two young sons had in their rooms crime, blood-and-thunder and sex tales and the like which he would rather have burned than let into his home. So he and the heads of 11 neighboring families with a total of 50 offspring "kicked around the idea," as he says, of doing better comics.

Stansbury consulted the Gruskins, of this city's midtown galleries. The Gruskins in turn consulted some of the 30 artists they represent, in particular those with children of their own. Among them were Isaac Soyer, Dong Kingman and Waldo Peirce, all proud parents and A-1 artists.

The combined literary-art project calls on the services of the world's best tellers of young peoples tales, like Grimm and Anderson, and leading contemporary painters. Five thousand copies of the first new 10-cent comic book appeared on Westchester newsstands Saturday. The story is Anderson's "The Nightingale." It is illustrated, or as the sponsors say, "activated," or turned into a "comic," by Kingman. A Guggenheim fellow represented in important museums, born in California and educated there and in China, he comes naturally by the knowledge required to put this Oriental tale into picture form. At formal ceremonies yesterday he gave the Mamaroneck free library children's room a picture illustrating this particular book.

Printed in lots of 100,000, as the others will be, it will be handled on a nationwide basis by regular commercial distributors. This first edition came accidentally to the attention of a New York public school librarian, who talked about it to other librarians, who in turn introduced it into a school for an unofficial, pre-publication day tryout. It was reported a success with both teachers and pupils.

The publisher, the newly organized Once-Upon-A-Time Press, will make special efforts to interest grade schools in the books, and to circulate them in such areas as Indiana, Michigan and far-western states where local ordinances ban comics about sex and crime.

Printed in four colors, Kingman's initial venture has eight pages in color and six in black and white, or in all, 20 bright and lively pictures. It will be followed soon by Peirce's "Red Riding Hood." Emlen Etting: "The Most Extraordinary Thing" and William Palmer's "The Snow Man." The plan calls for one new book a month and for a circulating exhibition of some of the originals by the midtown galleries.

HOW TO WIN FAME

The writer who hits the jackpot gets the spotlight turned straight on him...and Anya Seton author of "The Hearth and Eagle," published by Houghton Mifflin and chosen by the Literary Guild for December, is a typical example.

Here's what she has been through in the last few weeks: four New York radio appearances and one on television; interviews with two New York newspapers and three feature services, one interview and two radio appearances in Boston, and a couple of other scattered interviews, the contribution of some recipes credited to the book to magazines and feature services, and the celebration of "Anya Seton Days" in Stamford and Greenwich, Conn., and Marblehead, Mass.

CIGARS FOR SIBELIUS

Carleton Smith, director of the National Arts foundation (60 Broadway), has just returned from Finland where he interviewed Composer Jan Sibelius, now well into his 80's and unable to procure in his country the "fattest, biggest and best Havanas" which he has smoked for years. Boxes of them have been sent by Mrs. Moss Hart, Marian Anderson, Tallulah Bankhead, Charles Triller and Deems Taylor.

Sibelius is in good health, active, and mum about what he's writing now.

WOLFE, WOLFE, WOLFE

Thomas Wolfe is about to come out piecemeal in the 25-cent New World library, "Look Homeward, Angel" and "Of Time and the River" scheduled to appear beginning this month in some 10 volumes. "The Web and the Rock" is being dramatized, there's an inexpensive edition of "The Hills Beyond," the play "Mannerhouse" has just been printed and will be staged, and England is getting numerous Wolfe editions.

NOTES

The New Rochelle symphony is selling "family membership" tickets, with the idea of having parents bring their children to the grownups' concerts. The response has brought subscriptions from about 40 per cent of the prospects...Pianist Gyorgy Sandor, after a six-week European tour, is back here for a Carnegie hall recital in January.. Maria Jeritza, Raoul Jobin and Alexander Sved are scheduled to feature a performance of "Tosca" in the Newark mosque next Tuesday.

20 Schools Get Fifth of All Students

NEW YORK—(AP)—Twenty per cent of all college students in the United States are enrolled in 20 colleges and universities, says the U. S. Office of Education.

The figures, just released, are based upon returns from practically all of the nation's 1,800 institutions of higher learning. These show that out of a peak enrollment of 2,410,000 students, 486,267 are studying at New York University, (47,647); University of California, (43,469); City College of New York (28,567); Columbia University, (28,000), University of Minnesota, (27,243); University of Illinois, (25,920); Ohio State University, (23,929); Northwestern University, (23,788); University of Indiana, (23,131); University of Southern California (22,740); University of Wisconsin, (22,353); University of Michigan, (21,002); Syracuse University, (19,698), University of Texas, (19,676), University of Pittsburgh, (19,526), University of Pennsylvania, (18,644); Boston University, (18,617); Wayne University, (18,455); Temple University, (17,212); University of Washington, (16,650).

New York, says the Office of Education, leads all other states again this year in number of persons enrolled, with a total of 123,912. California, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Texas and Michigan follow, with each registering total college enrollments of over 100,000.

Mansfield, Galion Singers Give Oratorio

Chorus to Present 'Messiah' Tonight

George Frederick Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah" will be presented as the first Christmas musical program of the Advent season tonight at 7:45.

The presentation will be given at the First Presbyterian church by the Mansfield Choral Society, comprised of 39 Mansfield singers and one from Galion.

Among the 40 are soloists, Miss Beverly Wentz, Miss Erma Jenkins, Paul Old and Harry Meier of Mansfield and Lewis Girton of Galion.

Miss Louise Krause will be the organist for the presentation which will include all three parts.

"The Messiah" considered as one of the greatest of Handel's oratorios was produced for the first time on April 13, 1742 in Dublin. Later it was presented in Covent Garden in London and when the chorus reached the "Hallelujah Chorus" the audience, including the King, was so impressed that everyone rose to his feet, establishing a precedent which continues even today.

"The Messiah" probably was the last of his compositions which Handel played. He accompanied the chorus on the organ just eight days prior to his death in 1759.

Tonight's performance will be the second given at the church by the Choral Society.

ITU Case Dropped

CHICAGO—(AP)—The International Typographical Union, which contends it now is complying with provisions of a contempt of court order, has dropped its efforts to appeal. The U. S. circuit court of appeals dismissed the appeal late Friday when informed the union and the National Labor Relations board had agreed to such a course.

Fourth Tragic Episode Hits Dayton Family

DAYTON—(AP)—Tragedy struck Mrs. Lovena Abbott's family yesterday for the fourth time in less than a year. Her daughter, Sheila May, 2, was found dead in bed. A physician told police the girl suffocated accidentally.

On Dec. 20 of last year the Abbott home was burned.

Last May, the husband, Kenneth, 50, a former policeman, was found dead in a Springfield rooming house. The coroner ruled Abbott had shot and killed himself.

Police recalled that Mrs. Abbott's son was fatally injured in an auto accident about three months ago.

Mastersingers Plan '49 Concert Program

Two Leading Young Soloists Scheduled

When season tickets go on sale tomorrow for the 1949 concerts of The Mastersingers, patrons can look forward to hearing two of America's leading young soloists, one of whom, Frank Guerrara, has just returned from a summer season at the LaScala Opera company in Italy.

The other is Fritz Krueger, tenor soloist, who has behind him three successful years with the Philadelphia Opera company.

Guerrara will sing on Jan. 17 and 18, a postponed engagement from last summer when he was to appear here in the June concert but was offered the LaScala contract by Toscannini and sailed for Milan, Italy instead.

Two extraordinary honors came to Guerrara last June when he graduated from the Curtis Institute of Music at Philadelphia. Just 15 days after his graduation on May 1, he won a coveted first place with the Metropolitan Opera company. He scarcely had time to adjust himself to that honor when Toscannini, venerable and famed conductor, offered him the LaScala engagement.

Guerrara, only 24, won the Met contract through an audition which netted him $1,000 in prize money in addition to the contract. Following his roles in the LaScala repertoire, he was offered a winter engagement but declined because of his impending debut with the Met.

Krueger, also a graduate of the Curtis school, has a voice of brilliancy and melodic power, equally deft and sure in his highest range as well as the lower key, according to press notices. He will sing on June 20 and 21.

FRITZ KRUEGER

FRANK GUERRARA

Krueger has risen from a mediocre job with the U. S. Forestry service to one of America's top-ranking tenors in a few short years.

Between those two extremes of profession, he has packed a thrilling experience of war years, a year in pre-medics at Yen Ching university, Pekin, China, pre-theological work in Nebraska and music education in Ohio.

Ticket for the two concerts may be obtained from chorus members, from Tawse's Pharmacy or Ritters. H. E. Young heads a ticket committee, which includes: Leo Blackstone, Kenneth Dirlam, Atty. C. H. Freehafer, Clair Kirchhofer, C. C. Osbun, D. G. Schooley, Harlan Weimer and Wayne Williams. Reduced rates on season tickets will be given for students, the committee announced.

Theater

'The Silver Whistle' Has Merry Tune

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK, — (AP) — "The Silver Whistle" blew its merry tune into the Biltmore theater the other evening, thereby enlivening the season even more than was expected in this autumn of theatrical discontent.

The best to be said about the dramatic offerings this fall was that some are slick, surface enjoyments. Now, along comes this amiable, imaginative Theater Guild item and things start humming along a deeper, more artistic groove.

Not that things aren't wrong with "The Silver Whistle." At its worst, it contains some fairly phoney and pretentious attempts at the classical. It aspires a little to Edmond Rostand, William Shakespear and Ben Jonson. It misses all three by a few light years, but it is a comfort nevertheless that the author, setting his sights so high, still has composed the best opus of the fairly young theatrical year.

Jose Ferrer is starred. He plays a wayfaring indigent, a gent of flowery speeches and seemingly honest disavowal of morals, both of the flesh and of economics. He loathes work, likes people, loves ladies—all of them.

He happens upon an old folks' home not entirely by chance. He had found a birth certificate of a 77-year-old antique in a trash bin and decides to kill several birds with one scheme. He not only will acquire food and lodgings for the moment but incidentally will see what cooks among senile mentalities.

It is his guess such venerable misfits can be given a younger attitude and a lot more happiness if they have something more to enthuse about than their hopeless old age and imminent funerals.

He manages to do all this, plus fall in love with a young woman, beat the unctuous stuffiness out of a young and self-conscious clergyman, circumvent a bishop with grace and charm, set the inmates of the crotchety institution off on happier intentions than merely the grave, and, in the end, even evades the constabulary who arrive ready to take back the comforting gadgets he has stolen from nearby lawns, backyards and front stoops.

Farmers Still Short of Help

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Harvesting may be over on Ohio farms, but farmers still need year-around farm help, the state employment service reported yesterday.

Frank J. Collopy, administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, said the demand for steady farm laborers is particularly heavy around Wooster, but cited openings, too, around Columbus and Cleveland.

There is demand both for single workers and for farm couples.

All persons also wishing to work on property, costume, make-up or the stage crew are requested to attend the tryouts. Committees on production will be made up at that time.

All persons trying out for roles in the play are urged to read the play before attending try-outs. Scripts for in-library reading are at the Mansfield Public library.

Junior Class to Present Play

Mrs. Paul Daugherty and Lewis Wendelmoot, teachers at Madison high school, will direct the three-act comedy which juniors of the school will present there Tuesday and Wednesday at 8 p. m.

The comedy, "Out Of This World," will have a cast of 12 juniors, including Dave Davies, Ann Didicher, Joyce Elliott, Nancy Moore, Marilyn Daugherty, Mary Jo Hunter, Sue McElvain, Ann Dyson, Charles Frye, Ruth Armstrong, Chester Sprague and Russell Glenn.

Music between acts will be furnished by members of the junior chorus.

THEATERS STILL ACTIVE

ROME — (AP) — Italy's critics have long since pronounced the theater "dying, dead". But it refuses to lie down. Some 27 companies are registered to tour the country in the 1948-49 season.

Good news comes from the Richland County Fish and Game Commission for the younger element.

The group is preparing a youth program to be carried out this summer and in the future at their newly-purchased game reserve. It is hoped that kids will get a chance to learn first-hand how nature takes care of her wildlife; how the various species cope with the elements; and will gain a sound basis for future outdoor experiences.

The new action, disclosed by James Burkhart, president at the time this is written (and we'll let this stand in type since we're almost certain he'll be re-elected tonight) brings to mind an old saying popular among outdoorsmen:

"A tall man is never taller than when he's stooping to help a lowly boy!"

Incidentally, the fish and game members deserve a goodly amount of praise for their work. In the brief time I've been here I've learned their motto might well be "conservation instead of conversation." They really work at building up our natural resources. Just as a little proof of this, look elsewhere on this page for a summary of their last meeting.

★

After seeing the white pheasant shot by Karl Maul (story and picture on that will appear in February issue of Hunting and Fishing magazine); and hearing of the albino 'coon shot near Loudonville, this corner was prepared for almost anything.

About the only thing we didn't expect to see made an appearance late Friday. Dogoned if 'Nimrod' Walt Meyers of Mansfield didn't down a bald-headed and bald-bodied coon!

The odd-looking creature had a "brush" on its tail, a little hair on top of the head, and was as white as it could be. Not a hair on its body!

★

Recent cold snaps serve as a reminder that little old shanties will soon be appearing on Lake Erie. Yep, ice fishing will get underway before too long, according to the weather man.

Frankly, we'll spend the rest of the winter reading a good outdoors magazine and let hardier souls gather in the perch, pike, and colds.

★

Those of us who worry about maintaining a balance in the field have occasion to view with alarm another report submitted by the state conservation commissioner, H. A. "Buck" Rider.

He says our pheasant brood stock has been hit hard by violations this year since an extra large number of hens were shot by rowdy hunters.

These hunters are the same ones who decline to join a sportsman's group, laugh at any attempt to replace or rebuild our game stock, and are threatening our public shooting privileges.

★

Brothers Burkhart, Blizzard and myself had an enjoyable time Monday night measuring pheasant tails. Never knew there were so many birds in this section of the country.

Top prize in the Yuncker's contest went to Ted Etzel, whose bird carried twenty-five and one-eighth inches of plumage along behind.

The fifth ranking tail measured in at twenty-four and one-half inches, and from there on down the tails were very close in length. In the prize winning class, however, a clear eighth of an inch separated each tail.

Little comment has been passed along concerning the Ohio deer season by area hunters, but several have indicated they may hunt in the 13-county open district. Some claim they'll follow rabbit hunting practices and wander through the woods.

To me that seems like a good way to commit suicide since a goodly share of those taking to the fields blaze away at anything that moves.

If luck comes my way and I can get in a couple of days of deer hunting, my plans are all set. I'll wrap up in my wife's brilliant red jacket, lean back against a stump, and let other hunters chase the deer. It's safer, easier, and I'll get the same amount of game as if I wandered all around the woods—nothing!

★

Speaking of deer, one of the largest ever killed in Pennsylvania was reported this week by Associated Press. The buck was a 205-pounder with a 20-point rack. The hunter had been watching the deer's movements for five weeks before the season opened. There's a moral in there some place if anyone cares to look for it. I don't have time. "Buck fever" has me down!

According to state officials, almost twice as many hunters are expected to enter Ohio's hunt this year as in 1947.

Hunting and Fishing In Dixie

Monstrous Gar's King of Fish Killers

By DON MILLER
Third in a Series

The waters of the cypress rimmed lake are placid, reflecting the clouds scudding over the early morning sky.

Suddenly, from out of the depths, appears an armor-plated monster, Six or seven feet in length, hundreds of sharp teeth showing in his mouth, and wicked little eyes looking squarely at the passing fisherman.

A roll over in the water, a few ripples widening out, and the monster disappears again.

A pipe dream? Not at all. On a good many southern lakes such an occurence fails to disturb fishermen in the least. Loud splashes, the sight of a huge fin and back disappearing beneath the surface-all these are common.

The ugly creature, often wieghing more than 150 pounds, is an alligator gar. One of the most vicious killers of the fish world, he annually destroys more fish than the entire number of sportsmen who pass over his underwater lair.

SMALL ONES, TOO

All of them aren't that big. No, there are a lot of smaller ones but they belong to a different branch of the gar family, the long-nosed gar. These have razor-sharp teeth, generally average about 20 inches in length, and are just about as destructive to fellow finsters as their larger relatives. On a smaller scale, of course.

Fishing for these fresh water monsters is becoming one of the better attractions of the southern waters, and means of taking them are varied. Some snare them; some shoot them; and others go after them with bows and arrows.

Under the latter method, the archers stand in a boat, watch for the big ones to roll on the surface, then send an arrow into his tough hide. A stout fishing line is tied to the shaft of the arrow, and in turn wound on a standard rod and reel. Once the archer has tied into his prey, he has the fun of playing him in if the arrow failed to hit a vital spot.

Snaring is perhaps the most common method of catching the big boys. A long wire leader is fastened to the line, the wire forced through the back, just under the dorsal fin, of a large bluegill, then fashioned into a running noose.

The smaller fish, handicapped by the wire, can't swim very fast so some cruising gar smacks his chops, clicks his sharp teeth, and runs into a booby trap. Once he has the bait in his mouth, the gar makes his traditional roll. The fisherman pulls the snare tight and all hades breaks loose.

When it comes to tackle-busting tactics, the ugly gar yields ground to no other fish. He has the weight, is a vicious fighter, and won't call it quits. Often, even after he has been placed in the boat, the gar will still snap at the unwary fisherman who lets an arm or leg get too close.

Since he destroys so many other fish, each catch of a gar means hundreds of pounds of game fish left for the sportsmen. Many lakes become so crowded with the rough and hungry monsters that state fish commissions will seine the waters just to destroy the predators.

At one time when I was fishing at Moro Bay where the Ouichita river nears the Louisiana line, the party in which I was a member had to quit fishing because these gar ruined all the tackle. We were fishing for bass and crappie, so used light tackle.

Every so often a pole would double around, snap, and another gar would be on his way with a souvenir fast in his jaw.

On the theory that turtles often attack gars if they see one disabled, some fishermen will catch a gar, place a stick upright between his long jaws, then turn him loose in the water. The fish will skip out of the water time and again until he literally drowns himself, then the turtles go to work.

Frankly it's doubtful if this method actually works insofar as getting turtles to attack other gars is concerned, but it does get rid of one more fish enemy.

A caught gar is never turned loose to prey again on game fish (except as noted above) and fishermen have a hard time killing any they catch. They can beat them, leave them out of water for long periods of time, then throw them back. The gar will flip his tail and swim away.

As a result of his durability, most fishermen don't try to accomplish complete destruction. Instead, they break the fish's lower bill and throw him back into the water again. This gives the turtles another feast since the gar is helpless without the razorlike teeth.

So don't be surprised if you see some fellow fisherman buying deep sea tackle for his trip south. He knows what's in store for him!

(Next Week: Hunting in the South.)

Bear Steaks Plentiful For New Londoner

NEW LONDON—Bear steaks ceased to be a delicacy here when Hubert Snyder, New London jeweler and hunting enthusiast, returned recently from a bear hunting trip into the wilds of Canada.

Accompanied by Charles Brown, of Norwalk; Marion Harrison, of Birmingham, and Jim Conklin of Elyria., Hube went up to Kippewa Lake, 200 miles north of North Bay, Ontario, and after securing two native guides, settled down to two weeks of camping, loafing, hunting and fishing.

The boys didn't do bad. In addition to plenty of good fish, four bear were bagged, two of which were credited to Hube's gun.

Students Eligible For Conservation Poster Contest

Since the future of America's natural resources rests in the hands of the coming generation, the National Wildlife Federation has taken action to interest these youngsters in conservation.

A wildlife poster contest has been organized by the federation with entrants limited to those from the seventh through the twelfth grades of school.

The posters may be submitted in oil, watercolor, black and white, or other media. Any Manstield student interested in entering the contest and aiding conservation (plus getting a chance at top prize of $250) may obtain complete details by contacting Outdoor Editor, News-Journal.

City Hunters Bag King-Size Bunny

Cleve Gordon, 203 East Fourth street, and Harvey Moseley, 146 North Franklin avenue, became convinced Wednesday that there is still big game in Richland county.

A shot by Gordon knocked over a rabbit which weighed nearly seven pounds. The hefty 'jack' had a body length of 20 inches, and a 'stretched out' length of more than two and one-half feet. Gordon and Moseley were hunting in the Five Points area.

Spot Doe, Buck

J. W. Miley and Charles Price, on a recent duck hunting trip at Charles Mill reservoir, spotted a doe and 8-point buck. They were approaching to picture range when the deer fled. Their report, added to several earlier ones, gives fairly certain proof that deer are spreading into Richland county, and the number multiplying. Chances for an open deer season sometime in the future seems to be growing.

Many species of snakes eat chicken eggs by swallowing them whole.

Strange Attacks On Hounds Puzzle Area Coon Hunters

Mansfield coon hunters are beginning to wonder what strange creatures may be inhabiting the local area, following the opening of the 1948 season.

Early in the season a Black and Tan coonhound was killed while fighting something in the night, and few coons come large enough or powerful enough to down a good sized hound in the open. In water, it's a different story. Here a coon can more than hold his own. But the hound was killed on dry land.

Then, the same night Walter Meyers killed his "bald-headed" coon, a large bitch he was running was almost disemboweled by the "Thing". A total of 20 stitches were required to sew up the slash which ran down the dog's stomach.

Further proof that the "Thing" is bigger and fiercer than a coon came from one of Myers' Bluetick hounds. The dog, known to have killed three other hounds in the past, absolutely refused to tangle with the "Thing."

"He just plain turned yellow," Meyers says.

Bobcat? Lynx? Wildcat? Bear? Local nimrods are hunting—and wondering.

Oddendia

Mansfield fishermen who find bait growing short in the late summer should consider the plight of the poor Australian fishermen.

Worms are plentiful there but it takes a man of fearless qualities to tackle one of them with the idea of threading it on a hook.

Some of the Australian earthworms grow ten or twelve feet long and are three-tourths of an inch wide. To be completely honest though, this is the exception since the average worm is a comparative midget—only three to four feet long.

Nobody has yet advanced the idea of eating their eggs but they are about the size of olives. Fawney that, old chap, stuffed earthworm eggs!

Farm Action Gets Backing

Members Voice Their Approval

Vigorous approval of the Richland County Fish and Game association's proposed purchase of a 176-acre conservation farm was shown at the association's meeting Thursday night. In addition to backing present officers for another term, members expressed their approval in comments during the meeting held at North Lake park pavilion.

Pictures of the farm, taken by Harry Constance, vice-president, were shown on a screen. Constance gave a running commentary, explaining where fish breeding ponds and a small lake can be located, and pointing out areas which will provide cover for game.

At the conclusion, Constance flashed on a colored picture of the rising with the prediction:

"Purchase of this farm means the dawn of a new day for the organization."

Shortly before the close of the meeting, several members contributed over $250 in amounts ranging from $5 to $50 to aid the association in completing the deal.

Establishment of a conservation farm has been a goal of the Fish and Game association for years. Many proposed sites have been checked, and found unsatisfactory. It was not until the Barr farm on Springmill road was put up for sale recently that a spot meeting all specifications was found.

Final action on the $14,000 purchase will be completed before the end of the month, with $9,000 of the price covered by mortgage and the balance paid in cash by the association.

Fish Might Be Anywhere—(And Sometimes Are)

BOISE—(AP)—You catch your fish in some of the strangest places in Idaho.

Take the case of the Boise police officer. Making his rounds in a prowl car he saw something flapping on Main street. He picked up a live trout.

Nine-year-old Daniel Peck of Boise caught a 15½-inch sucker in the middle of his lawn. Lloyd Moody of Lewiston caught a 17-inch carp in his basement after flood waters subsided in north Idaho.

Michael Carter, three, of Boise, had to stay home while the "big kids" went fishing. But he wasn't blanked. While helping his mother water the lawn a three-inch squaw fish flipped out the end of the garden hose.

Mrs. May Schultz of Sandpoint was fishing in Lake Pend Oreille when one of those giant Kamloops struck her hook. She stood up to turn around in her boat to better fight the big rainbow. She was pulled overboard.

Ralph Lindberg was fishing with Walt Overson when another Kamloops struck. Lindberg jumped into the lake to seize the line which was fouled under a dock. The line broke, but Lindberg grabbed the short line and hung on. When he lost his grip the fish dove for the bottom, then turned and leaped into Lindberg's face. The well-dunked angler grabbed the short line again and swam for the dock. The four-pound Kamloops made a nice meal.

An angler at McCall was disgusted when he caught a six-pound sucker. He slit the fish open and found a good-sized trout inside.

Mrs. Ken Leavitt of Blackfoot insists there is no trouble landing fish in Idaho. She sat in her automobile which was parked on a bridge. While listening to a radio account of a prize fight she hauled in a nice trout.

Televisions's Growth Opens Loud Debates

The great debate over the impact television will have on various allied fields is on—with appropriate sound effects

The baby industry, already seen and heard in 22 large metropolitan areas, is beginning to throw its weight around Its impact, while nothing decisive yet, is being felt in sports, movies theaters, night clubs and radio broadcasting, an Associated Press survey shows

The extent of that impact is not yet clear but the fact of its existence no longer can be denied

Last year 180,000 television sets were produced; the first nine months of this year the figure climbed to 500,000 Obviously if more people are watching television they are doing less of something else.

In sports, the new medium definitely is reviving wrestling and hurting minor league baseball in places where the cathode tube is able to bring major league games into the living room

Bill Johnston, who promotes 17 wrestling shows a week in the east, says television has increased his attendance at least 25 per cent. One reason is that the new fans now include women attracted to it by television

Video's first baseball victim may be the New York Yankees' once profitable international league franchise at Newark There's talk of moving Newark out of the range of TV cameras shooting major league ball in nearby New York

In 1946, when Yankee Giant and Dodger games were not televised, Newark drew 264 000 This year the attendance fell to 165 000 Minor league clubs at Jersey City and Baltimore also have been hard hit

However, you can't prove a thing by major league baseball which set a new attendance record last season Certainly television hasn t hurt it Maybe it s helped if you accept the theory that the attendance record was aided and abetted by new fans attracted through video.

HURTS FOOTBALL

Pro football promoters rapidly are developing 'television nerves' In baseball bad weather may bring a postponement Other big-time sports are held indoors But football is played in all weather

'Already" says an official of the All-America conference we are beginning to find" that fans are staying in front of their television sets when the weather turns cold or wet'

Boxing is something else The Zale-Cerdan fight which wasn't televised failed to draw its expected gate The last Louis-Walcott fight which was televised, drew well But that the two fields are becoming more and more allied is illustrated in repeated reports that CBS was buying into boxings newest promotional group, the tournament of champions

Hockey and basketball at Madison Square Garden, are playing to 98 per cent of capacity night after night although these contests have been televised for years Explains Ned Irish Garden executive vice president

Television may hurt a one-shot promotion but those of us who are in the business all year believe it will bring us many new customers'

Movie theaters in New York report a drop in attendance as a result of television but out in Hollywood the major studios are making no statements. However, Hollywood's awareness of the new industry is evident.

None of the big studios is making films for television, none will permit its old films to be televised where the studios still control same Films being televised come from other sources—quickie producers of horse operas, small independents, foreign firms, re-issue distributors, or outfits making movies exclusively for television

As a general rule, the studios don't permit their stars to appear on television, except for paramount which gfants permission for only its own stations The studios argue that present video doesn t do their stars justice

Water Will Be Pure In 1950

AIGLE Switzerland— (AP) —The citizens of this little market town in the Rhone Valley are finally going to have drinking water free of tubercular germs

For more than 30 years, the town of Aigle has protested against infected water released from the great tuberculosis sanatorium at Leysin, in the mountains above Aigle A government analysis of drinking water drawn from springs at a lower level showed as long ago as 1915 that tubercular germs were present in the water

At reglar intervals for over 30 years the Aigle town council has demanded that the Leysin authorities install a water purification plant at the sanatorium The work was never undertaken because of its prohibitive cost The Leysin authorities have finally agreed to begin the erection of a purification plant by 1950

Missionaries Eye Law In Burma

RANGOON — (AP) — American Missionary leaders are concerned over immigration laws which they say are hampering the scope of foreign missionary work in Burma

Under Burmese law, a foreigner is forbidden residence in the country for a period of more than three months, except with permission of the Controller of Immigration. Extension, on application, is given only if the Controller is satisfied the presence of the foreigner is not detrimental to Burmese interests This clause was introduced mainly to safeguard jobs But no one is sure how it will be interpreted

Australians Retain Friendship

Scoff at Strained Relations With U. S.

SYDNEY—(AP)—Australians still look on Uncle Sam as a good friend in peace or war

There has been a lot of talk lately in the Australian parliament about a strain in diplomatic relations between the United States and Australia

But this has passed right over the average Australian s head He doesn't believe it is true neither does U S Ambassador Myron M Cowen, nor the Australian government.

The strained relations statements all came from members of parliament politically opposed to the Labor government. The opposition speakers apparently sought to underline what they regard as clumsy handling of the request to the United States for recall of the so-called "Manila girls"

These were the Australian women who left the dominion in 1946 to work as civilian employes of the United States armed forces in Pacific bases Some went to the United States to work after their jobs in the Pacific had ended. The Australian government asking their return said the United States had broken an agreement by not repatriating them

(In Washington state department officials said the few Australian girls who had come to the United States from their wartime jobs in the Pacific were in the country legally and so far no stand had been taken on the Australian request)

John T Lang an independent Labor member first spoke of 'the impairing of friendly relations with the U S A' He said they were weakened by charges of Immigration Minister Arthur A Calwell that the United States had violated an agreement to return the girls

ROW DIES DOWN

The row about the Manila girls died down Then a week later the attention of parliament was directed to a poster which compared methods of government in Australia and the United States

The poster was put out by the commonwealth office of education a small government office It showed among other things a wire-pulling political boss operating behind the scenes in American government

A Liberal party member Joseph P Abbott, asked that the poster be withdrawn 'in view of the present strained relations with the United States Distribution was stopped

In a later interview Abbott said he believed relations between the United States and Australia had been damaged by recent Australian government actions He referred particularly to the handling of the request recall of the Manila girls' and said these silly actions leave scars behind

Underlying the opposition attacks is the belief that the Australian government is politically vulnerable to charges that it does not combat communism vigorously enough

One of the opposition's strongest themes is that that Australian government's tolerance of communists has been responsible for the reported refusal of the U S. to give Australia defense secrets.

Immigration Minister Calwell defended in the House of Representatives his demand for the return of the 'Manila girls' from the United States

Declaring he was taking his stand on a matter of principle Calwell said "I see no reason why I should make it easy for anybody particularly the representatives of a great power, to escape the obligations which they entered into with the government of this country'

The following day Calwell answering what appeared to be a pre-arranged question by a private Labor member, emphasized that Australian relations with the United States are good

Minister for Defense John J Dedman told parliament it is absurd to say relations with the U S are in any way strained

New London Jaycees Use Yule Theme

Christmas Events Grab Spotlight

NEW LONDON —"Christmas" was the theme at the special Jaycee meeting Thursday night, with full plans being laid for the Jaycee "all out" participation this year.

Outstanding among the events being planned will be the Community Christmas on Christmas Eve, with a 25-foot tree erected near the square, festooned with lights and the proverbial Santa Claus with his treat of Christmas candy for distribution among the children.

The Jaycees are awaiting arrival of the four-foot high trees that will be used to decorate the streets. These trees will be bracketed to the electric light poles and covered with lights. In addition, a committee has been named to ascertain what needy families may be aided, and report on Dec. 9, the regular Jaycee meeting night.

Elaborate plans also are being made by th Jaycees to give their own quarters a "Christmacy" look. Special decorations will be placed outside the windows and throughout the rooms. Recorded Christmas music will be broadcast nightly from the Jaycee headquarters and to end the holiday season, a Jaycee dance is being planned for Jan. 14. Arrangements are in the hands of Lowell Lehman.

A discussion also was held on the remodeling of the Jaycee rooms after Jan. 1. New chairs are to be procured, a library is to be started and other new furniture secured. In anticipation of the January drive for new members and the strengthening of the club.

Final committee reports on the Christmas work must be handed in by Thursday, date of the next regular Jaycee meetng.

Two Couples Wed 50 Year

WILLARD—Two local couples observe their golden wedding anniversaries here today with open house slated from 2 to 5 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Paden, of 622 Park street, will be honored with a dinner at noon by their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Frye, and tomorrow night the Rebekah lodge will honor the Padens with a dinner. The couple has three children and six grandchildren and have lived here for 47 years, coming from Andover.

Both are active in church and civic affairs and he is a retired Baltimore and Ohio baggage master.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Slattery expect four generations to attend their celebration. A son, Guy, observes his 25th wedding anniversary on the same day. The Slatterys were married in Hopkins, Mo., and he worked at Reading, Pa. before assuming the managership of an elevator in Sherwood, O., in 1918 and coming here in 1922.

From 1922 until April, 1945, Mr. and Mrs. Slattery were manager and bookkeeper respectively of the Farmers Exchange here. Both are in good health and active members of the Grace Methodist church.

Treasurers Elect Holmes Official

COLUMBUS — Ruby Walter Cowgill, Holmes county treasurer, was installed as president of the State Association of County Treasurers here Friday as the three-day annual convention closed. Karl K. Kick, Ashland county treasurer, was elected treasurer of the group.

The meeting recommended the state legislature consider the repeal of the Whittemore Act, or 10-year-plan of paying delinquent real estate taxes.

Other recommendations to be presented the Ohio legislature included the revision of tangible and classified tax laws and a law requiring a receipt of real estate taxes before deed transfers.

Baldwin-Wallace Sets Recital For Dec. 12

BEREA—Climax of the Fall quarter's full schedule of student and faculty recitals at Baldwin-Wallace college will come Sunday, Dec. 12, when the B-W orchestra and choir combine for an afternoon program beginning at 4. It will be in the auditorium of the Kulas Musical Arts building on the B-W campus.

Corn Goes Higher

Elevator carries corn to upstairs crib on the Faulkner farm. Dogs are interested observers as the corn is taken from a dump wagon and placed on the electrically-driven elevator by Laurance and his father, Roy.

★

Weevils, Maybe?

There's always something to worry about. Roy Faulkner checks a bin of wheat to determine if the grain is weevil-infested. Carelessness can be costly, so little chores as well as big ones must be done at the proper times.

★

It's In the Bag

Sacking grain from an electric hammer mill is a daily chore for Laurance Faulkner. Feed is needed regularly for all the stock and these farm "boarders" don't like to have their meals delayed. Overhead bins supply the grinder.

Always Hungry

Lambs are fat, and they must be fed amply if they are to stay in prime condition. Photo shows Laurance Faulkner, 24, son of Roy Faulkner, owner of a 205-acre farm on Champion road, Shelby, R. D. 3, feeding 92 Shropshire lambs.

Cold Weather Brings No Rest Period For Rural Residents of Area

Harvest's Over, But Wintertime Chores Keep Farmers Busy

By BILL HERRING
(News-Journal State Editor)

The advent of cold weather stresses chore time to rural residents of Richland county. Chores are a daily 'must' in life on a farm but winter brings extra hours to catch up on needed repairs and construction as the farmers are relieved of field duties. Crops already harvested so barnyard fixings are in order.

In 'bedding down' the farm for the winter months attention must center on getting livestock off pasture, checking orchards, cleaning up junk and trash, ordering lime and fertilizers, butchering and checking grain bins, water tanks and shelters for needed repairs.

C. N. McGrew, Richland county agriculture agent, will offer schools farmers are urged to attend in January and February. These will be held in connection with herd health, dairy barn remodeling and a milking machine clinic.

Drainage presents a problem to many farmers and open ditch cleaning heads many winter chore lists. In many instances temporary cribs must be constructed to handle extra corn.

WEATHER HARMS CORN

Corn harvesting still continues, with farmers reporting the wet weather has left its imprint and, by the corn not drying out properly, there is fear it will mold in the crib. Winter wheat planting is in despite it being a wet year. Sept. 25 was the free-fly date so October saw most of the area wheat planted.

New buildings are needed with the livestock brought in off pasture. Dairy farms generally escape this problem with adequate housing for cattle. The fall farrowing is over but decent housing, in a big barn or small portable houses, is required for the young pigs and sows.

Fencing repair is a spring item but some attention can be given this during not-too-cold months. Farmers having a repair shop to care for farm machinery are in an envious position.

With most county farms electrified the cutting and gathering of wood isn't such a general problem. Some wood is needed for the few homes still using wood-burning stoves but coal is a common heat element. The greatest users of wood are farmers running a maple sugar camp.

STORAGE SPACE NEEDED

Storage space must be planned for fruit for most of it has been picked by now although some sell direct from the grader. Butchering of beef and pork is under way with little mutton reaching rural tables although the lamb pool in Greenwich, from September to April 1, gives advice on how to get a better lamb on the market.

Bees that aren't too industrious can pose a feeding problem on the farm during the cold months. In many instances farmers must feed them and inspection of hives for diseased colonies is another winter chore.

Orchards should be checked for mice and rabbit damage. Preparations must be made to eliminate them, if traces are found, and this means wire screening around small trees as rabbit protection and poison for mice.

Water-cooled engines used on the farm during winter must be checked for anti-freeze and the winter grade of lubricants. Outdoor water tanks should be checked for leaks ice sheetings might bring out and shelters need to be erected in some cases as further protection in cold weather.

DDT disinfecticides are suitable for dusting lousy and grubby cattle. The long coat of hair on some cattle encourages this. Farm machinery repairs should be made in the cold months.

POULTRY NEED ATTENTION

Poultry should be off clover and pasture ranges and in permanent poultry houses to encourage laying. Orders should be placed for chicks to be delivered late in the winter or early spring if facilities permit their handling early in the year so market benefits can be realized.

Grain bins must be checked for the presence of weevil and to see if they're too damp when the grain goes in. Dairy milk houses need a method of securing hot water in cold months to meet sanitation requirements.

Good soil and water management is stressed throughout the county. This involves contour strip plowing and a crop rotation system in many instances.

"If the farmer caulks walls of his house and barns it keeps cold air out," McGrew reminds county farmers.

Storage space also hits right into the house for many home gardeners and flower gardeners have their peculiar problems. Tender roses should be put to bed and precautions taken to prevent their freezing.

MUST AWAIT MARKET

Vegetable storage is another task confronting farmers. Celery is put in trenches before the first hard freeze and held for the Christmas market. A dirt floor in the cellar is beneficial for storage. Potatoes are out of the ground now and must be marketed when the market opens up after Christmas. This means adequate storage place is needed.

Lime orders should be placed now and it needs to be spread when the ground, or sod, is frozen for next year's crops. It makes a good top dressing for pasture and corn stubble fields.

With an indication that fertilizers will be scarce next year it behooves farmers to place their orders early, McGrew pointed out.

After learning just what winter chores mean on the farm many city residents will speak more softly when they refer to their rural cousins as having "nothing to do in the winter after all the crops are in."

Crestline Plans Yule Sing Dec. 19

CRESTLINE—Dr. E. G. Hesser will direct the Community Christmas Sing in the high school auditorium on Sunday, Dec. 19 at 7:30 p. m. This popular feature is sponsored by the Kiwanis club.

At Wednesday noon's meeting Rev. R. L. Van Scoy and A. A. Remy will discuss the communism and capitalism question. Last Wednesday A. B. Babb, of the Ohio Aid for the Aged, discussed his work in a meeting held in the YMCA.

Willard Engineer Retires After 46 Years of Service

WILLARD—The announcement is made of the retirement, after 46 years of service, of T. A. Maroney as a Baltimore & Ohio passenger locomotive engineer at the age of 65.

He was born at Avilla, Ind., and began firing at the age of 19. He hired out as a flagman on Aug. 10, 1902 and made his first run on the Chicago division out of Willard. He then came here to live.

Maroney says that being a member of a locomotive crew 46 years ago was a hazardous occupation because wrecks were so frequent; the railroads had no block signal systems, the B. & O. Chicago division was partly single track, and there was no 16-hour law to assure men of sufficient rest. Further equipment was not maintained and safety was not emphasized as it is now.

The 20-hundred locomotives that were in operation 46 years ago on the B. & O. were then considered the last word in engines, he reports, but operating one of them was a real undertaking compared with sitting in the comfortable cab of the Diesel locomotives he last ran.

He entered the passenger service in 1937. He is a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; the Elks lodge of Norwalk, and is a charter member of the Willard Elks lodge. The Maroneys live at 418 Myrtle avenue.

Rehearsals Under Way In Bucyrus

Choirs, Choruses Prep for Holiday

BUCYRUS— Several Bucyrus church choirs and school choruses are engaged in rehearsals for annual Christmas cantatas and other holiday musical programs, a survey indicated yesterday.

The Bucyrus high school chorus and choir, directed by Miss Edith Ulmer, are practicing for an assembly program to be given at the school on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 21, prior to the school's dismissal for the Christmas holidays. The program will include sacred numbers and several carols.

A cantata, "The Promised Light," is in rehearsal by members of First Methodist church choir under the direction of Mrs. M. G. Boyd. A children's program also is being planned at the same church. Dates for the presentations have not been set.

A candlelight service will be held by Woodlawn Evangelical Christmas Eve at 6:30 p. m. The Woodlawn choir will offer several Christmas selections the Sunday before Christmas at church services and on Wednesday night, Dec. 22, will go caroling.

At Grace Evangelical United Brethren church, a pageant, "Joy Bells of Christmas," will be presented at 7:30 p. m. on Sunday, Dec. 19. Children in the beginners and intermediate departments as well as the choir will participate in the presentation.

Stricken Vet Builds Home

ELYRIA—(AP)—From his wheel chair, War Veteran Robert E. Riley is putting the finishing touches on a four room bungalow he has been building for more than two years.

Of course, the 28-year-old Riley, whom a German sniper's bullet paralyzed from the waist down, has had some help; but he is his own contractor and has done much of the work from the foundation up.

He slapped on siding, paint and mortar as high as he could reach from his wheel chair, and his 11-year-old cousin, Donald Riley, went on from there. Three friends helped put on the shingles. Riley did all the plumbing.

The little house will cost him about $2,450, he estimates. The bankers told him two years ago it would cost twice that. That was when he decided to do it himself, although he never laid a building tile before.

In the fall of 1946, when the Army hospitals turned Riley loose after 16 months, he said they suggested he "take up watch repairing or something like that," and he told them:

"Naw, I'll make my own job."

He chose automobile repair work.

Matter of fact, if Riley weren't so busy fixing cars and hadn't taken time out to build a garage, the house would have been finished long ago.

Lucas 4-H Club Girl Wins Trip

Visits Congress; Expenses Paid

LUCAS — Mrs. Robert Butterbaugh, Lucas R. D. 1, returned home Friday from a four-day stay at the 27th Nathional 4-H club Congress in Chicago, an all-expense trip that she won for having the best 4-H girls record in Ohio.

Half of the 22-year life of Mrs. Butterbaugh, the former Helen Barick, of Upper Sandusky before her Sept. 5 marriage ,has spent in 4-H activity. The records she has to show for the events in those 11 years won her the educational trip. Her 4-H career was reviewed in a Chicago radio broadcast Saturday morning.

Her winning records included momentoes from many phases of the 4-H program. There were programs of clubs campfires, camps (both as a camper and counsellor) and fairs where 12 of the 15 ribbons she won were blue ones. She had certificates of achievement, project books and project material portraying her as a winner in county demonstration contests and style revues.

Her 4-H work was done in clubs at Upper Sandusky where she held offices of news reporter, president and vice-president before serving junior leadership groups and as an advisor for five years. Her bronze and gold membership pins denote five and ten-year club service.

New London Plans $60,000 Hospital Fund Drive

By HENRY PARNELL
(N-J State Correspondent)

NEW LONDON—Above is the architect's conception of what New London's proposed new hospital will look like. Plans now are under way to start a campaign to raise the required $60,000 needed to get this building erected.

Present facilities are highly inadequate, lack of space being the major factor.

The proposed hospital will be built on a lot donated some time ago by G. W. Emerson and Sons west of the village, elevated and away from factory and other city noises. Utilities will be available to the property at little expense.

Wilmer White, head of the White Trucking and Transportation company and chairman of the hospital campaign, is optimistic over the coming drive, even though architect and consultant figures show the cost of the building is approximately 25 per cent higher than the original figure of $50,000. Together with the $25,000 the present hospital now has available, it is estimated the building costs will be about $85,000.

John Marquis, president of the New London hospital board, indicated last week upon completion of the new hospital, New London will be in need of additional supervisory and nursing staff here. The present three shifts will be maintained, but additional nurses will be added.

In keeping with the Ohio Nurses association, the qualifiers will receive $165 monthly, necessary meals, two weeks vacation, and other requirements.

Formal reorganization of the committee will take place at a meeting on Monday night, Jan. 3, when officers will be elected and a constitution and a 1949 program outlined. County Agriculture Agent Russell L. Miller announced.

The committee was established in 1946 to minimize farm accidents and acquaint rural citizens with state industrial insurance required of an employer of more than two individuals.

A committee, composed of Agent Miller, County School Superintendent S. K. Sollars, James Krauter, Clifford Hoover, both of near Bucyrus, and Mrs. Floyd Krees of Leesville, will choose nominees for the various offices.

Crawford Triple A Units To Lose Veteran Officer

TIRO — When the newly elected committeemen of the Crawford County Agricultural Adjustment Administration take over their duties a veteran Triple A man will retire from the Liberty and Sandusky township committee after 15 years of continuous service.

When the present AAA was set up in the county Baker was elected committeeman and several times served as chairman.

Baker will be 77 on Dec. 17 and assists his son, Earl, on his Liberty township farm. He has been active in agricultural and community projects and served as a member of the Board of Education.

Walter Zimmerman is another Crawford county farmer who is retiring from Triple A activities this year. He also served since the early days of the organization. He lives on a farm west of Galion and also has been active in community and farm projects.

UNEARTHED IN JAIL REMODELING—Crumbling with rust, this ancient punishment device was unearthed recently from beneath the floor in the Plymouth jail. Marshall Bob Meisner shows the length of the five-foot and hand-forged chain, attached to the 50-pound ball.

"UNCLE BILLY" AND THE JAIL—Shown standing in front of the tiny white brick jail is "Uncle Billy" Hatch, the town's oldest living marshal. At 91, "Uncle Billy" doesn't recall a ball and chain ever use on a prisoner in the jail.—(News-Journal photos by Bill Graham)

Jail Cache Discovery Puzzles Plymouth

There's more speculation going on in Plymouth nowadays than at a cock fight back of the county fair cow barn.

It all started about two weeks ago when Marshal Bob Meisner ordered the old stone floor removed in the town's picturesque little jail.

An ancient ball and chain, its iron hide red with rust and crumbling with age, was pulled from an under-floor cache.

Now the whole town's talking. It even has "Uncle Billy" Hatch, the town's oldest living marshal, wondering.

Says Uncle Billy: "This jail's 82 years old. That ball and chain must have been planted underneath her—nobody knows when or how long ago.

"I've been here nigh on to 91 years. I'd say that ball was over 100 years old."

Just about everyone in town agrees with Uncle Billy since he's the oldest "authority" on the subject. But the 50-pound ball and six-and-a-half-pounds of chain still keeps them guessing.

The entire populace of the town has had ample opportunity to view the ancient impediment to restless prisoners. Ever since it was unearthed from the chimney closet in the white-brick jail it has been on display in the window at Brown and Miller hardware store on the square.

So far the oddity hasn't failed to start a half dozen or so conversations a day.

Marshal Bob says he believes the chain and anklet were hand-forged since one can see the welding points where the chain was melted together. The keyhole in the anklet is scarcely visible now because of the rust. Meisner would like to have the ball sandblasted in hopes of finding a date, but he's afraid the treatment would be a little too violent for the crumbling sphere.

Mayor Carroll A. Robinson has his own opinion on the purpose of the ball and chain:

"The marshal and I were talking the other night about it. We just thought maybe it was used to hold runaway slaves who escaped this far north. That would have to be before the Civil War."

The jail was erected as the "mayor's office" in 1866. Uncle Billy remembers that his brother hauled sand for the building, which today is a tiny, 22 x 38 foot structure with a new concrete floor and due for a new heating and lighting system for its two-cell accommodations.

Word of the ball and chain has spread miles outside the little community and the collectors have poured in.

"There have been nine people here to buy it so far," Marshal Meisner mused. "One offered me $75 for it, but it's not for sale."

So, since Plymouth has no museum or other such facilities for housing the ball and chain, it's likely to be in the hardware store window for some time.

Teenager Makes Greenhouse Venture Pay

Rural Youth Starts Business

By VIRGINIA LEE
(N-J Staff Correspondent)

LUCAS—This is the "success" story of a rural teenager who is prospering in a business that he established for himself He is Harold Robinson, 18-year-old proprietor of Hilltop Greenhouse near Lucas

Once upon a time, prior to 1947 to be exact, the Lucas community had no florist, no greenhouse and it seemed then, little need for either. People don't miss what they've never had but a gangling high school boy, who always had a hankering for flowers and plants, did. He had ideas that led to plans and action.

He knew the community folk even if they weren t flower conscious had occasions like weddings and funerals, that required flowers bought elsewhere He thought that with a little promotion they would become aware of many other occasions where flowers would be necessary He sensed opportunity knocking on the door of his sophomore classroom and began dreaming of a florist shop of his own for Lucas

Robinson was practical enough to know that dreams are not the stuff that businesses are built from, however, he determined to get a part time job to learn fundamentals of the trade as well as earn money toward it. At first nearby florists had no job for him. He was too young and inexperienced but his persistence paid off eventually.

He is grateful to a Mansfield florist who finally employed him and taught him many secrets of the business but not before he had learned much for himself by experimenting with garden plantings and seed beds and visiting every flowershop he could with a supply of questions

Hilltop Greenhouse located on his father s 21-acre farm south of Lucas, opened Nov 15 1947 when Robinson was a senior in Lucas school

"The returns have not been so big," Robinson said modestly, "but I've better than broken even since the time I started and each month has shown an increase"

Undoubtedly most of the profits have gone back into the business since new specimens are in evidence each visit to the greenhouse. Right now when most displays concern Christmas, Robinson also has Easter flowers in the cold frame to be brought in after January 1, geraniums and dusty miller for Memorial Day and even double petunias and such varieties in the seed flats for Mother's Day!

HAROLD ROBINSON

While operating on a small scale, as compared with city florists, Robinson has planned his greenhouse plantings with a view to having blooming plants throughout the year and a profusion in the summer months when he has flowers "strung all over the farm,' He buys flowers of any kind to fill any orders.

To develop the community's "flower consciousness" Robinson maintains a Lucas store window for fresh displays and price quotations all the time.

"Have you ever regretted starting your own business?" this reporter queried

The answer "Are you kidding? I love it"

Isn't this success?

Falling 'Burning Wheel' Baffles Bellefontaine

BELLEFONTAINE — (AP) —A "burning wheel" fell in an [illegible] residential area here Friday night

William H Reynolds told police it flashed past a window in his home "all afire and spinning like mad"

Several other persons saw the "wheel"—which was about the size of an automobile's—burning intensely on the ground. Reynolds was the only one who reported seeing it in the air. It had burned itself out by the time police arrived

Officers collected bits of burned metal, however, and yesterday Police Chief A D Paden said the metal "looks like magnesium"

He theorized a magnesium flare was released accidentally from an airplane passing over the city. There were no reports of emergency plane landings in the area.

Father-Son Fete Brings Galion Fun

Guest Speaker Provides Laughs

GALION—Good philosophy and "food" for thought were interspersed with witticisms which kept his audience in laughter when Rev. Paul Walter, pastor of Ev. United Brethren church was guest speaker for the Father and Son banquet of the Hi-Y club of Galion high school.

His subject was "Chip Off the Old Block," and he advised the "chips" to live their lives so that the family name and traditions may be carried on with honor.

The banquet, held in the Masonic Temple, was attended by 90 members and fathers. A turkey dinner was served by a group of women of the First Methodist church. Yuletide decorations prevailed on the tables. Rev. R. R. Elliker, pastor of First Reformed church, offered thanks.

The program was opened with group singing led by Rev. Walter, with Richard Elliker at the piano. Edward Feidner was toastmaster. He presented Richard Elliker, president of the club who greeted the guests. Toast to the fathers was given by Jim Schwartz, response by Carl Baehr. The toastmaster also introduced M. E. Shank, superintendent of schools, E. R. Pickering, principal of the Senior high school, and Ora Tracht, club sponsor.

Pay Raises Shape

AKRON—(AP)—Common Pleas Judge Walter B. Wanamaker Friday cleared the way for a raise from $1,500 to $2,000 a year for 13 members of the city council, effective Jan. 1. He ruled such a move is strictly a matter of home rule. The law director asked Wanamaker for a ruling.

Jury Indicts Victim's Son

PORTSMOUTH — (AP) — The grand jury indicted George E. Obrist jr., on a charge of auto theft Friday.

Young Obrist, now a student at the University of Utah, is the son of the late Dr. Obrist, the Portsmouth physician who was slain in his own backyard.

The father's killer never has been caught.

The youth has admitted stealing an auto formerly owned by his father "for sentimental reasons" although he himself owned a better car. He kept the car concealed for a year.

Young Obrist's case was turned over to the grand jury by the juvenile court. The Bureau of Juvenile Research in Columbus earlier recommended to the juvenile court that young Obrist be paroled. The court did not follow that recommendation.

Women Take Bigger Part In Politics

(By Associated Press)

Far more women are seated in the parliaments of the world today than ever before. Hundreds have gained their seats in recognition of the fight women waged in World War II, in both underground and open warfare.

A check by Associated Press bureaus in Europe, Latin America and the far east shows there are at least 685 feminine legislators and that the most spectacular increase has occurred in countries where women had little or no political stature before the war.

Outstanding among these are France, Italy and Japan. In other European countries the number of women lawmakers has increased from two to eight times since the immediate postwar period.

By contrast, in the United States and Great Britain where women's political activity is a much older story, the increase is much less. The United States moved from five to nine women national lawmakers and Britain from 13 to 21.

How effective are women legislators? In the United States and Britain they have been as effective as men in helping produce legislation of primary importance. In countries where they are relatively new at the job opinions vary.

Men legislators of many countries say their feminine colleagues' voices are rarely heard, and that the laws they do push are confined chiefly to the special field. The women answer that such laws are extremely important because they correct social evils believed to have been at the roots of many wars

RARE CHINA—Mrs. Elsie Scheuer, 120 Lind avenue, displays imported china from famous European potteries which have reopened since the war. The display includes pieces from the Schumann and Rosenthal potteries in Bavaria, Germany, Tuscon bone china from England, and a few pieces from Japan and Italy. Mrs. Scheuer, before coming with her husband from Berlin 10 years ago, made a hobby of collecting china. She has now turned the hobby into a small-scale business at home by importing and selling items which have not been available for years.

India Cotton Supply Split

NEW DELHI—(AP)—India, the second largest cotton-growing country in the world, has to import annually medium and long-staple cotton varieties worth about $75,000,000. This excludes the quantity she imports from Pakistan.

Partition of the Indian subcontinent left vast tracts of cotton soil in Pakistan and all the cotton mills in India. The total annual output in both the dominions is on the average of 4,000,000 bales of which Pakistan's share is one-fourth.

Pakistan promised to supply India 650,000 bales of cotton in return for cloth. The government of India is planning to make India self-sufficient in cotton and has suggested the production of more coarse cloth and less finer varieties to reduce India's dependence on foreign cotton.

Building Job Pushed

If favorable weather continues, the 12-room addition being built on the Springfield township school at Ontario, will be under roof within a few days, L. C. Stingel, principal, said yesterday.

The addition was started last July by the W. H. Howard Construction company of Columbus. It will include five classrooms, library, cafeteria kitchen, rest rooms and several smaller rooms.

Building of the addition was approved three years ago in a $200,000 school levy by Springfield township residents. In addition to the building levy, a three-mill operating levy was passed at that time and an additional three-mill operating levy this last fall.

The school is being built of red brick to match the original building.

ACCEPT NEW BOMBERS

WASHINGTON,— (UP) — The air force has accepted delivery on its first Boeing B-47 "Stratojet" bomber, a high-speed ship with 18 jet engines and swept-back wings. The Stratojet is in the 600-mile an hour class with a cruising radius of more than 800 miles and a bomb capacity of 10 tons.

Rising Prices Spawn Unrest In Zones of West Germany

FRANKFURT, GERMANY, — (AP) — Rising prices are spawning unrest in western Germany.

There are many signs that the American and British zones are headed for a wave of strikes and possibly riots on the French pattern.

Some German officials are predicting public disorders unless the soaring price kite is hauled down.

And a member of the German Trade Union federation's executive committee forecasts "a number of large scale strikes" unless rising prices are checked.

Some 8,000,000 trade union members staged a one-day general strike Nov. 12 in protest against rising prices. It was the biggest demonstration in Germany since the war. Industry throughout the American and British zones was paralyzed.

And in Stuttgart thousands rioted late in October following a protest meeting against spiraling prices. For the first time since the war, Germans battled Americans. Five U. S. military policemen and a dozen German policemen were injured before the crowd was dispersed.

The bizonal council of trade unions is demanding sweeping measures to overcome what it calls an economic emergency. The chairman of the Hesse (state) Trade Union federation says present economic policies "are threatening the very existence of the workers" and rising prices if allowed to continue will result in economic catastrophe.

Since the recent currency reform measures, the official said, price increases have slashed workers' real earnings about 50 per cent while wages have gone up only 15 per cent.

Labor claims the lifting of many price and rationing controls has caused steep price increases, and it demanded a special price control law directed against execessive prices, the proclamation of an economic state of emergency, and extended powers for the police to halt rising prices.

American military government officials lay high prices to this simple cause—the volume of goods in western Germany cannot meet the demand.

This is a postwar condition existing in many countries, not only Germany, they assert, and the permanent solution which these nations are seeking and which Germany must seek is greater production.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Greatest Supersonic Wind Tunnel Ready

By JAMES J. STREBIG, AP Aviation Reporter

CLEVELAND—The world's greatest supersonic wind tunnel has been built here to test jet engines under stratospheric flight conditions. First tests are expected to be run soon.

Some wind tunnels are larger and some are faster, but no other combines the speed and size of this new research tool at Lewis Flight Propulsion Laboratory. The laboratory is one of three operated by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics (NACA), chief government aviation research agency.

The tunnel is a statistical monster. Nearly $7,000,000 and three years were needed to build it. The world's largest electric power installation on a single shaft turns the biggest fan to compress air that zips through the test section at 1,500 miles an hour.

Such performance requires fantastic amound of power, air drying capacity, cooling capacity and noise absorption, combined with precision equalled only in great telescopes.

The test section in which modesl of jet engines will be run under simulated flight conditions is six feet wide and eight feet high. Since the test section is the pay-off in a wind tunnel, those dimensions give it the official name: "Eight by six foot supersonic tunnel."

The tunnel is rate at twice the speed of sound, which under normal conditions is about 760 miles an hour. This speed is obtained by compressing the air in a "throat," then letting it expand after leaving the constricted area. The high speeds are reached during the rush of expanding air.

The purpose of this costly project is the study of new powerplants and the nacelles which house them in aircraft and missiles designed to fly at speeds of 1,000 miles an hour and up.

Power performance will be measured under precisely controlled conditions. The effect of air inlet design at varying speeds will be demonstrated for study of this vital element of jet engines.

Scientists will be able to watch the tests directly, study the results in photographs or see them on television screens in remote control rooms. Some day the public too may see actual tests of mighty engines being developed for warplanes, missiles or transports.

MAJOR ELEMENTS

These are the major elements in the new tunnel:

1. A hugh air-drying building in which the moisture is reduced to that found above 35,000 feet. Incoming air is pulled through beds of activated alumina, of powder which absorbs moisture. During one hour of operation on a average summer day, these beds will absorb about 15,000 gallons of water. When the air leaves this drier, it has only one-tenth as much moisture as desert air in summertime.

2. A power section to drive the compressor. This consists of three electric motors on a single shaft capable of 100,000 hoursepower. It was built (by General Electric) at a cost of $1,115,000. The motor unit is 72 feet long and weighs 550,000 pounds.

3. A compressor unit located at the start of the tunnel. It consists of a rotor with 384 18-foot blades on the end of the motor shaft. A series of 580 fixed blades straightens the air as it heads towards the test section. The rotor can turn up to 900 revolutions per minute, although it weighs 130 tons—nearly as much as a fully loaded B-36 bomber. This great compressor moves 2,400 pounds of air each second, or enough air to fill 1,000 rooms 10 by 10 by 20 feet every minute.

4. A test section which lies beyond a variable width "throat" through which the speed around the model under test can be controlled. This "throat" has two slabs of stainless steel, each 35 feet long and one inch thick, which can be flexed by operating dozens of hydraulic jacks. The sides of the flexible walls and the test section are as smooth as glass.

Observation windows in the test section and huge mirrors used in photographing shock waves are as fine as it is possible to make them. Pouring, cooling and grinding the windows and mirrors required about two years.

5. A "diffuser tunnel" and noise reducing baffles through which the air is allowed to escape. Control of the noise is an important item, particularly since tests will be run only during the early morning hours when otherwise idle electric power capacity can be used. The long trumpet like tunnel is being encased in masonry to contain the roar of speeding air until it can be dispersed through the muffler section.

The electric motors use so much power that each unit is started and stopped separately. The power company must be notified in advance so that generators can be started and stopped as needed.

The tunnel is known as the "blow-through" type. Air is sucked in by the compressor at one end, pushed into the tunnel and allowed to escape at the other end, pushed into the tunnel and allowed escape at the other end. In the more common type air is recirculated. This plan was discarded as impractical because the air will be heavily mixed with exhaust gasses and moisture from the test engine.

FARMS ELECTRIFIED

STOCKHOLM — (AP) — Soviet collective farms have put into operation already this year more collective farm hydroelectric stations than were previously put into operation during the past thirty years.

WEIGHTY MATTER—Just why tiny Linda Nell Harris, Inglewood, Calif., should be so disturbed about the world into which she has been born is difficult to understand. A Caesarean baby, she weighed 12 pounds at the time of birth. Her mother is Mrs. Juanella Harris. (International Sound photo.)

Moustache Kiss Like Sandpaper, Ida Finds

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Kissing Glenn Ford, says Ida Lupino, is just like wiping the lips with sandpaper.

Ford wears a bristly moustache and beard for "Greed," yet another epic of the 80's, in which he portrays a gold prospector. According to the story, Ida is supposed to like kissing him. She insists she doesn't.

Columbua's writers (who first called the picture "Bonanza!") says Glenn shaves about half way through the script. Ida's waiting, but not patiently.

Diagnosis For 'Military' TB Devised By Doctors

WASHINGTON, — (AP) — A team of Washington doctors report that they have developed a fast, simple and effective way to diagnose "military" tuberculosis—the kind that seldom can be detected early by X-ray or other means.

Gallinger Municipal hospital researchers say the method is 90 per cent accurate. It involves withdrawing a small amount of bone marrow—the substance in which blood is manufactured—and analyzing it for the presence of "TB" germs.

The doctors say the technique offers a means of spotting the disease in its early stages—thus opening up the possibility of better scores for streptomycin, the one drug that has shown promise against this form of tuberculosis.

"Military" tuberculosis is so called because it is characterized by many tiny patches of infection, like millet seeds. It is carried in the blood stream to various parts of the body. It may attack the liver, spleen or any other organs.

It is distinguished from "pulmonary tuberculosis," or tuberculosis of the lungs, in which the germ attacks lung tissue directly without being carried in the blood stream. Military tuberculosis can also be carried to the lungs in the blood, but the form of infection is different from ordinary pulmonary tuberculosis.

By OLIVE GRESMER, News-Journal Society Editor

SWING your partner and do se do—duck the oyster and then the clam, swing the bacon and then the ham."

This lingo sounds a little strange when you understand it, but think how Exchange club members and their wives felt Friday evening when they heard Esley Cleckner call for a square dance for them. This group had their first experience at square dancing and were just a little bit confused.

If you're an old hand at square dancing that chant of the caller's makes sense, but otherwise you get the impression he's a tobacco auctioneer.

Exchange club members and their wives met informally at Mohican Sailing club for a lesson in the art of this gay dance. Forty couples were attired in sport clothes and collapsed completely following the strenuous sets which Cleckner taught them.

The formation of the square dance consists of four couples, first, second, third and fourth. The couple with their backs to the music is the first couple, the couple at right angle to them is the second; the third couple is at the right angle to the second, and the fourth couple, similarly to the right of the third pair, thus completing the square. The four gentlemen stand to the left of their partners.

The various calls which sound fantastic have special meanings all their own.

DO SE DO—Lady or gent, or two ladies, or two gents forward, pass each other on the right side, step to the left, return backwards on left side, all without turning.

(Are you following me? Or does this strange language still leave you confused?)

Then there's the BALANCE FOUR—Two opposite couples advance four steps, do a bit of jig step and return backwards to place.

TWO LADIES' CHAIN—Ladies of opposite couples cross to the opposite sides, giving right hands as they pass each other, then left hands to opposite gents, and turn around. Return, giving right hands as they pass, left hands to partners and turn around to places.

(You can see why these confused souls were a little out-of-breath after a few routines like these.)

Gene Shoemaker, Don Ogden and Bill Clay were among several who put their heart and soul in the whole procedure.

Skirts went a-flyin' when the caller gave out such calls as "Triple Right and Left Four," "The Girl Behind Me," "Captain Jinks," "Pop Goes the Weasel," "Oh Susannah," "Wearin' of the Green," "Soldiers' Joy" and "Blackberry Quadrille."

Cleckner, who has loved to square dance for as far back as he can remember, has been a caller for only three years. But, believe me, he surely knows how.

According to him the square dance is a coming thing, as more and more groups are becoming interested.

Shoemaker, president of the Exchange club, said his group met Friday evening for the first in a series of informal parties for members and their wives.

If Friday evening's laughter and fun are any indication, it looks like many more gay nights ahead for this organization.

LET'S MAKE CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR THE KITCHEN

By ALICE DENHOFF

IN making up the holiday gift list, there are invariably, folks to whom one desires to give a small, intimate, yet personal gift, rather than an expensive or even inexpensive something from a store. That's where a gift from your very own kitchen, made by your own fair hands, is very much of the essence.

"Sugar and spice, 'n everything nice—that's what little girls are made of." But that's what Christmas is made of, too. For what other holiday boasts an outdoor setting of snow white, accented with the fresh breath of evergreens? and what other holiday gives you the indoor warmth and beauty of light-hearted laughter and friendliness against a festive background of gaily colored decorations?

And don't forget the eats! Nancy Holmes, Best Foods' home economist, hasn't. Here she gives you her gift—a recipe for a delicious White Christmas Cake.

WHITE CHRISTMAS CAKE

½ cup vitaminized margarine
1½ tablespoons boiling water
2⅓ cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups sugar
⅞ cup milk
½ teaspoon almond extract
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
4 egg whites

Add boiling water to margarine in mixing bowl; mix well. Sift dry ingredients; add to margarine with milk and flavorings. Beat two minutes by hand or at moderate speed on electric beater. Add egg whites and beat two minutes. Brush 9-inch tube baking pan with margarine and line bottom of pan with waxed paper brushed with margarine. Pour cake batter into pan and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 45-50 minutes. Remove cake to cooling rack. When cool, frost with Snowflake Icing. Decorate with citron cut to form holly leaves and stem, with candied cherry cut like holly berries. Yield: one 9-inch loaf cake.

SNOWFLAKE ICING

1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
1-3 cup water
1 egg white
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
½ teaspoon almond extract

Combine sugar, cream of tartar and water in a saucepan. Cover and boil for two minutes Pour slowly over unbeaten egg white in bowl of electric mixer; turn to high speed just as syrup is added. Beat 8 minutes or until icing forms peaks. Stir in flavorings. Spread on cake. Yield: one 9-inch loaf cake.

Such a gift might well be a fat little jar of delicious, homemade tangerine jam, beautifully wrapped and beribboned. For a quickly prepared but ever-so-good tangerine jam, remove seeds and webby membrane from 2 c. tangerine sections. Then chop the fruit. Combine with 2 tbsp. each chopped tangerine peel and grapefruit peel, also chopped, and with ¼ grapefruit juice, ¾ c. sugar and ½ c. light corn syrup. Place in saucepan over low heat and bring to a boil, cooking rapidly for 10 min. Remove from heat; pour into sterized jelly glasses or in a dish to cool. Makes about 2 c. jam. To "chop" citrus peel and pulp, use your kitchen scissors.

ANOTHER IDEAL GIFT.

Not really a kitchen item, but made from items in your kitchen, that's the story of the next small gift. Mix together an ounce of ground cloves, powdered nutmeg, caraway seeds and ground cinnamon. Sew into pretty little bags, and there you have sachet with a delicious odor, one that moths will stay away from.

And how about making up a batch of pomanders for those small but personalized gifts? Pomanders, clove-stuck oranges, were used in Colonial times to scent drawers and closets and to do battle with the pesky moth. Today they are very popular again. Stick whole cloves into the skin of very thin-skinned oranges until the rind is completely covered, a chore that the small fry will enjoy. Then roll the orange in equal parts of powdered orris root and ground cinnamon. Pat in as much of the powdered mixture as will adhere to the orange. Wrap the pomander in tissue paper or other soft paper and keep for several weeks. Remove paper, shake off any loose powder, and the pomander is then ready for shelves or drawers.

To hang in a closet, crochet a loose circular cradle, or simply tie the pomander with a piece of ribbon, ending in a loop. Pomanders will keep their fragrance for many years and make pretty gifts.

Not home made but assembled by the giver is a good spice shelf. For the male or female gourmet, especially for curry addicts, how about assembling a curry set-up; curry powder, long grain rice, chutney, peanuts, preserved ginger? A beautiful salad bowl and with it a collection of salad spices and herbs; paprika, mustard seed, celery seed, pepper, garlic, salt, tarragon, is a good choice.

Seasonal Plants and Their Care

It won't be so very long before the colorful procession of holiday plants, the lovely poinsettias, cyclamens, and azaleas, will be flowing in a colorful procession out of the beautiful florists' shops to lend their beauty to the holiday scene in the home.

The festive Christmas plant, received with such joy, usually doesn't last very long. In many instances, it doesn't even retain its beauty through the holiday season. Flowers fade, leaves turn yellow, and, out it goes!

INTELLIGENT CARE

So often it is possible to extend the beauty sesaon of these plants, with just a little understanding and intelligent care. The florist who grew the plants to the flowering stage gave them professional care of course, but although it is not always possible to give the plants ideal conditions in the home, much can be done to approximate professional care

Dry air is probably the greatest menace to the health of holiday plants. The air of the green-houses in which the plants were grown, was kept moist by spraying not only the green-house walls, but even the walks. In the home a humidifier, or even pans of water on the radiators will add the needed moisture to the air.

KEEP PLANTS

Fresh air is important, but don't let cold air currents blow on the plants. On cold nights, plants on the window sill should be removed or protected from cold glass.

Most popular plant is the poinsettia, and its vivid red and beautiful green color combination should be around to give joy to the home for longer than is usually the case. Do not overwater this plant, the leaves will soon droop and turn yellow. Never stand the pot in a saucer of water Place the poinsettia where it will get some sun, but not too close to a window. If the plant has chilled, the pot should be placed, up to the rim in a pan of warm water.

No wet soil or poor drainage for the cyclamen if you want it to last a while. While watering should be moderate, it should be thorough. When the cyclamen has finished blooming, it should not be dried off like the poinsettia, but should be kept fairly moist and given plenty of light until new growth appears. Then the plant should be repotted in a soil composed of loam, sand and leaf mold in equal parts, with a little fertilizer.

CRANBERRY PEAR RELISH

Ingredients: 4 cups fresh cranberries, 2 lemons, 12 cups sugar, 2 ripe but very firm large pears.

Method: Pick over cranberries, discarding any that are soft or blemished; wash under cold water and drain. Wash lemons, quarter and seed, removing center strip of membrane if desired. Put cranberries and lemon quarters through food chopper, using medium knife, add sugar and mix well. Peel pears, halve, core and cut in dice that are not too small—about one-half to three-quarter-inch pieces. Add to cranberry mixture and mix in lightly. Chill in refrigerator before serving. Makes about 5 cups. Relish will keep, in a closed container in refrigerator, for about a week.

Quick Cheese Main Dish:—For an emergency meal, mix a can of concentrated cream of mushroom soup with ½ cup of hot milk and 1½ cups of grated soft American cheese. Stir over a slow fire until the cheese is melted and the mixture is thick and smooth. Serve over hot, cooked noodles, or over toasted English muffins or plain toast. Ready to eat in 10 minutes!

Cow's milk is bottled in at least 10 differen grades and forms

HAM FOR CHRISTMAS

AS TRADITIONAL as the Yuletide log or the Christmas tree, ham is the selection for the holiday dinner menu. Purchase either a whole or half ham and cook according to directions on the tag accompanying the ham. Then, garnish the perfectly cooked ham with hot snowballs and edible holly made from whole cranberries and leaves cut from green pepper. The snowballs are easily formed just before serving from hot fluffy rice molded between two tablespoons.

Holidays Make One Think Of Informal Entertaining

WITH the approaching Christmas season a natural for every type of entertainment from elaborate dinners to best-friends-for-eggnog gatherings, "Charm" lists ideas for a dozen parties which should be fun even for the hostess.

Ideas for after the holidays, too, are featured. How about an untrim the tree party for the day after New Year's, to take care of that after-the-holidays social slump?* It can be a simple party, for your home needs no decorations other than the Christmas ones already at hand. When the guests arrive, about eight o'clock in the evening, hand each one an old shoe box and have them go to work on the tree. The couple who salvage the most tinse land break the fewest ornaments win a prize.

Afterwards, serve a generous, easy-to-fix buffet supper, with the menu consisting of plain, "non-holiday" food—cold meats, potato salad, pickles, pretzels, cake and coffee.

Any party can be a social success if you only remember to put your guests in a party mood. Make sure you aren't trapped in the kitchen as a result of poor planning. Work out your plans in detail, then relax and enjoy yourself.

Dress Up Your Walls

MANY'S the time we have all wished that our walls were made of elastic so that we could push them around to change the size or shape of a room. And this is especially true when almost anything with walls, windows and doors has had to make do at a price that left little money for structural changes.

Some of the ultra modern places now under construction are being built with disappearing walls, but most of us will have to get along with the homes we now have. That doesn't mean, however, that we have to put up with them in their present state. There are innumerable ways and means, inexpensive, too, by which the amateur home decorator can pull sleight-of-hand tricks to get good effects. By the wise choice of wallpapers and a liberal sprinkling of imagination, you can achieve almost any desired effect.

As every woman knows from her own clothes, light colors tend to make one look larger, while dark shades make a woman feel positively sylphlike. The same color principle applies to walls If you want a room to seem larger, give it a background of a small pattern or pale shades of wall paper such as the cool blues,

Green Gifts For a White Christmas

For three cents postage you can, in effect, mail a fruit tree or a flowering shrub to a friend or relative in any part of the country, under the gift certificate plan of the American Association of Nurserymen.

This plan, announced last year and further developed in 1948, offers a time and effort saving solution for Christmas shoppers and is equally helpful on other special occasions throughout the year. An added attraction is that such gifts can last a lifetime and longer.

The person to whom you mail the certificate may redeem it in his locality at any time he wishes during the following twelve months. He can select the type of nursery plant material that he prefers and at the time of year he wishes to plant it.

You can obtain these gift certificates, uniquely designed to resemble a stock certificate, from one of your nearby nurseries identified by the Association's insignia. The certificate can be redeemed by the recipient at any Association nursery likewise identified. There are approximately 1,200 members of the American Association of Nurserymen located from coast to coast where these certificates can be purchased or redeemed.

The gift certificate plan is in effect throughout the year and is ideal for birthdays or holidays such as Mother's Day, Father's day, Easter, Memorial Day, and others.

Whole turkey roasted to a golden brown still will be the traditional holiday fare in many homes. A good solution however to the small family problem is the smaller turkey roast. Half turkey already has been established as practical and economical. Half turkeys are cut lengthwise and offer a selection of both light and dark meat. Quarter turkey will be merchandised in "light meat roasts" or "dark meat roasts." This season both half and quarter turkey roasts will be featured in many markets over the country.

Tradition Upsetter Turns Tables On Christmas

By DOROTHY ROE

YOU don't really have to have red candles and evergreens for your Christmas decorations, says Carole Stupell, who glories in being a tradition-upsetter.

You can have a purple and chartreuse Christmas dinner table if you want to, and you can deck the mantel in cactus instead of boughs of holly, if that's the way your fancy runs.

The thing, says Miss Stupell, who'd rather be dead than traditional, is to be individual. Decorate your house the way YOU want it, not the way Grandma used to. Of course, if you're really mad for holly and mistletoe, by all means use them, but if you're a venturesome soul, don't be afraid to be different. She says:

"Above all, the holiday table must not be static. Make it alive—give it rhythm and movement. It can be done, you know, and I don't mean by putting it on roller skates. Look at a Van Gogh still life—it vibrates with movement. That's the way a table should be.

"One way to achieve this effect is through the choice of table runner and place mats. Use the kind that are tinseled or iridescent. Use satins or other shimmering fabrics. You have lots of leeway at Christmas time. Use all the sparkle you can find, because Christmas is a sparkling occasion.

"You needn't be limited in the colors you select. Of course, reds and greens are always good traditional colors. But magenta and fuchsia and coral are more dramatic and unusual, and just as beautiful."

To prove her point, Miss Stupell points out a Christmas table setting in which the dominant color theme is deep purple. The table cloth is iridescent and throws off dancing lights which are reflected in the fluted blue glass dinnerware and the blue and crystal stemware. But it's an unmistakable holiday table. It even has two small Christmas trees for decoration—but they're made of Christmas tree balls in all colors.

The centerpiece is a subject close to Miss Stupell's heart. Eyes alight, she warms to her subject:

"The centerpiece is the heart or focal point of the table. It's the thing around which you weave the spirit and pattern of your whole setting. But before deciding on your centerpiece, consider whether the table setting is for a formal dinner, informal party or buffet."

Among ideas she suggests for effective holiday centerpieces are: tall columnar candles draped with Christmas swags; sprays made of Christmas tree balls and tinseled leaves; decorative Christmas tableaux; or a group of angels (ceramic or paper) placed on small boxes of varying heights which are hidden by a cloud of misty spun glass—the effect is of angels suspended in clouds above the table.

A "can't miss" approach to holiday table setting, says Miss Stupell, is to use lots of silver and crystal, combined with individual touches. She says:

"Just decorate the way you want to. Dare to be untraditional, and see what fun it is!"

Serve Snack To Holiday Shoppers

By ALICE DENHOFF

WHEN skaters and holiday shoppers come home their appetites are keen as winter air. Oysters in blankets makes a substantial snack until dinner or supper is ready. Or hot buttered fruit cup served with a substantial wedge of cake or cookies makes another fine bit of snack fare.

To prepare the oysters, season the bivalves, nice large ones, with lemon juice and pepper Wrap in thin slices of bacon Secure with skewers or toothpicks. Fry, broil or bake until bacon is crisp. Remove skewers and serve on hot toast triangles. Sprinkle with lemon juice Two oysters per person makes a nice serving.

UNUSUAL FRUIT CUP

The hot buttered fruit cup is really something, not only for skaters but for all youngsters It is an energy giver in a very palatable form and is worth the little effort it takes to prepare Serve it frequently during the winter

To serve 10 to 12 combine in a 2-quart bowl one unpeeled, diced apple, 2 sliced bananas one c orange pieces and one c pitted canned cherries. Melt 2 tbsp butter over direct heat. Add 3 tbsp brown sugar, stir to dissolve Add 2 c fresh orange juice, 2 tbsp. lemon juice; heat almost to boiling. Pour over fruit and serve, piping hot, in punch cups or mugs.

FRUIT PUNCH

In the same mood we continue with another wonderful fruit punch, an ideal choice for now right through the holidays. This one is Padre's Punch, a California version of the punch which New Englanders used to serve the minister when he called This is a delicious drink to serve at club gatherings, evening fireside sessions, club and sorority teas.

To serve 8 to 10, use 4 unpeeled, navel oranges. Insert the stem ends of 8 to 10 whole cloves into each orange. Place in shallow pan or glass pie plate Bake at 375 F about 15 min., or until oranges begin to ooze. Prick with fork, and place in heated pottery or heat-resistant punch bowl. Dissolve ½ c sugar in one quart cider or apple juice, one quart navel orange juice and ¼ c. lemon juice. Add a 2-inch stick of cinnamon; heat almost to boiling Pour the heated spiced fruit juices over the clove-stuck, baked oranges: ladle the beverage, steaming hot, into hot mugs Top each serving with a dusting of nutmeg.

Gals Prefer Marriage to Career Now

By ANN SCHOENMAN

Whoops! Something has happened to the trend of girls wanting to become "career girls". Just a few years ago when a girl was quizzed on whether or not she wanted to become a loving wife, she shunned it like poison. Now times have changed. The girls prefer marriage to careers.

At least it has appeared that way in regard to 1948 Senior high graduating class.

Working at the society desk, and being a member of the same class, it's easy to check the number of friends from my class who come in and announce their engagements.

Girls, who during school, had ideas of becoming slaves of some desired art have tossed it to the wayside to stop in the office and get a wedding blank to fill out.

It's amazing to see the familiar names signed on the blanks when you pick them up to start writing a wedding for the paper. Pictures of girls in wedding gowns come into the office—girls whose pictures in caps and gowns I still carry around in my billfild.

At one time the most important thing to a young girl was marriage and to have a home and a family of her own. That idea had faded into the background in the past few years, and it is on the upgrade and in the running again.

The traditional hope chest is also in the running again. It's race is being staged with luggage, college money and clothes. Parents are keeping the cedar chests far out ahead by buying them for girls as they use to.

The girls are interested in linens and silver and fine household equipment which help to fill up those chests. They are beginning to think of the future.

Maybe they've come to the realization that they would rather wear a double wedding ring on the left hand instead of a worn look on their face from hard work that goes with having and keeping a career going.

Christmas Party Held By Chapter

Informality reigned at the meeting of the Jared Mansfield chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Friday evening. The group deviated from their unusual course of business and program and had a gay evening in the undercroft of the Grace Episcopal church.

Mrs. A. C. Tuttle was program chairman, assisted by Mrs. W. H. Gifford, Mrs. H. L. Princehorn and Mrs. Alex Fraser.

The social rooms were beautifully decorated in the Christmas theme. Three white Christmas trees decorated the buffet and tied around each piller in the room were large bright red bows. At each window were holly wreaths.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. William Fendrick, Mrs. Arthur Courtney, Mrs. Beatrice Balyeat, Miss Ruth Culbertson, Miss Mary Eggert, Mrs. A. W. Firestone, Mrs. Frank Ford, Mrs. J. L. Stevens, Mrs. Benjamin Sutter, Mrs. Walter St. John and Mrs. William Johns.

The fifty members in attendance came attired in crazy hats. As the group marched by the two judges, Miss Eggert and Mrs. Balyeat, the first prize was awarded to Mrs. Lee Henry, who wore a complete lighted Christmas tree on her head. Mrs. Stanley Richardson, wearing a German helmet which was decorated with Christmas tree appointments, won second prize. The third prize went to Mrs. Frank Bennett, who wore an old fashioned bonnet of the 1880 period and carried a tiny black lace umbrella.

Among the other unique "hats" were a lighted candle perched precariously on a head, a bird's nest, a miniature farmyard scene and a hat composed entirely of fresh fruit.

Another diversion of the evening was Charades, with one team wearing red ribbons and the other green. They also composed telegrams, using the letters in the word Christmas. Prizes went to Mrs. Charles Allen, Mrs. Princehorn, Mrs. W. E. Shane and Mrs. William Holmes.

Mrs. Earle Troll played the music for the grand march as each one walked by a table of "white elephants" and selected her choice. Later the group sang Christmas carols, accompanied by Mrs. A. C. Butterfield.

When refreshments were served at a late hour the serving table was centered with tall lighted red tapers and a miniature Santa Claus and sleigh. Mrs. John Shook, regent, poured.

During a brief business session the group learned of the guest night meeting to be held Jan. 7 in the undercroft of the Grace Episcopal church at 7:30 p. m. There will be election of delegates to the state conference and a round table discussion for the program.

MRS. JOHN GOTTFRIED

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cripe, Route 1, Mansfield, announce the marriage of their daughter, Gladys, to John Gottfried, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gottfried, Route 4. Miss Cripe and Mr. Gottfried exchanged nuptial vows Sept. 21. The bride is formerly of Goodland, Ind. She attended Mansfield Senior high school and was employed at Bates Candies. Mr. Gottfried attended Madison high school. He is a former employe of the News-Journal classified department. The couple is residing at 442 Glenbeck lane.

—Olan Mills

MEMBERS of St. Agnes Guild of the Grace Episcopal church will meet in the undercroft of the church Thursday at 7:30 p. m. for their December meeting and annual Christmas party. Hostesses will be Mrs. Samuel U. J. Peard, Mrs. A. L. McConnell, president of the guild, and Miss Katharine DeHeck.

MISS SUE M'CAUSLAND

Announcement is being made of the engagement of Miss Sue McCausland, 178 Glessner avenue, daughter of Mrs. Grace McCausland and the late John S. McCausland, to Kenneth Swetlick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Swetlick, 37½ Orchard street. Miss McCausland is employed at the Mansfield General hospital and Mr. Swetlick is employed at the Westinghouse Electric corporation. No date has been set for the wedding.

Kathryn Beer Becomes Bride Of Richard Marion Roberts

IN a formal candlelight service Friday evening at the First Christian church Miss Kathryn Ann Beer became the bride of Richard Marion Roberts. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Merle Beer, 20 Bahl avenue, and Mr. Roberts' parents are Mr. and Mrs. Herschel F. Roberts, 21 Bahl avenue.

Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger officiated for the double ring service. A program of nuptial music was played by Miss Alfretta Bowden and the soloist was Miss Betty Jane Davis.

Vows were exchanged before an altar banked with pines and illuminated by two seven branch candelabra.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a long formal white satin gown, made Princess style, with long sleeves which came to points over the wrists. The full skirt extended into a short train. Her fingertip illusion veil, worn virgin style, was held in place by a satin and pearl beaded tiara. The veil had been worn by her aunt, Mrs. George Davis, at her wedding.

Miss Beer carried a white testament which was topped with a white orchid, tied with white satin streamers.

Mrs. Weldon Spurgeon of Portland, Mich., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her dress was made like the bride's, only with short sleeves and in a yellow silk faille. Miss Muriel Beer, also a sister of the bride, was a bridesmaid, attired in a colonial gown of green silk faille, fashioned with low round neckline and puffed sleeves. Miss Miriam Roberts of Rembrandt, Iowa, cousin of the bridegroom, was also a bridesmaid, and wore a gown identical to Miss Beer's.

Mrs. Spurgeon carried a front style bouquet of Talisman roses and the bridesmaids carried the same style bouquets of gold and yellow baby mums, tied with yellow streamers.

Mrs. Beer chose for her daughter's wedding a black dress with black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Roberts wore a dark green dress with brown accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Wayne A. Rose, friend of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Ushering the guests to their pews were Kenneth Fish and Martin Bemiller.

At the close of the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors for 175 guests. The serving table was laid with a white linen cloth, and centered with a tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and other table appointments were lighted tapers, white mums and greenery.

Hostesses were Mrs. Elmer Hof of Parma, great aunt of the bride, Mrs. Earl Fox and Mrs. T. C. Davis, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Ervin Remy, close friend of the couple.

Following a short trip the couple will reside at Ashland and Madison roads. For traveling the bride wore a skipper blue gaberdine suit with gold topper and black accessories.

The bride was graduated from Madison high school and has been employed at the Tappan Stove company. Mr. Roberts, also a graduate of Madison high school, is with the Roberts Body and Paint Shop.

Guests were in attendance from Iowa, Michigan, Wellington, Canton, Massillon, Parma, and Marion.

Batty-Sanford Nuptials Read In Williston

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Anabel Batty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Batty, Williston, N. D., and Allen M. Sanford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Sanford, 53 Sherman avenue.

Vows were exchanged Sunday, Nov. 21, at 4 p. m. at the Congregational church at Williston.

The bride chose for her wedding a soft white crepe bridal gown and a short veil, held in place by a circlet of small white rosebuds. Her bouquet was composed of white roses.

Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Rodney Rasmussen of Minneapolis, Minn. Mr. Rasmussen served as best man.

Following the ceremony a group of close friends and relatives were received at the home of the bride's parents. Later the couple left on a wedding trip.

Mrs. Sanford is a graduate of Northwestern university and Mr. Sanford received his electrical engineering degree at the University of Illinois. He is now employed at the Ohio Brass company.

They are making their home at 110 Blymyer avenue

MISS JEAN HERRING

Jean Herring Betrothed To William Martin, Cleveland

MR. AND MRS. FRED L. HERRING, 419 West Third street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean Adele, to Mr. William Barriss Martin, son of Mrs. Rosalind Burnside Martin of Shaker Heights, and Mr. J. C. Martin of Cleveland.

Miss Herring graduated from Sarah Lawrence college, Bronxville, New York, and is now enrolled in the graduate school of Ohio State university. Mr. Martin attended Case Institute of Technology, Cleveland, Ohio, where he was a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternty. After serving three years in the Navy, he resumed his studies at Ohio State university from which he graduated last June.

Mr. and Mrs. Herring are entertaining Mrs. Martin and her daughter, Miss Robin Martin, at a family dinner today in honor of the engaged couple.

The wedding will take place in the late spring.

Mansfield Civic Club Opens Sale of Articles By Blind

THAT small but mighty little club which made the headlines last April in the society news, again comes to the foreground with their annual sale of articles made by the blind.

For 13 years the Mansfield Civic club, composed of only seven members, has conducted a sale of these articles at the R. B. Maxwell company each December. The sales opens Monday morning and will continue through the week until the articles are sold.

Last spring at the state meeting of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs in Columbus this little club walked away with first honors, a check for over a $100. for the highest sale of articles made by the blind. This was in the small club group classification, which means a membership of under 50.

The club is composed of Mrs. Ambrose Middleton, president, Mrs. Joseph Johnston, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. A. C. Butterfield, vice president; Mrs. C. H. Henkel, Mrs. James Bailey and Mrs. Elmer Post, chairman of the sale held each year for the blind of Ohio, and Mrs. Fred Nixon.

The small band of women, who have worked so conscientiously during the past years, meet the first Monday of each month at the Women's club to further their work on city project and their state activities.

On sale tomorrow will be dish cloths, towels, ironing board covers and pads, clothespin aprons, pillow cases, belts, rugs, purses, aprons, whisk brooms, small brooms and other useful items.

To Glorify Bouillon: Garnish clear tomato or clam bouillon with whipped cream seasoned with a little celery salt and sprinkled with minced parsley. Good to look and better to eat—adds to the food value too.

Toy Shelves Need Durable Finishes

Toy shelves in the nursery require durable finishes. Not only must they take plenty of hard usage but also they must be cleaned often in order to keep them sanitary.

One good plan is to use an open bookcase for toys and finish its shelves with tile clay. Smudges can be removed from the tile in a jiffy and since it is waterproof, it can be cleaned as frequently as needed without injuring its surface.

Baked Butter Frosting: — No need to wait for a loaf or spice cake to cool before frosting if you use this recipe. Melt ½ cup butter and mix with 1 cup soft brown sugar, ¾ cup undiluted evaporated milk and 1 cup shredded dried coconut When the cake is done, spread the frosting over it and return to the oven for a few minutes until it is crusty and delicately browned. Serve cold.

Card Party Held By Opti-Mrs.

A snappily conducted auction was the highlight of the benefit card party given by the Opti-Mrs. club Friday night at the Richland Recreation Center.

More than 100 guests played the various card games which were left to their own discretion. Contract, auction, pinochle and hearts were enjoyed. A deck of cards, wrapped in the club colors of purple and gold, were offered as a prize at each table.

John Swank, auctioneer, conducted the auction later in the evening with skill and interest. Roland Frasher served as assistant and Mrs. Swank and Mrs. Adam Pataky distributed the auctioned items. They ranged from an electric waffle iron, hair dryer and desk clock to a half bushel basket of fruit and pastries. The home-made bread, cakes and pastries caused the greatest flurry of excited bidding.

The proceeds of the event will be donated toward the club's fund for assisting worthy girls. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Leonard Hurwitz, chairman; Mrs. F. M. Wadsworth, Mrs. Pataky, Mrs. Thomas Schacher and Mrs. Lester Dye.

Mrs. A. H. Lewis Hostess to Club

The Timely Topics Study club met Friday for a 1 o'clock luncheon at the Women's Club. Mrs. A. H. Lewis served as hostess.

Mrs. Fred Walter read a paper entitled "The Immaculate Conception." It was decided to give four books to the library, and Mrs. Lewis was appointed chairman of the book selection committee.

The next meeting will be a Christmas tea and gift exchange, Dec. 16, at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. James Ehalt, 171 West Second street.

Apple muffins are easily made by adding a cupful of chopped apple and a tablespoon of sugar to a plain muffin batter made with two cups enriched flour. Brown sugar, with a dash of cinnamon added, gives the muffins a good flavor.

Bathroom Built-Ins Give Added Storage

Storage space can usually be increased even in small bathrooms, through the use of "built-ins."

The washbowl area, for instance, has two good storage possibilities. The space under it can easily be boxed in and used for cleaning materials. Counters can also be built on either side of the washbowl and finished with clay tile to match the room. Spilled perfumes or toilet waters will not damage the counter tops, since tile is colorfast.

RECENT MEETING

The M. N. club held their regular dinner and card game reception at the home of Mrs. Harold Hill, Wolfe avenue. The long table was centered with a Christmas tree and candles in log holders. Each place was marked by a Santa basket. The high scores were won by Mrs. William Keller and Mrs. Harry Shover. The next meeting will be December 16 at the home of Mrs. Charles Sowash, 602 South Main street.

Pretty Mrs. Sauter First Woman Lawyer Here

By MARIAN WEST

Practicing law can be more than a job—it can be an exhilarating experience according to Mrs. Jean Sauter, 26, whose offices are combined with those of her husband, George, at 77½ North Walnut street.

Mr. and Mrs. Sauter opened their offices Sept. 27, as an original husband and wife law team here in Mansfield. She is also one of the two practicing women lawyers in this community.

Trim and attractive, Mrs. Sauter was educated at a variety of schools, she met her husband at Western Reserve Law school. Theirs was a college romance on a graduate scale. Prior to schooling at Western Reserve, she was graduated from Penn Hall Preparatory school, at Chambersburg, Pa., attended Denison university for two years and received an A. B. from Smith college.

When Mrs. Sauter entered Smith she majored in drama, and then later transfered to law. Her purpose was to obtain a substantial background for business practices, but she became so engrossed in her studies that she went on to do post graduate work and receive her degree.

MRS. JEAN SAUTER

"Once I got started I just kept going," Mrs. Sauter commented. "There didn't seem to be any logical stopping place," she added.

Both Mr. and Mrs Sauter took their bar examination in June of 1946.

"It was a thrilling experience being sworn in by the Supreme Court in Columbus, but awaiting our grades was really gruelling," she said,

And it was a memorable one too! During the ceremony Mrs. Sauter was suffering from an impacted wisdom tooth which she had removed a few days later. An infection set in and caused her face to swell to and beyond her wedding date in September.

"I postponed having my wedding pictures taken for as long as possible," she said, "but I finally consented putting all my hopes in the proficiency of angular photography. They aren't bad," she added.

Mr. Sauter practiced law in Cleveland after graduation There Mrs. Sauter was confronted with a feeling of prejudice among the male lawyers toward a woman in the profession.

"Breaking-in was almost an impossibility, so I was content watching my husband progress,"

Here in Mansfield the situation has been quite different, according to her. She was cordially received at a meeting of the Richland County Bar association.

And what's more her husband has no adverse feelings toward a woman with a career.

"Which is most important," Mrs Sauter emphasized, "because a wife's career is dependent upon the attitude of her husband"

She and Mr. Sauter work together in the office and work together at home. They are a joint enterprise with the spirit of co-operation instead of competition.

"That's as it should be don't you think?" she continued "We pool our knowledge with the understanding that two heads are better than one"

Mrs. Sauter is primarily interested in probate, corporate and taxation work. But she is presently engrossed in a general law practice.

"It's all interesting now" she said. "But you can't specialize too much in a city of this size because your purpose is to take care of the needs of your client."

Mr. Sauter, whose home was Hobart, Ind, and Mrs. Sauter, a native of Mr Vernon, chose Mansfield as their home and place of business because they felt that the community was congenial and it offered opportunities for advancement and growth

Both are members of the Richland County Bar association, and Westbrook Country club. Mr. Sauter is a member of the Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Sauter's others interests are golf, skiing and dramatics, and she says she prefers a career to housekeeping because she enjoys being with people.

Capitalistic Signs Laud Soviet Goods

Advertising Use Growing Rapidly

MOSCOW, —(AP)— The advertising industry is growing by leaps and bounds in the Soviet Union.

Atop the National hotel on one of the central squares of Moscow there is a sign: "Buy Soviet champagne." This is the counterpart of many neon signs advertising Soviet champagne throughout the city.

On the back of the National hotel building there is an illuminated sign: "Eat soy bean foods." This is one part of an advertising campaign to popularize these nutritious and reasonably priced foodstuffs.

Atop the central department store in the heart of the Soviet capital there is a sign: "Buy Soviet televisors, electric refrigerators and vacuum cleaners."

In fact throughout the city there have been erected thousands of neon signs which shine at night with their appeals to potential customers to buy everything from insurance to caviar.

This is a new development here. While in the past there has always been advertising, much of it by savings banks and the state life insurance organizations, the neon sign appeal is a relatively recent innovation on the present scale.

Soviet newspapers also carry advertising on a limited scale. Up to the present time this advertising is in large part of the "employes wanted" type and of the "required by law" type which includes such items as divorce notices.

There is newspaper advertising, however, of consumer goods fairly frequently. In particular, motion pictures, theatrical presentations, concerts and the like are widely advertised. Wines and liquors are also frequently advertised. Recently Evening Moscow has been running a series of ads urging its readers to try out new fruit wines produced by the ministry of the fine foods industry.

In general the radio is not used for advertising although the Moscow network has occasionally carried essays on new goods which have appeared in the capital's stores for the benefit of housewives.

Students Plan Another Showboat Tour

By KEN DAVIS

KENT, — (AP(— G. Harry Wright, the man with the corncob pipe, brought the old-time river showboat back to life.

No doubt you shared Wright's nostalgia for the showboats that plied the nation's rivers a generation back. No doubt you just sighed sentimentally when they were mentioned.

Wright remembered the days of his Guyandotte, W. Va., youth on the Ohio river. He remembered so well, he did something about it.

He organized a troupe of his dramatics students at Kent State university. He hired a riverboat. He scurried here and there, and set up a cruise down the Ohio and Kanawha vers last summer.

The return of the river showboat wowed 'em.

Thirty-three thousand persons saw 92 performances in the floating theater that seated 423 persons. Student actors played to "standing room only" more than half the time.

"Everyone tried to get into the act last May when we announced we were going," said the balding professor, whose toes twinkle just about as fast as his eyes.

"Now we'll have competition. I suppose there'll be a lot of others trying the same stunt."

Already Hiram college has announced it will back a similar venture next summer.

Wright just puffed on his enormous corn-cob pipe and shugged. As the foremost authority on showboats, Wright knew what competitors would be wrestling with.

It wasn't easy setting up the first cruise. Preparations really began years ago, when as a small boy Wright sneaked out of the house in the small hours of the morning to get into the showboat parade.

He remained interested but a passive student of the showboat until after World War II, in which he served as naval officer. Then he and his comely wife began tours of America's historic rivers. They wandered up and down the Ohio several times, from Pittsburgh to Cairo, Ill., logging 15,000 miles. They visited along the Kanawha, Monongehela, Muskingum and Illinois rivers. They even followed the Mississippi down to New Orleans.

They dug through forgotten trunks in musty attics. They traced down many a showboat captain or performer believed dead. They collected the most complete showboat file in existence.

Wright found the last of the operating riverboats at point Pleasant, W. Va., last year. Capt. T. J. Reynolds, who skippered the Majestic, wasn't too sure Wright's proposed revival was sound. He gave in, however, when Wright's students put up $50 each.

Money flowed out like water down the Ohio. At voyage time, the venture look like it was scheduled for a flop of whale proportions.

Two weeks afloat wiped out the deficit.

Twenty-three students made the trip. Each was so busy their right and left hands hardly knew what each was doing. All actors were members of regular university drama classes taught by Wright and his assistant, Professor Robert I. Pearce. Mrs. Wright took over as secretary, treasurer, and "dean of women." Mrs. Pearce acted as dietitian and galley boss.

Since Captain Reynolds and his son were the only experienced rivermen aboard, most of the boat operating fell to a student crew. Both boys and girls acted, studied, peeled potatoes, shined brass and swabbed decks.

Along with regular problems, Wright and his troupe had to cope with cut-ups. At one city, some anonymous alcoholics cut the Majestic adrift.

The tour began in June, playing both sides of the Kanawha river to Charleston, W. Va. Then the Majestic wheeled up the Ohio to East Liverpool, O., and back down to Cincinnati, where the show closed Sept. 15.

This three and one-half month trip netted student stockholders their original investment of $50 each, enough money to pay for board and room, to buy bargain clothes en route, incidental expenses and some extra cash to salt away for future college work.

Bogus Bills Issued

NEW YORK, — (AP) — A flood of counterfeit $10 and $20 bills has been loosed on the country, the total running into possibly "millions of dollars," according to government officials. Secret service agents and federal reserve bank officials reported yesterday that the main dumping ground for the counterfeit money, up to the present, has been New York City.

Studio Dentist Given Fancy Dressing Room

HOLLYWOOD— (AP) —A toothache right now, says Shirley Temple, would be like adding insult to injury. When she returned to Twentieth Century-Fox for "Mr. Belvedere Goes to College," she learned that the dressing room she had there as a child star 10 years ago has been remodeled as quarters for the studio dentist.

Shirley has to be content with a luxurious new suite in a big building reserved for top stars.

State Of Ohio Has Its Own 'Scotland Yard'

Science Aids In Solution Of Crimes

Bureau Located At London, O.

By KEN DAVIS

LONDON, — (AP) — Ohio has its own "Scotland Yard" and it's located in London, too.

The 27-year-old Ohio Bureau of Criminal Identification and investigation at London, O., prison farm does just about as good a job of solving the tough ones as ancient Scotland Yard in England.

The bureau has solved 26 of the last 27 cases to come its way.

How do they do it? well.....

An agent of the Ohio bureau ordered the fingernails of a farmhand scraped. The slaying of a husband was solved.

An agent of the Ohio bureau watched the colorless face of a teenaged boy. He had a hunch a slain car-hop had been drugged. He dropped an oh-so-casual question. The killing was solved.

Bureau agents trapped the killer of a 14-year-old girl. The first clue was the bare fact a suspect had a teddy bear hanging from the rear vision mirror of his car.

From the depths of the 1,600,000 fingerprints on file at the London bureau came the announcement that a man executed for murder in Ireland under one name was really an Ohioan with quite another name.

The bureau employs 18 staff members and 75 inmates of the London prison farm. It's housed in a basement area of the farm's administration building in a room jammed with files and laboratory equipment.

An important part of the bureau's equipment is parked in a garage. It's the modern mobile crime laboratory presented by the Buckeye State Sheriff's association, the third of its kind in the nation.

LIE DETECTOR USED

The laboratory, containing even a lie dector, cost several thousands of dollars and represents the sheriffs' association's way of getting science to the scene of a crime rapidly, whether it occurred in a village or a city. It's at the call of Ohio peace officers.

Unremitting patience rewarded Everett McSavaney and his partner, Richard Longanecker, in the slaying of 14-year-old Mary Ann Page at Springfield. Starting with the nebulous report she had been seen in a car that had a teddy bear hanging from a rear vision mirror, McSavaney and Longanecker trapped and arrested the suspect—in Columbus police headquarters.

The final break came when they asked for the record of Dwight David Tudor at Columbus headquarters. Faces of girls working in the record department changed expressions. McSavaney pounded away until they admitted the man went with, the night record clerk.

Tudor was arrested in the hall outside the record room without the knowledge of his girl friend. McSavaney got Tudor into the hall by standing outside the vision of the girl and crooking his finger mysteriously. Tudor fell for it.

Before Tudor had reached Springfield on the return trip, he had admitted the slaying, McSavaney said.

If he had been arrested within sight of his girl friend, she probably would have had a lawyer with a writ handy before the statement could have been obtained.

The bureau originally was set up with the principal mission of identification through fingerprints. It still holds to that mission and its files readily solved the mystery of the identity of James Herbert Lehmann, who was executed in Dublin, Ireland, for the murder of his wife in 1945.

The records that never lie showed Lehmann was William Martin, a parole violator of 20 years standing.

But, the success of men like Everett McSavaney in investigation work, backed by the latest in police science, has boomed the other part of the bureau's work to public attention.

Overall direction of the bureau falls to veteran Leo A. Hollingsworth, who is acting head, Fred P. Dengler of London is chief investigator. These men direct the work of such investigators as McSavaney, who brings nearly two decades of police experience to his job.

Now in his 40s, McSavaney entered the Columbus police department in 1930 and retired in 1946 with a physical disability that still keeps him in bed after a hard case. Married, he has two children, Richard, 19, and Peggy Jean, 21.

"Working on these cases," said McSavaney, "is part drudgery, part luck and another part patience. If you break a case, chances are you've used all three parts."

That's hawkshawing, Ohio style.

HEAD SURGEON — "All the patients in my hospital will be out for Christmas." That's the latest report from 80-year-old Mrs. Rebie Willis, "head surgeon" of a local doll hospital at Memphis, Tenn. Retire? no sir, folks won't let me she says. They just keep bringing their dolls to the house and asking me to mend them, so I couldn't quit. (AP Wirephoto.)

Reds 'Dig In,' Locate Gold

RANGOON — (AP) — Burmese Communists, occupying the sleepy village of Payabo, 20 miles east of the rail junction of Pegu, hit what proved to be more than "pay dirt".

The Reds faced the threat of a government attack. They decided to "dig in".

Accident rather than design guided their picks to a spot where six years previously Pegu's wealthiest citizen, U Sein Win, buried his riches when the Japanese overran Burma.

The Communists uncovered two large chests. They pried one open—and found it crammed with currency and jewelry.

Government troops arriving at Payabyo found no signs of the Communists. But Sein Win, who accompanied them to investigate the safety of his hidden treasure, found plenty of evidence of their recent presence. The larger of the two chests, containing gold, jewelry and currency worth more then 130,000 pounds sterling, had disappeared. The communists had decided that wealth was preferable to prestige.

For Sein Win there was some consolation. The smaller chest was untouched. It contained approximately 40,000 pounds sterling. Sein Win, learning the hard way, has removed its contents to a place of greater safety—a local bank.

ADMITS SLAYING

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) — Police Supt. A. A. Waters said George E. Coleman, 26, has admitted strangling his 32-year-old sister in her French quarter apartment.

Dems To Organize

AKRON, — (AP) — The 69 Democrats of the House of Representatatives of the new legislature will organize in Columbus next Tuesday or Wednesday, Rep. Anna F. O'Neill, senior house Democrat after seven terms, issued the call for the caucus of the new majority party yesterday.

Swiss, French Find Border

GENEVA, Switzerland— (AP) — The lost border between France and Switzerland has been found and marked and everybody is happy again. Some farmers who thought they were Swiss are paying French taxes now and some who thought they were French now find their farms are in Switzerland. The correction was made after more than 100 years of uncertainty along the Jura mountain frontier of western Switzerland. It involved a stretch of about fifteen miles.

The frontier was fixed in 1824, but the Duke of Neuenberg on the Swiss side and his Imperial French colleague neglected to mark it for posterity. Peasants in the region have been asking themselves for years whether they really were in Switzerland or France.

Now the people who worry about such things have cut a path twelve feet wide thrrough the woods and weeds to mark the spot.

Eye Chicago As Foreign Trade Zone

Views Differ On Proposal

CHICAGO, — (AP) — Should this "interior capital of the nation" become a foreign trade zone as well?

The question takes in a U. S. trading area extending from the Rockies to the Alleghenies, and it is roiling importers, warehousemen, bankers and transport officials. Their attitudes generally depend on where they see themselves in the picture painted by proponents of the plan.

A foreign trade zone affords a limited area, perhaps a single large warehouse, where goods from a foreign country could enter the zone without going through United States customs.

Such goods could be stored, or assembled, or partially processed, or repackaged, and then resold and shipped free of U. S. duty to another foreign country, or shipped to a point within the United States on payment of appropriate customs duty.

In either case, savings would have been made through lower shipping charges. And, of course, foreign consigned goods would save duty and most export license fees.

Three such zones have been set up under a 1934 Congressional act, and a rapidly growing foreign trade and shipping sector in Chicago proposes to do likewise.

The first started at New York in 1937. New Orleans set one up last year and San Francisco last June.

ADVOCATES LIST TRENDS

With Chicago located nearly a thousand miles from any seacoast, the question of its foreign trade zone plan at first would seem to have no point. But advocates note three postwar trends which give it force:

1. The rise of bargeline shipping on the Mississippi river system, opening up the Latin American and far eastern areas by way of the Gulf of Mexico and the Panama Canal, and lakes shipping from Canada.

The port of Chicago's water commerce last year reached a record total just under 50,000,000 tons. About a fifth of this amount was bargeline transfer.

2. Total airfreight in and out of Chicago this year is estimated at more than double last year's tonnage.

3. The proposed St. Lawrence seaway will make Chicago an unquestioned ocean port, accessible to virtually all Atlantic ocean traffic.

Already 21 ships of the Fjell, Swedish America, Swedish Chicago, and Orange lines are making regular scheduled trips between Chicago and Europe from Sweden south to Bordeaux, France. The West Indies and South America were added this year, and Mediterranean service is in the offing when an additional five ships, bottoms now laid, go into service.

Chicago's central location in the financial, industrial, transportation, and agricultural worlds enhances the pro arguments.

Opposition springs from warehousemen who feel other warehousemen may be favored, or think initial costs are more than the benefits are worth, or prefer to have the nation's customs-bonded warehouses all made foreign trade zones.

Some transportation men balk also, feeling that certain facilities will benefit more than others.

British Seek Smog Relief

LONDON— (AP) —The "cheerful open fire" which Britons worship is wilting both the nation's housewives and its choice orchids, the National Smoke Abatement society reports.

The society says, for instance that the smoking chimneys of Manchester make housewives toil an hour longer over their tubs on every wash day than do the wives of nearby Harrogate, the spa of northern England.

One of last winter's smogs made all the orchids and orchid buds in famed Kew Gardens drop off within twenty four hours. The society, long time campaigner for a smoke abatement plan like that used in St. Louis, Mo. estimated smoke and smog damage in Britain costs at least $100,000,000 a year.

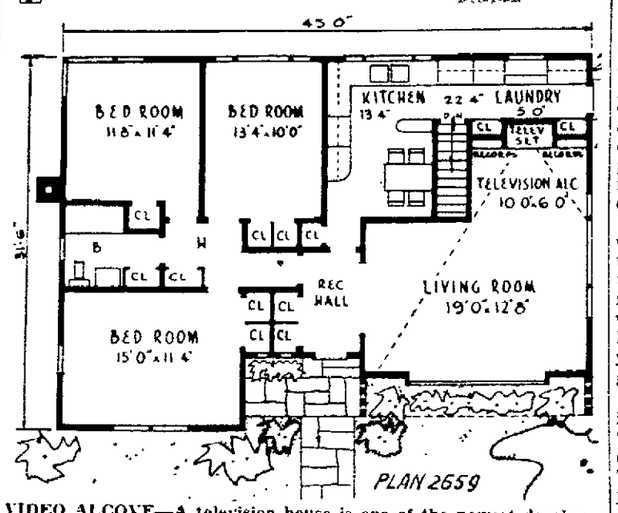
HOMES FOR AMERICANS



VIDEO ALCOVE—A television house is one of the newest developments in architecture. This plan 2659 by Herman York, architect, 199-33 Keno avenue, Hollis 7, N. Y., is designed with a shaded alcove in the living room to accommodate television set, radio, record player and home movie screen. The house covers an area of 1,285 square feet. The architect says he is convinced from experience that television becomes a new center in a home, superseding the fireplace. He believes that new homes should be planned for television even in areas not yet covered by video.—(AP photo)

Crash, Blaze Hits Railroad

AFTON, Ia.—(AP) —Twenty-five cars of a Chicago Great Western freight train were destroyed by fire after they were derailed and tumbled down a 30-foot hill south of here yesterday.

Among the 25 cars were 17 tankers loaded with fuel oil, gasoline and crude oil. The fire started when one of the derailed cars, probably loaded with gasoline, exploded.

Burning gasoline ran out into the fields about 100 yards from the right of way.

Girl Makes Running Start For Stardom

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Nancy Olson is making a running start in films. She dashed to stardom in her first picture, although she had no previous dramatic experience.

She literally ran in every scene of the film, "Canadian Pacific"—ran into Randolph Scott's arms, ran to warn of an approaching Indian attack and ran away from villain Victor Jory.

Nancy, from Milwaukee, is the daughter of a physician. Paramount, which holds her contract, loaned her to Producer Nat Holt for her screen debut in "Canadian Pacific."

Griffis Named Relief Head

PARIS— (AP) —Stanton Griffis, U.S. ambassador to Egypt, was appointed last night director of United Nations relief for Palestine refugees.

Griffis, Red Cross commander in the Pacific ocean area in 1944 and 1945, arrived in Paris today.

His first act on the new job was to appoint as his advisor Bayard Dodge, former president of the American university of Beirut, Lebanon. Dodge was managing director of Near East Relief after the first World War.

40 Per Cent Of Quota Reported

Health Seal Sale Brings $5,778

Forty per cent of the Richland county 1948 Christmas Seal sale quota has been collected, Mrs. H. C. Brokaw, county seal sale chairman announced yesterday.

The campaign produced $5,778 during the first two weeks of the five-week drive. The goal is $14,500.

Dr. Harry Wain, city-county health commissioner said yesterday in urging county-wide support of the Seal sale, that if the county wants to reach its goal of eradicating tuberculosis here, every resident must seize the opportunity to participate actively in the campaign against the disease.

Dr. Wain paid tribute to the work of the Tuberculosis association in the past and added that the importance of its projects has increased rather than lessened, with tuberculosis still taking nearly 50,000 American lives each year.

500,000 ACTIVE CASES

"While such a situation exists in this country," Dr. Wain said, "it's obvious that we cannot relax our vigilance and our efforts. There is an estimated 500,000 people with active tuberculosis in the United States and only half of them are known to the health authorities. The other quarter of a million people must be found and placed under treatment.

"The tuberculosis association cooperates with the health department in finding these unknown cases. Its case-finding activities, as in the case of its other projects, are financed solely by the sale of Christmas seals."

"A successful 1949 Christmas Seal sale, therefore, will mean that the association will be able to carry, on in 1949 its important case-finding projects that contribute greatly to prevention and control of tuberculosis in this community," Dr. Wain added.

4 Celebrate, Say Goodbye, Leap In River

RANGOON— (AP) —Four young Burmese government employes, depressed by chaotic conditions in their country made a suicide pact.

But they decided to enjoy a final good time before they died.

During the weekend, the four —two policemen, a clerk and a messenger boy—met at a Rangoon hotel. They ordered the best food and drink available.

Then, linking arms, they staggered down to the waterfront.

In full view of bystanders, they bade each other goodbye. Then they jumped into the river.

Horrified onlookers summoned aid. Two of the four were rescued.

They told their story to the police.

The law charged both with attempted suicide.

Convention Slated

CINCINNATI — (AP) — More than 1,000 representatives of stove manufacturers and industrial suppliers are expected to attend the 16th annual convention of the Institute of Cooking and heating appliance manufacturers here next week. The three-day meeting will open Monday.

Senator Calls It 'National Disgrace'

Ten Million Americans Are Illiterates

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Would you know what to do if you saw a sign that said "Explosives—Keep Away"? Or "Poison—For External Use Only"?

Sen. Harley M. Kilgore (D-WVa) says the census reveals that slightly over 10,000,000 Americans—one out of every seven adults—wouldn't know. He calls them "sheer or near illiterates." He proposed $130,000,000 federal aid to help such people learn to read and write. His bill died, but educators say it is sure to come up again.

What is an illiterate? Where do these 10,000,000 illiterates live? Kilgore says the answers to these questions are so amazing the situation can only be described as a national disgrace.

First, he describes illiterates as persons without the equivalent of a fourth grade education. They can't read or, if they can, they can't understand what they read sufficiently well to function as citizens.

Second, he says many of these people—probably the majority of them—don't live far out in the sticks, where an education is hard to come by. And the majority are not foreign born, but native Americans.

BREAKDOWN GIVEN

He gives these figures: 4,200,000 are white people, born in this country; 3,200,000 are foreign born whites, 2,700,000 are Negroes. He says one-tenth of the 10,000,000 live in New York, 462,000 in Illinois, and 383,000 in California. Louisiana has a higher percentage of illiterates among its total population than any other state. Kilgore estimates the number at 36 per cent. Iowa has the lowest, 4.1 per cent.

There are three times as many illiterates in the country as college graduates, Kilgore adds. He says this weakens democracy because many of these people cannot read the words "freedom" or "peace." Communists are aware of this situation and take full advantage of it by using only the simplest types of propaganda or by making personal contacts, the senator says.

He proposed that $5,000,000 aid be given the states in 1949 to teach people to read, write, speak and understand the English language, to perform elementary arithmetical computations and to understand the basic features of U. S. government. He would appropriate $10,000,000 for the teaching program in 1950, and then $15,000,000 a year until 1957, decreasing to $5,000,000 in 1958-59. By that time, he believes, illiteracy would be eliminated in the United States.

One difficulty is that illiteracy apparently hasn't been accurately defined. Most authorities agree that the 10,000,000 estimate may be wide of the true mark, one way or the other. Until 1940 the U. S. census bureau counted illiterates merely by asking people if they could read and write in any language. If they couldn't they were classified as illiterate. In 1940 the census classified people by their degree of education—number of years they attended school. This is the origin of the estimate that there are 10,000,000 people without the equivalent of a fourth grade education.

During the war the army used the fourth grade as the dividing line between literacy and illiteracy. This was based on the wartime experience of the army. It found that as a general rule people with less than a fourth grade education couldn't read or obey the simplest sort of orders.

Army officials say 350,000 soldiers between 21 and 45 had to "make their mark" with an X because they couldn't write their own names.

Dry-Wet Fight Still Raging Despite Prohibition's Fall

League Uses Local Option As Weapon

Liquor Foes Win 13,600 Elections

WASHINGTON — (AP) — National prohibition ended 15 years ago tomorrow, but the dry-wet battle still goes on in all sections of the country.

The Temperance League of America, formerly the Anti-Saloon league, figures that some 23,000 local option elections have been held since repeal of the federal prohibition amendment. In the Nov. 2 election, citizens in 19 states voted on various liquor-control questions.

The dries have won a substantial majority of local option elections in the past 15 years, but the nation is still heavily wet. That is on a basis of population in areas where sale of distilled spirits and other beverages is permitted.

The Temperance League says latest available statistics indicate that the dries have been victorious in 13,600 of 22,286 elections on liquor control. The league estimates about 25,000,000 people reside in dry territory. (Latest U. S. cenus estimate of total U. S. population: 146,000,000.)

The Distilled Spirits institute reports that 81.1 per cent of the population of the United States lives in wet areas. This checks roughly with the league's estimate. (The institute is a public relations and research agency for the distilled spirits industry.)

During the war the dries claimed steady gains in population percentages—from 17.5 per cent in 1941 to 19.1 per cent at the end of 1946.

In 1947, the Distilled Spirits institute reports, there was a net gain in wet population for the first time since 1940—and more wet gains were made in 1948.

Statewide prohibition already was the law in 33 states when the national prohibition amendment went into effect in January 1920. Local option and state prohibition had put 63 per cent of the population and 95 per cent of the land area of the United States under prohibition.

Two thirds of the members of the United States Senate and more than two thirds of the members of the House came from states or districts having state prohibition.

THREE STATES DRY

Today only three states—Oklahoma, Mississippi and Kansas—have statewide prohibition of distilled spirits. Kansas voted in November to repeal its constitutional ban on liquor sales, but the state will be dry until the legislature repeals a statute forbidding possession of spirits by any person.

Sixteen states and the District of Columbia are 100 per cent wet—contain no areas where the sale of distilled spirits is prohibited. In nine other states less than 5 per cent of the population resides in dry areas.

Local option gains of the dries have been largely in rural areas, small towns and the south. In six southern states more than 50 per cent of the population lives in dry territory—ranging from 51.7 per cent in Texas to 68.3 per cent in North Carolina.

The dries make a better showing on a county than on a population basis. Counties permitting sale of distilled spirits throughout the entire county number 1,688. Counties totally dry for sale of spirits number 959, partially dry counties 473.

When repeal of the prohibition amendment was proclaimed Dec. 5, 1933, President Roosevelt said:

"I ask especially that no state shall by law or otherwise authorize the return of the saloon, either in its old form or in some modern guise."

Following repeal, many legislators in states adopting laws permitting liquor sales vowed "to prohibit forever the open saloon."

Miss Laura Lindley, research secretary of the Temperance league, says that "many people now feel that conditions in the tavern are no improvement over those in the saloon...."

Jimmy Gleason Still Busy After 62 Years

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Jimmy Gleason, actor and playwright whose career started 62 years ago, is busy writing his memoirs, for publication by Bennett Cerf's Random House.

At the same time Jimmy is working in "The Life of Riley," at Universal - International studios. He found time recently to knock out a short story, too. "She Gave Him a Horse."

Gleason has authored several Broadway hits. He was two months old when he first appeared on the stage, and he made his movie debut 20 years ago, as a writer.

YULE TREE LIGHTED—As crowds fill Pershing square, Los Angeles, a giant Christmas tree is lighted to herald the coming of the Yule holiday. Twenty-eight switches, thrown by Mayor Bowron, turned on 1,800 colored lights. It is 95 feet high. (International.)

Yuletide Spirit Takes Over at M. H. S.

As soon as Thanksgiving is out of the way the Yuletide spirit takes over at M.H.S. The following carolers, Dick Butts, Dick Elliot, Dick Van Voorhis, Dick Neal, John Corcoran, Tom Pankow, Jean Robinson, Jackie Bodley, Pat Jackson, Martha Shiplet, Virginia Brownfield, Betty Gorsuch and Sally Todd, accompanists, have already started singing at various stores and organizations. They have been singing at O'Neils every Monday night, and will make many more appearances during the Christmas season.

Dick Van Voorhis, chairman of the senior-sponsored Christmas Sing has most of the arrangements completed. The city has already been mapped out into districts, letters have been sent to all organizations asking them to take part in this annual affair, advertisements have been distributed ,and Junior and Senior choirs have been asked to lead the various groups as they assemble at Central Park on Dec. 19.

The Inter-Racial Youth Forum is sponsoring an assembly on Dec. 6. They are presenting John Akar from British West Africa who will speak on the subject of "Youth and Their Problems in Africa." While in this country he has been attending Otterbein college.

A lot of talk has been going around school concerning the problem of the congested traffic on the stairs between the first and second floors. The question was taken to the S.R.C. (Student Representative Council) and now a poll is being conducted as to whether the students think it is a good idea to have one-way traffic on each of the two main stairways. We are all eagerly awaiting the future developments.

"Modern Melodies," the show given by the choir at their carnival last October, was presented for the whole student body at 10:30 on Dec. 1. The Key Notes, a girls' ensemble, opened the program by singing "Love Walked In."

"People Will Say We're in Love" was the next number, done by the Singing Naturals and the Dixie Dolls then sang "Walk a Little, Talk a Little." Jean Turner, attired in a white formal trimmed in red, warbled the current hit, "Every Day I Love You." The boys' ensemble, Harmonic Eight, offered "Stout Hearted Men" for the enjoyment of the audience. An accordian trio played "Jolly Cavalier." "Kentucky Babe" was sung next by a boys' ensemble. Jean A. Robinson gave a beautiful rendition of the "Italian Street Song." Thei girls' ensemble did "I'm Falling in Love" and "Maybe You'll Be There" was presented by sultry-voiced Almeretta Mastandrea .

Shirley Lay's accordian solo "Bamble Boogie" scored a hit with the entire audience. The Melody Maids sang "That's For Me" and the program was ended with the German band, called the Polka Dots, giving their lively rendition of "The Jolly German."

Keep Happy By Swapping Their In-Laws

LONDON — (AP) — Marriage going on the rocks because you have to live with your in-laws?

Then swap with another couple and live with their in-laws.

Ninety-six young couples at suburban Hendon say it works.

They're doing it until they can find homes of their own.

This way, says W. F. Gow of the local housing committee—which organized the exchange—everybody's happier. Young couples feel they're "independent tenants" instead of "being in the way" have fewer domestic tiffs through mother-in-law butting in, and take better care of the furniture.

Ex-President Heads Survey

Government Consolidation Sought By Hoover Group

By FRED J. ZUSY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A great array of experts, many working without pay, are nearing the end of an exhaustive year-long scrutiny of our federal government.

Their purpose is to see how we can get a more compact government at less cost—how we can pare away and consolidate the hundreds of sprawling federal agencies.

The work is being directed by the 12-man "Hoover commission," set up by unanimous vote of Congress in July 1947.

The commission, formally known as the commission on the organization of the executive branch of the government, is commonly called after its chairman, Herbert Hoover.

Hoover, only living former President, declared when he accepted the job it would be his "last public service."

The commission's first report is due next January but much groundwork already is completed.

The commission is working through 23 "task forces." Each is studying a separate problem—for example, veterans affairs, natural resources, agriculture, public works.

The term task force is credited to Hoover by those who work with him. The commission coordinates the work of the task forces.

Task force reports are due by mid-October. Then the 12-man commission will sit daily to whip them into an overall report.

The first part of the overall report is due within 10 days after the next Congress assembles in January. It will be general, covering the entire field. It will be followed by others covering specific fields.

The work has been carried on in almost military secrecy to avoid any taint of politics. The commission is composed equally of Republicans and Democrats.

Some of the findings, commission sources hint, could be political dynamite if made public during the election campaign.

Involved setting up a Washington headquarters, plus temporary offices in certain government agencies, like the post office and Veterans Administration. Detailed surveys were made too of federal operations in certain typical communities like Cleveland, Atlanta and Denver.

This is the problem:

What are the proper functions of the federal government and how can they best be carried out?

The federal government has more employes than all state, city and county governments put together, scattered in some 1,200 separate bureaus and agencies, many with overlapping duties.

Rep. Clarence Brown (R-Ohio), father of the Hoover commission legislation and a member of the commission, says the government contains:

Seventy-five separate bureaus with authority in the field of transportation, 93 concerned with government lending, 37 with foreign trade, 64 with business relations, 22 with insurance, 44 with agriculture.

HUGE SAVINGS POSSIBLE

This, he says, is why government payrolls are 6½ times what they were 15 years ago. He predicts that the study may save billions of dollars and estimates the cost of the survey as under $2,000,000.

Senator Lodge (R-Mass), who sponsored the legislation in the Senate, puts it this way:

A farmer has five sons and five farms. He tells one to repair all the fences, another to feed all the pigs, another to milk all the cows. The common sense way to do it, he says, is for the farmer to make each son completely responsible for one farm.

Another aim of the study is to take some of the executive load off the President. More than 100

Local Band Has Busy Schedule

Ken Brague and his orchestra, the Mansfield dance band, billed as Ken Brague and his Orchestra, has been booked to play for the Christmas Eve dance sponsored by the Elks' Club in Bucyrus. Brague, one of the best known trumpeters in local musical circles, recently organized the band which has been playing several out-of-town engagements.

The seven piece band and vocalist have appeared for the prominent sororities and lodges in Marion, Mt. Vernon, Bucyrus, and other neighboring cities. The band features music of distinctive old style arrangements. Members of the band are Virgil Long, drums; Frank Mowry, piano; Fred Judd, trumpet; Joe Mayer, saxophone; Roy Bletz, saxophone; Edward Pankow, saxophone and Ken Brague, trumpet. The vocalist is Miss Vera Mead.

Policemen's Saturday Night

Saturday night is the traditional time for the average citizen to relax—to go out and have a good time—to stay up later than usual, comfortable at the thought of late Sunday sleeping. Not so for policemen on the second and third tricks. For violence sometimes stems from gaiety. In addition to their routine chores police on Saturday night must be doubly vigilant—to prevent tonight's pleasure from becoming tomorrow's tragedy.

OTHER PERSON'S FAULT—(1)—Traffic policemen keep busy all night. This minor accident occurred about 8 p. m. Patrolman Thomas C. Hempfield gets an account of how the collision happened. Patrolman Arthur J. Conrady stays in the car to take messages over the police radio.

"GET IN, BUD"—(2)—Men on the walking beats have a busy night too. This man became quarrelsome after a number of drinks so someone "called the cops." Patrolman Glenn P. Adams puts him into a car which will take him to the station to face an intoxication charge.

ROUTINE REPORT—(3)—Patrolmen must report to the police station every hour. While riding in the cruiser on routine rounds in the section of the city popularly known as the "Flats," Patrolman Floyd G. Bowers stops to call from a police box.

CLICK TO CLINK—(4)—Sometimes a desperate struggle ensues when an arrest is made. This man tried to escape Patrolmen Glenn P. Adams and C. E. Beard. The officers used their handcuffs and the prisoner was taken to the station manacled. Hs was charged with drunk and disorderly conduct.

FRISKED—(5)—When a man is taken into custody he is searched. This man was picked up near the railroad tracks on the complaint of a railroad guard who feared he might be injured by a passing train. Capt. C. W. Kyler and Lt. Howard Dickson search their prisoner while Traffic Patrolman A. E. Korn looks on in the background.

ALL'S WELL—(6)—The police captains check frequently with their men. Capt. Kyler talks to Patrolman Lawrence Harper about conditions on the beat. It is 3 a. m., the drinking places have closed, and the bulk of the night's activities has passed.

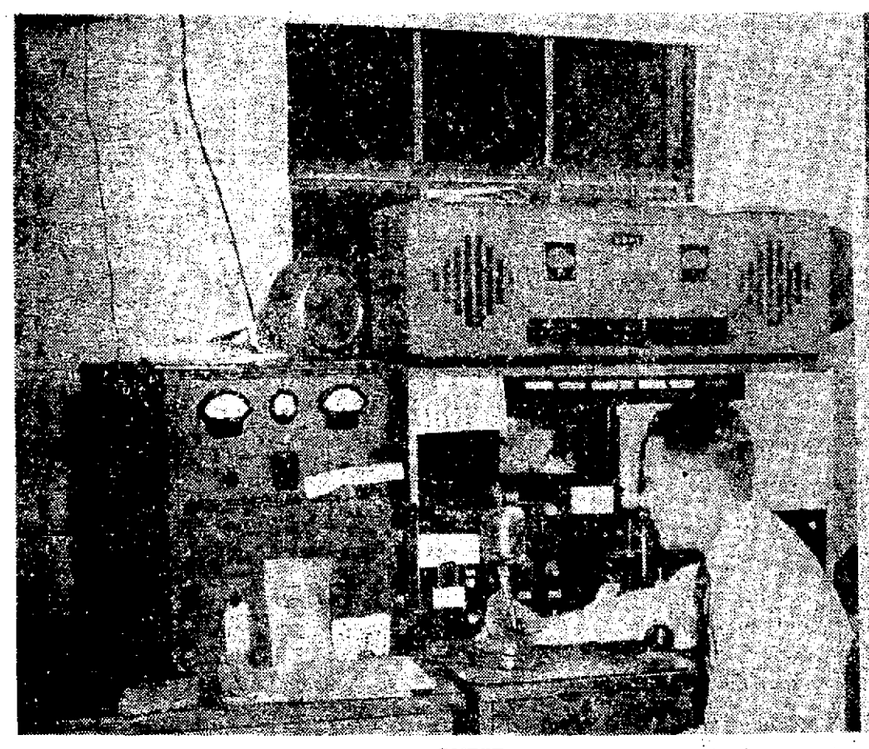
LOOKS AT LOCKS—(7)—Patrolmen walking the downtown beats check to see that doors and windows of business establisnments are securely locked. Patrolman Marion Hardesty checks a back door on a cluttered alley.

NERVE CENTER—(8)—The desk is the center of control, day or night. Deskman Carl Berry sits at the microphone of the police radio transmitting a complaint of trouble to one of the men on beats.

PAPER WORK—(9)—The night is approaching its end. Korn makes out an accident report after coming off traffic duty. All policemen make out reports of cases they have handled during night.

THE NIGHT ENDS—(10)—The time is 7 a. m., and the third trick is ended. The first trick will now come on duty. Officers Kyler, Korn, and Dickson unstrap their weapons and prepare to put on civilian clothes as their day's work comes to a close. They smile broadly as they anticipate the comforts of home.

LOOKS AT LOCKS



NERVE CENTER

PAPER WORK

THE NIGHT ENDS

Week End's Busy Period

All the parts of Mansfield's police structure are represented on an average Saturday night.

There's the traffic division investigating accidents. The two men have been on duty since 3 p. m. They're investigating the night's fourth accident.

At 11 p. m. the two traffic men will end their trick. They will be replaced by one man who will handle traffic duty until 7 a. m. Sunday.

Then there are the patrolmen who cover a beat in a cruiser. They pick up the inevitable stream of Saturday night drunks nabbed by patrolmen on the walking beats. They cruise through streets and alleys, alert for anything suspicious.

On one trip, just one man is taken to the station. The next time five men are loaded in. They are all charged with intoxication.

One of the prisoners has a large number of papers on his person. The officer searching him says, "You've got more papers than a lawyer." The remark is good for a laugh.

The third trick comes on. A captain and a lieutenant take over the police cruiser. They start on the rounds of business establishments in the city's outskirts.

All this time the deskman stays at his post in the station. He takes calls from people who report trouble. He relays such calls to patrolmen in a cruiser over the two-way radio. Or he signals men on the walking beats over the autocall system.

The night wears on and as the grey dawn begins to break, the blue-uniformed policemen come off their beats loking forward to the pleasures of their off-duty hours.

Crime Held At Low Ebb

The low growl of a siren—a quick glimpse of blue uniforms—a police car racing down Wanut street.

Brief impressions such as these bring into the public consciousness the fact that the police department is functioning.

Or it may be the "cop" you nod to as you hurry to work in the morning. Or you may have parked overtime at a meter once or twice, and have gone to the police station to pay your dollar.

All are fragments of the whole complex system of law enforcement, a system that has its roots reaching back to the time men first began banding together.

Few citizens give thought to the police unless trouble arises. Yet the uniformed guardians of the peace are always on the job, 24 hours a day every day in the year.

Although much of their work is routine, they must hold themselves in readiness at all times for the big emergencies.

Great Notre Dame Hustles for 14-14 Tie

Madison On Road Friday

With those all-important first victories under their belts, the basketball combines of Senior and Madison high schools are ticketed against strong opposition this week.

The Senior high Tygers of Coach Vern Hoffman battle a star-studded alumni aggregation Tuesday and then entertain a so-so Cleveland Collinwood outfit Friday. Madison has only one game on its week's docket, playing at Mt. Vernon Friday.

Jim LeMunyon's alumni crew may give the inexperienced Tygers one of their toughest tests of the campaign. The "grads" have such all-time Bengal greats as Nick Gagich, Jim "Stretch" Regula, Dick Burton, Ollie Cline and Ralph Majors. Gagich scored 406 points during the regular season last year to win all-Ohio honors and rank as the top scorer in Senior high history.

RECORD HOLDERS

Previous to Gagich's great season, Regula and Burton had held several of the Bengal scoring records. The 6-5 Regular had scored 29 points in a game but Gagich raised the mark to 34. Other squad members are: Bob Nikolaus, Louis Snavely, Jimmy Robinson, Don Hardy, Dick Flockenzier and Don Gross.

The alumni-varsity tilt will be a part of the sixth annual clinic sponsored by the Tyger booster club. The contest will wind up the show at 8:30 p. m. A parent's dinner has been scheduled for 6 p. m. with the clinic due to begin at 7:30.

Admission to the clinic and game is 50 cents for adults and 25 for students. All proceeds will go into the Senior high athletic insurance fund. J. Merton Holcombe's Tyger band will open the clinic with short speeches by Principal Glen Rohleder, Art Glattke, Tyger club prexy, and Augie Morningstar, director of athletics, following.

Coaches Hoffman and Fred Staub will introduce the members of the varsity and sophomore teams.

TAYLOR TO HELP

Chuck Taylor, basketball ambassador of the Converse Rubber company, and two squads of Tyger players will combine in the one-hour cage clinic. Last season, Taylor participated in 100 cage clinics over the country, appearing before 400,000 coaches, players and fans. He has 105 clinics scheduled this season.

Taylor has been plugging better basketball techniques for more than 20 years. Chuck's demonstration will include fundamentals of play, a shooting exhibition and ball handling show. Clair Bee, Long Island coach, calls Taylor "one of the leading teachers in the game."

Hoffman announced last night that coaches and players of all area schools will be admitted free to the clinic.

Senior high opened its schedule Friday night with an easy 49-to-30 victory over Elyria. Junior Jimmy Anderson singed the nets for 16 points. Collinwood fell before Cleveland Shaw in its opener Friday, 48-27. Last year, the Tygers edged Collinwod, 39-38 on the Cleveland hardwood.

GET SURPRISE WIN

The letter-less Madison club surprised with an upset victory over highly-favored Shelby Friday night, 45 to 38. The Rams of Coach Blaine Dowler notched seven points in an overtime session to win after leading through most of the encounter.

With all six regulars of the 1948 district championship outfit lost through graduation, Madison wasn't expecting too much this year. However the Rams exhibited a smooth ball handling attack which may give trouble to many teams.

Ray "Dutch" Bader, Ed Chelski and Jimmy Brightbill were the top men in the win over Shelby. Brightbill had 15 points and the other two contributed 10 apiece.

Mt. Vernon knocked over Galion, 53-50, Friday night.

Ohio Wesleyan Cagers Open With 66-49 Win

DELAWARE —(AP)— Ohio Wesleyan university cagers defeated Hillsdale (Mich.) 66 to 49 last night in a game opening the local basketball season.

Ohio Wesleyan led 32 to 22 at the half. Jud Miller, sophomore center of Columbus, led the victors' scoring with a total of 24 points.

Xavier Wins

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Xavier university opened its 1948-49 basketball season here last night with an easy 67 to 29 victory over Cedarville college. It was Cedarville's fourth defeat in five starts.

Just Some Yarns Picked Up From Sporting Scene

By Fred Tharp
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

SOME WEEKS AGO this column was loaded with some stories and quotes from the world of sports which had a cute twist. . . . The things got a good response. . . . Since then we've picked up a few more and shall pass 'em along without further ado.

★ ★ ★

Stanford had a miserable football season in 1947, losing all nine games. Coach Marchie Schwartz, the former Notre Dame great, recalls the day he was advising the squad that most games are lost in the line. One big tackle was wool gathering and Marchie asked him if he'd heard. The tackle said he had.

"Well, then," said Schwartz, "tell me, where are most games lost?"

The tackle thought a minute, brightened and replied:

"At Stanford, Coach!"

Oscar Fraley, Upee sports writer:
"My favorite sport is eating, free style."

★ ★ ★

Jimmy Conzelman, the humorist who coaches the Chicago Cardinals, believes that his Chicago coaching partner—George Halas of the Bears—has just about everything anyone could want in life.

"Most people would be satisfied either to have a million dollars or to own the Chicago Bears," cracks Jimmy.

"And look at Halas. He's got both."

There is one question that a heavyweight champion can expect to be asked just as long as he's around. The query, "Who hit you the hardest during your ring career?"

Of all the champions from John L. Sullivan to the present day, Joe Louis has come up with the most accurate answer. Says the Brown Bomber, "Why, that's easy. The income tax man."

★ ★ ★

Ed Miles in the Atlanta (Ga.) Journal:

"Jim Nolan, 6 foot, 8 inch flanker, dashed into the end zone as inconspicuous as the Washington monument."

★ ★ ★

Chuck Bednarik, Penn's All-American center, always said he would toss the pigskin into the stands if he ever scored a TD. He recovered a blocked punt in the end zone against Columbia for those six points and joyously tossed the spheroid into the stands.

The result was a 15-yard penalty against Penn for throwing away equipment. And to top it off, a manager climbed into the stands to retrieve the ball. All of which bothered Bednarik nary a bit.

★ ★ ★

A sophomore back from Iowa—Mearl Nabor—figures Notre Dame's football bark is worse than its bite. He played against the Irish without suffering a scratch.

Two nights later, dreaming the game all over, he lurched out of bed and cut his head on the floor.

★ ★ ★

John Barrington, INS sports writer, tells the one which happened at a banquet he was covering.

Fritz Crisler, Michigan athletic director, and Walter J. Livingston of Denison were jokingly (?) enumerating advantages of their schools for the benefit of track phenom Gene Cole of Lancaster.

Said Livy, "If you'll come to Denison, you'll be near enough home to see your girl friend whenever you want to, and we'll even build a special track for you."

Retorted Crisler, "Better still, Gene, come to Michigan and we'll give you a special-built girl friend."

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Notre Dame, the mighty Irish of football, all but fell off the pedestal of the Giants yesterday.

The Irish ran into a red hot Trojan eleven from the University of Southern California and were indeed fortunate to walk off the green grass of the Memorial coliseum clutching a 14-14 tie — a deadlock gained in the last 30 seconds of play.

Gone was Notre Dame's proud record of victories in 22 games. This one snapped that consecutive win streak at 21.

Saved, however, was their record of no defeats in 28 games. But that was thin syrup for a battle that found Frank Leahy's green jerseyed giants forced to scramble for a tie.

TWO IN FOURTH

Twice in the last quarter the under-rated, thrice-beaten Trojans bent the Notre Dame armor for touchdowns, overcoming a seven-point lead Notre Dame grabbed in the second period as a crowd of 100,571 people roared in joy or anguish.

Then, in the final minute of the game, 170-pound Bill Gay, a speedmaster from Chicago, took a Trojan kickoff and raced it back 87 yards before he was hauled down on the Trojan 13-yard line.

Reserve Quarterback Bobby Williams, filling in for the injured Frank Tripucka, sneaked up toward the goal for five yards. Time was running out. He passed to Gay in the end zone. It was incomplete. He passed again to Gay, and interference was called on a Trojan defensive man, Gene Beck.

Notre Dame got up to the one-yard line. The Trojans fought furiously. Fullback Frank Panelli managed to get two feet.

SITKO DOES

Then squat Emil Sitko, who broke the Trojan back with a 76-yard gallop in this game last year, went over for the tying touchdown.

Steve Oracko calmly kicked the point that gave the Irish the tie.

The Troys were both grieved and joyful. They had been figured to lose by 20 points—more as master Leahy so elected.

But they played inspired, alert football all afternoon. They saws the Irish fumble four times in the first half, and were never able to cash in, although once they got to within two feet of the promised land.

Notre Dame finally got around to scoring in the second period. Tripucka, with the ball on the Trojan 45, shot a pass to his giant right end, Leon Hart.

Hart, all 225 pounds of him, trudged, ran, jerked and tore his way 35 yards to score. At least half the Trojan team took a shot at him, some it seemed, a second crack. But he kept going, and Oracko made it 7-0 at halftime for the Irish.

Late in the third Halfback Jock Kirby intercepted a Williams pass and ran it back 12 yards to the

Toledo Grid Eleven Wins In Glass Bowl

TOLEDO —(AP)— The University of Toledo's Rockets made it three for three in the third annual Glass Bowl game yesterday, by taking a 27-14 decision from out-manned but scrappy Oklahoma City university before 8,500.

Lee Pete's passing was the major factor in the victory. The clever Rocket quarterback tossed two laterals and two forwards on scoring plays in the first, second and fourth periods.

The Rockets had too much power for the Chiefs, especially in the line, and much of the visitors' gains were made on Jim Wade's passes. However, Wade scored both touchdowns on runs of eight and nine yards in the final period.

TD PASSING

Pete tossed laterals to Jim Hays and Chuck Hardy and 12-yard and 16-yard forwards to Don Martin and Hardy for Toledo's scores. John Shutt of the Rockets adding three extra points on place-kicks. And Frank Bruno added the Chiefs' two extra points.

Wade was a standout for the losers. His passing and speedy end sweeps kept the Rockets under pressure all afternoon, despite the fact their lead never was in danger after the halfway mark in the first period.

Templeton, Ex-Tyger Ace, Named on East's Star Club

Dave Templeton, 1948 Ohio State football captain, yesterday was named to the 24-man team which will represent the east in the annual Shrine east-west New Year's Day classic in San Francisco.

The burly 225-pound former Mansfield Senior high school star had previously been chosen on several all-Big Nine squads and won honorable mention on All-America selections. He was Ohio State's outstanding lineman and was the "most valuable player" in 1947.

Three Notre Dame aces also landed on the squad.

Bill Coffman, Shrine game director, announced immediately after Notre Dame's final game of the season with USC that quarterback Frank Tripucka, fullback John Panelli and guard Bill Fischer would represent the Irish on the east squad.

The complete East team:

Ends—Warren Huey, Michigan State; Ed McNeill, Michigan; Bob Sponaugle, Pennsylania; Dale Armstrong, Dartmouh; William McPeak, Pittsburgh.

Tackles—Phil O'Reilly, Purdue; Ralph Kohl, Michigan; Al De Rogatis, Duke; John Finley, Penn State.

Guards — Bill Fischer, Notre Dame; Dave Templeton, Ohio State; John Simon, Penn State, Dolph Tokarczyk, Pennsylvania.

Backs — Frank Tripucka and John Panelli, Notre Dame; Gene Derricotc, Michigan; Bob Dean, Cornell; Gen Rossides and Lou Kusserow, Columbia; Frank Burns, Rutgers; Joe Sullivan, Dartmouth; Everett Faunce, Minnesota.

The West selection committee will meet here Monday to make its nominations.

Clemson Ends Unbeaten Sked

CHARLESTON, S. C. —(AP)— The Clemson Tigers finished their regular season with a perfect record and clinched the Southern Conference football championship with a 20-0 victory over a fighting eleven from the Citadel here yesterday.

A homecoming day crowd of 17,000 which included Gov. J. Strom Thurmond and other high state officials watched sophomore halfback Ray Mathews score all three Clemson touchdowns, one on a 60-yard dash down the sidelines with a pass from tailback Bobby Gage

Cop 17th In Row

NEW YORK —(AP)— City college's Eager Beavers turned in an impressive 70-57 victory over Brigham Young last night in the opener of a college doubleheader at Madison quare Garden. A sell-out crowd of 18,000 saw the Beavers ring up their 17th straight triumph.

Alabama Grid Club Smashes Auburn, 55-0

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. —(AP)— Alabama celebrated renewal of gridiron relations with Auburn, after a 41-year lapse, with an overwhelming 55-to-0 victory yesterday before 46,000 fans.

The victors dominated play throughout in all departments, but it was their pass attack, with Halfback Ed Salem doing most of the throwing, which turned the contest into a rout.

The two state schools broke off athletic relations back in 1907, after a 6-6 tie football game here. Auburn still leads in the series, seven wins to five.

Gals Pare Nails, Make the Passes In Grid 'Battle'

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. —(AP) — The girls made the passes at Indiana university yesterday and one of them brought the Revlon Roughnecks their first Powder Bowl victory, a 7-0 triumph over the Chanel No. 11's.

The Roughnecks, composed of sorority girls, lost the two previous games to the Chanels, representing the independent girls.

The touchdown came in the third quarter on a 20-yard pass from Phyl Rochelle of Lima, O., to Sue Raddar of Wilmette, Ill. Miss Rochelle also passed for the extra point.

Fingernails had been filed especially for the occasion.

Wilberforce 11 In Close Defeat

NORFOLK, Va.—(AP)—Striking for two touchdowns in the final four minutes, the Hampton Institute Pirates upset a previously undefeated Wilberforce State college team, 20 to 19, in the first annual Fish Bowl game here yesterday.

Favored by two touchdowns before the kickoff, Wilberforce looked as though it would make the predictions good by taking a 13 to 0 halftime lead. However, the Pirates came back with a tally in the third period and then staged their final scoring blast after a third Wilberforce touchdown in the third period.

Baseball Bigwigs Gather for Big Trading Session

MINNEAPOLIS —(AP)— The men who have replaced the horse trader as shrewd bargainers converged on Minneapolis yesterday for their annual carnival of buying and selling of baseball talent.

Sandwiched in between trades, purchases and sales will be sessions of the 47th annual convention of the National Association of Professional leagues, starting Wednesday morning for a three-day run. It is this organization that, generally speaking, develops and seasons the young ball players for major league teams.

It appeared that talent would be the big talking point in this year's trading, with money being relegated to a secondary role. Most clubs had good seasons last year, with the resultant full treasuries dulling the desire to peddle up-and-coming players without getting something potentially as good in return.

Every major league team with farm connections will have men on hand. In all, an estimated 1,200 representatives of virtually every league connected with professional baseball have indicated they will attend.

Michigan Cage Team In Romp

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (AP) — Michigan opened its 1948-49 basketball season here last night by easily trouncing Michigan State, 66-13, in a game that drew 7,813 fans.

Coach Ernie McCoy, making his debut as a head Wolverine coach, showed a smooth working ball club against outclassed Michigan State.

Duquesne Coach Resigns Grid Job

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Football Coach Kass Kovalcheck of Duquesne university resigned yesterday.

The very Rev. Francis P. Smith, president of Duquesne, said Kovalcheck did not say what his future plans were. Father Smith said no action had been taken on the resignation or on selection of a new coach.

Paul Ferguson, Mansfield Quarterback, Named to All-Ohio Squad

PAUL FERGUSON

Paul "Pinkie" Ferguson, Mansfield Senior high school's "Most Valuable Player," yesterday was named to the 22-man all-senior, All-Ohio football team selected by the state's scholastic grid coaches.

The slender 145-pound quarterback thus became another of the long list of Bengal athletic stars to gain statewide acclaim. Although his name missed the sport page headlines throughout the season, Ferguson turned in a fine job of ball-handling, passing and defensive play to catch the eye of the coaches.

Playing his first year as a regular, Paul completed 22 of 48 passes for 232 yards and toted the pigskin 25 times for 105 yards. He scored one touchdown against Dayton Kiser on an 85-yard pass interception. Actual value of Ferguson to the Senior high team, which won seven of 10 games, came to light when his mates voted him the huge Mansfield News-Journal "Most Valuable Player" trophy.

Ferguson, who shares the coaches' quarterback spot with Zimmer of Cincinnati Western Hills, was also elected to the Northern Ohio All-Star team. His teammates, Back Joe Biller and End Kenny Carver, were named as alternates. Miller had made second team All-Ohio on the International News Service squad and was given honorable mention by the United Press.

Two other Tyger stars — Back Ken Horvath and Tackle Dick Logan — participated in previous all-star contests.

Ohio's high school coaches, although still looking for a place to hold their annual North-South all-star game and football clinic, yesterday named the boys to participate in the classic next August.

The all-star affair, held the last two years at Canton, was believed to have been set for Springfield—but the Clark county city dropped out of the bidding today and left the situation up in the air.

A rotation system, sending the contest to the southwest district next summer, and then to the northwest, southeast and northeast areas the next three, was adopted.

Indications were that Columbus, with the Junior Chamber of Commerce as sponsor, might take charge of the all-star game and clinic next summer. The coaches, who hitherto had frowned on playing the fray in a college stadium, voted 226 to 23 in favor of playing on a collegiate field. Columbus C. of C. officials indicated they might try to rent Ohio State university's stadium for the event, should it be brought here.

Glenn (Tiger) Ellison of Middletown and Ray Schick of Newark were named co-coaches of the Southern All-Stars as they deadlocked in the voting, while Tommy Ness of Lakewood, former Wittenberg great, was a surprise winner of the coveted Northern head coaching job.

Back of Ellison and Schick in the Southern balloting were Fred Thomas of Martins Ferry, Herold Roettger of Lockland, and Chuck Thackera of Hamilton.

Herman (Bup) Rearick of Canton McKinley, only team to defeat Lakewood this season and second-placer in the final "Big Ten" standings, finished back of Ness, with Chuck Mather of Massillon, named coach of the year as mentor of the state champion Tigers, was third. Mather, who coached the Southern All-Stars a year ago, was ineligible for the head coaching job as a result of his previous try.

Buffalo Bill Team Plays Baltimore

NEW YORK —Buffalo will invade Baltimore today in the highlight game of the final week-end of the All-America Football conference 56-game schedule, with the eastern division title at stake.

The Bills (7-6) hold a one-game bulge on the Colts (6-7), and a victory for the home club would extend the season by one week, the Bills again going to Baltimore for a sudden-death playoff game. The eastern winner will meet undefeated Cleveland, which sewed up the western title with last Sunday's ding-dong 31-28 win over San Francisco.

The East-West championship game will be played at Cleveland Dec. 12 unless a divisional tie forces a postponement to Dec. 19.

San Francisco (11-2) will invade Los Angeles (7-6) in an effort to maintain its three-year sway over the Dons, with the latter resolved to finish above .500.

BROWNS FINISH UP

The defending champs from Cleveland will finish their season at Brooklyn (2-11), a club which held them to 13-12 last year and to 17-17 into the fourth quarter this year before losing, 30-17.

The visiting clubs will be favored in all games, and it will be little consolation to the home teams to reflect that the visitors have won the last eight games played in the AAFC.

In the event of a Baltimore victory, necessitating a play-off game at Baltimore Dec. 12 to break the tie, the sudden death method of determining the winner will be used if the teams are tied at the end of the regulation period. The referee will toss, with the visiting team captain calling it and, after a three-minute interval, the clubs will begin playing 15 minute periods until one has scored. The Conference championship game between the eastern and western winners, however, may end in a tie, the two clubs to rank as co-champions.

Ohio State Basketballers Open With 60-to-48 Win

Butler, apparently victims of a long train ride from Champaign where it had lost to Illinois Friday night 67-62, could not get going.

Dick Schnittker was top man for Ohio State's scoring with six field goals and seven points from free throws for a total of 19.

AAU Chooses Six Amateur Athletes For '48 Trophy

NEW YORK —(AP)— Five men and a woman were named by the Amateur Athletic Union yesterday as candidates for the James E. Sullivan memorial trophy for 1948.

The six, selected by a special committee at the annual AAU convention here, are:

Aline Banks of Des Moines, Iowa, feminine basketball star; Bob Kurland of Bartlesville, Okla., ace of the championship Olympic basketball team; Harrison Dillard of Baldwin-Wallace college, sprint and hurdles star who won the Olympic 100 meter title; Bob Mathias of Tulare, Calif., Olympic decathlon champion; Joe Verdeur of Philadelphia, Olympic swimming champion, and Henry Wittenberg of New York, Olympic wrestling champion.

The award is presented each year to the "amateur athlete who by performance, example and good influence did most during the year to advance the cause of good sportsmanship."

Cage Officials Must Attend

Jimmy Lymper, president of the North Central Ohio officials association, yesterday reminded all basketball referees in the area that they are required to attend four out of seven meetings in order to have their license renewed next season.

Lymper said that many officials had interpreted the rule to mean four meetings through the course of the season but that this was not the case.

"It is taken on a percentage basis," he said. "All officials must attend a percentage of meetings equal to four of seven to get a 1948-50 Ohio high school license.

Regular rules discussion meeting of the association will be held at 8 p. m. Monday night at the Naval Training Center. Movies will be shown.

2 National Teams End '48 Skeds

PHILADELPHIA — Two national football league teams will conclude their 1948 seasons this afternoon when five games, three in the East and two in the Mid-West, will be played.

Green Bay, which three weeks ago batled the Chicago Bears to within a single point of equalizing the score, will wind up its campaign by meeting the Chicago Cardinals in Comiskey Park. Boston will end its season by entertaining in Fenway Park the Philadelphia Eagles who last week clinched the Eastern Division Championship.

Three other games are listed for the next to the last Sunday of regular season activity with the Chicago Bears meeting Detroit in Briggs Stadium, Los Angeles matching runs, passes and punts with Washington in Griffith Stadium and New York's energetic young team playing Pittsburgh for the second time this season in Forbes Field.

TIED FOR FIRST

The Cardinals, tied for first place with the Bears, in the Western Division, will engage the Packers for the 49th time since the series started in 1921. Charley Trippi, Ray Mallouf, Elmer Angsman and the rest of the championship array piloted by Jim Conzelman, will face a determined Packer team headed by Tony Canadeo, second only to Van Buren as a leading ground gainer, and Jack Jacobs, the third best punter and one of the best passers in the league.

In the series the Packers lead with 29 victories to 16 for the Cardinals. Three games have resulted in ties.

In the other game in the West the Bears will meet Detroit for the 29th time. The Lions, with three of the league's outstading players in Camp Wilson, only nine yards back of Canadeo in ground gaining; Fred Enke, first year passer and ball carrier and the veteran Bill Dudley, will train their sights on the three L's, Luckman, Layne and Lujack, and the Bears' ace punter and ball carrier, George Gulyanics

The Bears hold the series advantage 18 to 8 with two ties.

Notre Dame 11 Catches USC For 14-14 Tie

Irish 42. Dean Dill was spilled for five yards loss, but made seven on a run. Then he passed to Kirby for 22 yards down the sidelines, and when the fourth quarter dawned the Trojans were on the Irish 15.

RUN IT OVER

Dill, electing to run instead of pass, raced up to the five. Fullback Bill Martin hit the line, that vaunted line of Hart, All-America Bill Fischer and the rest, for three. Art Battle added one more, and from the one-yard mark Martin found a huge hole on the left side of the Irish line and sailed through standing up. Dill's placement tied the count.

With three minutes or less left to go, USC got the ball again in midfield. Kirby tipped off 16 yards. Dill found an end, Ernie Tolman, for 16 yards. He made six himself to reach the 12, and Martin hit the line for six more. Battle took it to the three and then Martin found a weak spot on the other side of the Irish line and crashed through. Dill converted.

THINGS LOOKED BAD

It looked like the Irish were set to receive their first defeat since a Great Lakes Navy team did the trick, 39-7, in 1945.

Then came Gay's spectacular return of the kickoff and the resultant wild, climax, and USC joined the company of that great 1946 Army team which played Notre Dame to a scoreless tie.

Oddly enough, the Trojan team was frankly disappointed. Coach Jeff Cravath, however, who had promised his boys would play a 60-minute battle, was hardly displeased

Quarterback Frank Tripucka of Notre Dame, injured and carried from the field on the last play of the second quarter, suffered a bruised kidney and possible rib fractures, trainers said. X-rays will be taken.
